Beauty And Beaver

By Thornton W. Burgess

To eyes alone will look appeal, But set 'em character reveal.

—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy and the Old Hermit were visiting the pond of Paddy the Beaver deep in the Green Forest. They were sitting quietly where they could see all over the pond, but were not likely to be seen by anyone there. They were hoping to see Paddy and Mrs. Paddy. Those two are bawful full folk of a retiring disposition when anyone they do not know well appears.

"Listen Someone is coming!" whispered the Old Hermit. From behind them came the sound of wings and a sort of peeping voice. "Beauty the Wood Duck," whispered the Old Hermit before they even saw the swift flying little Duck.

Passing almost over their heads a small Duck came down on the water over near the house of Paddy the Beaver. There he rested for a moment smoothing his plumage and getting every feather settled in place. Then he swam over to Paddy's house and climbed up on the roof. There he was in full sunlight.

One of the most beautiful birds in all America," whispered the Old Hermit. "Can you imagine them wanting to shoot anything so lovely?"

There he was in full sunlight. Before Farmer Brown's Boy could say anything a brown head

French, Russians Complete Talks; Little Progress

By ROY ESSOYAN MOSCOW (AP) — The French and Russians ended four days of haggling talks Saturday night with the signing of a communique which demolished French hopes of winning any Soviet support in their struggle with Algerian rebels. The signing ceremony, delayed more than four hours by wrangling over North Africa, followed a gala Kremlin reception at which Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev bluntly proposed toast to the Arabs and all people struggling for national independence.

The communique, signed by Premier Mollet of France and Bulgarian of Russia, declared the Soviet hope that France will be able to solve its Algerian problem "in the spirit of our epoch and in the interest of the peoples."

Charge Peron Ordered Flag Burning Incident

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Government investigators charged Saturday that Juan Peron, the deposed dictator, personally ordered the burning of an Argentine flag so it could be blamed on Roman Catholics.

The incident was said to have occurred the night of June 11, 1955, when Catholics demonstrated against Peron's dictatorship at the height of his feud with the Church. The investigators reported that Peron, interior minister Angel Gabriel Borlenghi, federal police chief Miguel Gamboa and 18 others, mostly policemen, were involved.

rebid of one heart was presumably based on a four card suit. From North's view there seemed to be enough honor strength to force to the game level, but he could find no satisfactory bid over one heart to represent his hand correctly.

West played the king, queen and jack of spades, declaring trumping the last one. Three rounds of trump revealed that West had started with four of them. South continued with clubs until West ruffed the fourth one. A diamond was then led by West, and declarer was able to make only the ace of diamonds for down two.

South could have made the hand if he had discarded his losing diamond on the third spade lead. The diamond was a loser on any line of play, and this was as good a time as any to concede it. By trumping the spade South in effect was banking all his chances on a 3-3 trump break, but by throwing a diamond he makes the hand whenever the adverse trumps are 3-3 or 4-2. This one play changes the odds from nearly two to one against the declarer to over five to one in his favor.
