CAMPBELL'S QUININE WINE.

INVALUABLE in cases of Loss of Appetite, Weak or Painful Indigestion, Malaria, Lowness of Spirits, Fevers of all kinds, and as a general Strengthening of the System when weakened by changes of the season.

It is necessary to remember that there are many so-called Quinine Wines, but that the GREAT ORIGINAL is "Campbell's," and that the genuine bears our signature upon the label. The best proof of its value is the fact that its sale at the present time is larger than ever before.

The following certificate shows how CAMPBELL'S QUININE WINE is appreciated. Having submitted two samples of Quinine Wine, imitations of the genuine, along with a sample of our own, to the Public Analyst, we received the following reply:

"CAMPBELL'S is the only genuine Quinine Wine of the three samples examined at Messrs. Kenneth Campbell & Co's. request."

Scientific Miscellany.

THE EARTH'S UNSTEADINESS.—It has been pointed out that the shifting of masses of air and water may explain the recently observed changes in the earth's axis of rotation. A German physicist, Herr Lamp, notes the displacement northward of the maxima of air-pressure in the trade-wind region, and of ocean currents, as the sun rises in summer; and that the water passes back to the southern hemisphere as our winter approaches. It is calculated that the change observed in the latitude of Berlin (about 5 seconds) would be brought about by the movement of 2,500 cubic metres of water from 30° south latitude to 35° north latitude, producing a rise in sea level of only four inches. The reality of the oscillation of the axis is to be tested in different parts of the world—including the South Pacific—by further observations, and the results will be awaited everywhere with great interest.

A WEALTH-SAVING CONCEPTION.—A most extraordinary discovery is that claimed by M. O. DeClussen, a Russian engineer, who has been experimenting in London with a new stove. Finding that much free oxygen escapes with the unburned fuel from chimneys, this experimenter concluded that—contrary to ordinary theory—less draft and higher temperature are needed in order to get perfect combustion. He secures these in a stove three feet high by one foot in diameter, lined with fire-brick. Only the lower portion of the coal burns, a very small current of air being admitted to this, and passing upward sufficiently hot to cause its remaining oxygen to unite with the carbon monoxide gas in the upper portion of the coal. The products escaping into the chimney are colorless and quite cool, and if the statements, made are to be accepted, less than 3 per cent. of the possible heat is lost, instead of the 80 or 90 per cent. ordinarily wasted.

M. Olzowski has found that liquid oxygen, instead of being colorless, has a bright blue color. He concludes that the blue of the sky may be due to the air's oxygen.

ONE OF IRELAND'S WOES—Ether-drinking in Ireland, according to Dr. Ernest Hart, seems to date from 1842. The greatest consumption of ether was in 1876, after which there was a diminution, recently followed by an increase, until at the present time the amount used nearly equals that of 1876. The supply comes mostly from large English establishments. From two drams to half an ounce is the quantity usually taken, and this is repeated from two to six times a day. Intoxication is quickly produced, and quick y passes away. Somewhat less bodily derangement seems to result from ether than from alcohol, the effects of an extended use of the former being usually a train of nervous and circulatory disturbances, while moderate drinkers suffer from stomach troubles. Moral deterioration is a marked effect of ether-drinking.

TRAVEL OF THUNDERSTORMS.—The rate of travel of thunderstorms has been studied by Herr Schonrock, from the records of 197 such storms in Russia in 1888. The velocity is found to have varied from 13 to 50 miles an hour, with a mean of 28.5 miles, diminishing to 28 miles in the hot season and increasing to 32 miles in the cold season. It was least in the early morning, increasing to a maximum between 9 and 10 p. m. The thunderstorms travelled most quickly from southwest, west and northwest.

EARTH ODOUR.—Two French chemists, Messrs. Berthelot and Andre, have investigated the cause of the powerful odor that rises from vegetable mould after a fall of rain. They find the essential principal to be an organic compound of the aromatic family. Its odor is very penetrating, and analogous to that of the camphors; its proportion in mould is only a few millionths, but one three-millionths of a gram is sufficient to produce a sensible smell.

The new commercial museum at Rome will include a permanent exhibition of national products and of such foreign products as may be used in Italy. Its purpose is also to make foreign products known throughout Italy, and Italian products in all other countries.

ZOOLOGICAL BOUNDARIES.—Naturalists recognize a certain number of what we might call zoological centres of population, says Dr. F. L. Oswald, and it seems strange how completely a narrow marine channel has often prevented the four-footed natives of such regions from colonizing a neighboring continent. Asia, for instance, at one point almost touches the archipelago of the Sunda Islands, which seem to form a series of stepping stones to the Australian mainland, yet the zoological contrast between Labrador and Brazil is not greater than that between Hindoostan and Australia. From such centres of distribution as Burma and Bengal a hundred different mammals have spread north and west, but only three of them, a wild dog and two species of rodents, succeeded in making their way to the land of the kangaroo.

GAS COOKING.—Gas is becoming very popular in Brussels for cooking purposes. The price has been greatly reduced since the introduction of electric lighting, and the gas companies supply special stoves at an annual rental of about ten per cent. of their total value. Many different kinds of gas stoves have been invented. Monthly lectures on the use of gas as fuel are given, with weekly lessons in cooking by means of gas stoves. Cooking by gas has important advantages for hot weather.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS Mrs. Winsloe's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best-known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winsloe's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. mar23i eod & wky lyr

Oddfellows' Natal Day.

The Oddfellows will celebrate their Natal Day this year on an elaborate scale. As a return for kindness and support from the sister town, in celebration of the Order in this city in other years, a grand excursion to Summerside is advertised for Monday next. A special train leaves here at 9 a. m. (local), sharp, bearing Oddfellows with their sisters, etc., press representatives, a band of music, and all friends who can join the party. Arriving at 11 o'clock, or shortly after, ample time is given for dinner and sight-seeing till evening. At 2 o'clock the different lodges and encampments meet at Market Hall, and, clothed in street regalia and headed by the band, will proceed along the principal streets to the new Oddfellows' Hall, in the Crabbe Block, which will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. In the evening a grand concert is to be given in Market Hall, by the Oddfellows of this city and leading musicians, the programme for which embraces a first part, to include an orchestra overture, choice readings, vocal and instrumental solos and duets, and a song and parade of the Royal Irish Fusiliers; and the second part will consist of an hour of old-time minstrelsy, mirth-provoking and free from any objectionable feature. The evening will be made more enjoyable by the presence of an efficient orchestra of eight pieces. The special train leaves for Charlottetown at close of entertainment. The low fare of $1 for the round trip ought to ensure a large excursion.

Entertainment at Hope River Hall

The general debating section of the Agricultural Society of Hope River gave a free-for-all closing entertainment on Thursday evening last. Among the large audience present we noticed a goodly number of strangers, who, notwithstanding the almost impassable roads, made it a point to be in Hope River for the occasion. Mr. P. P. McGuigan, as President, with his genial and unaffected manner, does away with much of the usual rigid formalities, making strangers feel quite "at home." It was doubtless owing to this, as well as to the influence of his brother, Mr. John McGuigan (who, by the way, is a member of the room committee and spokesman for the ladies) that the Hall was graced with such an appreciative audience, and that so good a programme was gotten up. It was as follows:—

- PART I.
Address—F. P. Cullen
Song—"Katie O'Brien"—Miss M. Murphy
Reading—"Thomas Pendergast Recitation"—Miss Quin
Song—"The Moon and I"—John P. McGuigan
Elocutionary Exhibition—James E. Fleming
Song—"Tread on the Tail of My Coat"—A. Steele
Reading—"A Model Housewife"—Miss M. E. Pendergast
Vocal Duet—"Never Take No for an Answer"—Misses A. McInnis and M. Leonard
Recitation—"Turkish Dyes"—Arthur Trainor
- PART II.
Address—"Progress"—Mr. P. Reid
Song—"Katie O'Brien"—A. C. Cullen
Reading—"Robert Dunnington Vocal Duet"—"We Know Our Worth"—W. Pendergast and Miss S. Murphy
Recitation—"Gathering Shells by the Sea Shore"—Miss Kelly
Song—"Gathering Shells by the Sea Shore"—Andrew Dorant

The entertainment closed with the laughable farce, "An Old Time Breakdown." The Misses McInnis and Leonard displayed voices of such exquisite richness and sang with such intense fullness of feeling that a gentle murmur of admiration ran through the whole assembly and attracted all eyes to the fair vocalists.

Mr. Dorant sang in a voice wild and unmodulated as the strain of the song-thrill, but sweet and thrillingly distinct on every emphasis, and produced an effect on the assembly which, perhaps, a far more accomplished vocalist might have attempted in vain. Mr. Cullen has a very peculiar way of singing. He made it a point to wind up each stanza in a nasal tone of at least three bars duration. It was generally conceded that if he had a good voice and would undergo a course of training he would make a singer. Taking the performance as a whole, it was creditable, and reflects not a little credit on the actors therein. When we next meet we expect something really good, and with that hope separated singing: "Then Here's a Hand my Trusty Friend."

Mink River Road Notes.

The roads are drying up considerably. Mr. George Finley, of Boston, is now in this settlement, where his parents live. He has been, during the past few weeks visiting his many relatives and friends in this vicinity. The invigorating spring weather of his native Island agrees with him, and his many friends at home and abroad will be glad to know that he is looking hearty as usual.

The large and commodious store at Murray Harbor North, owned by Hon. James Clow, is filled with a well selected stock of merchandise, which will bear inspection. Hon. James Clow is one of our most enterprising business men, and there is no doubt but he will receive more than an ordinary share of patronage this spring.

Messrs. Samuel Johnstone and Martin Lanigan have been enlarging their outbuildings. They are two of our progressive young men.

A number of men belonging to the district left in the past week for the United States, and more are intending to leave by the first of next week. Their friends here wish them a safe passage and every success.

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results.
