School Lunch Program Stresses Balanced Meal

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN
One billion, eight hundred thousand meals was the total served through the United States' National School Lunch program in 1957! This is a tremendous investment in child health and good growth, encouraging the safeguarding of the welfare of the nation's children by making it possible for them to secure more nutritious food.
NON-PROFIT BASIS
"And this program is operated on a non-profit basis?" inquired the Chef.
"Yes," I replied. "And lunch must be available to all children regardless of their ability to pay and without discrimination. Federal funds expended in a state for the purpose of meeting the costs are matched with funds from sources within the state."
"The meals we have observed when visiting school lunchrooms looked very appetizing, Madame."
"Yes," I agreed, "and, moreover, they are also tasty and balanced. The 'type A lunch' is the pattern for a fully balanced meal. It is more carefully planned and prepared than many children have at home."
Pattern for balanced Type A lunch:
1. Beverage—½ pt. whole milk.
2. Protein—2 oz. cooked lean meat, poultry or fish; or 2 oz. cheese or 1 egg; or ½ c. cooked dry beans or peas; or 4 tsp. peanut butter.
3. Three-fourths cup vegetable or fruit or both.
4. One or more portions of bread or muffins or other bread made of whole grain or enriched flour.
5. Two teaspoons butter or fortified margarine.
Tomorrow's dinner: (Based on pattern for Type A school lunch) Carrot sticks, radishes, baked crumbled fish fillets, lemon wedges, popped potatoes, savory green beans, cheese muffins, raspberry gelatin, whipped topping, hot or iced coffee or tea.
