

Short Month Of Long Days

Even though we take every care as to how we spend our hours of these delectable days...

And here in this countryside of trees, in hedgerow and grove and woodland the vision picks up the wildings in blossom: apple now, and rowan with the fetchingly scented heads of bloom.

Now the seedtime as we have it on these farms is done, fields sowed and planted and left in an orderly pattern along slope and level place.

"Don't find a daisy," Granddaughter wished recently.

"Wouldn't it be nice," she commented, "if we could have two summers in one year?"

"Now what work shall we take up today?" was the question the morning posed to the farmers.

Between showers a spot of fencing to allow wider range for the young cattle, to give them access to stampland now in a phase of its clearing—

That is warranted by the moon that washes now the farmlands with her silver. So silent are the surroundings.

"Put down the teapot, Ellen. Cook up a bit of steak or some bacon on the garden. We'll make it a real lunch," James smiles.

"We're likely to have a pretty busy day tomorrow."

Until tomorrow — — — Diary Goodnight.

As the guests entered the modern building, the sense of spaciousness, combined with all that is the latest in lighting, heating and ventilation was commenced upon with interest and enthusiasm.

Of particular interest to women is the modern decorating. The muted pastel colors are enhanced by large painting in colors that blend with the color scheme.

In spite of being chosen for modern decoration purposes these pictures still achieve a distinction, and for those looking at them all day long are companionable.

A most out of town visitor lingered in the various rooms enjoying the decoration and admiring the pictures.

She was enthralled with it all. "They are so attractive, modern painting in every detail!"

"And yet surrealistic," added her husband with a chuckle.

The modern office furniture is decorative and functional. Each desk seems to take on the personality of its particular possessor doing a grand job.

There are many new people at the Guardian and there are many of the old guard.

There are men and women who came from public school to a job on the Guardian. They still serve with great skill, loyalty, and affection.

It was good to see the craftsmen—those who literally keep the wheels turning—the reporters, the office staff, and feature writers whose names are household words.

The official party occupied an especially constructed dias. The setting here was a wine mosaic carpet, flanked either side with tall solid brass standards.

The backdrop was the enlarged copy of the special edition of the Guardian. Baskets of flowers filled the building. Music was furnished by Mrs. Pope.

After the speeches, and the Governor had pressed the button to start the press rolling the guests repaired to the Charlottetown Hotel. A delicious buffet supper was served there.

It was a pleasant happy day in Island history all the way through.

Twenty-three members of Acme Rebekah Lodge, Montague, enjoyed a delicious lobster supper in the lodge rooms, Thursday evening at the close of the regular business meeting.

The committee in charge was convoked by Mrs. Doris Llewellyn and Mrs. Irma MacLaren.

Mrs. R.G. MacDonald, R.N., Matron of the Kings County Memorial Hospital, Montague, left Thursday for Winnipeg where she will attend the biennial convention of the Canadian Nurses Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKenna, Hamilton, Ont. are guests of Mr. McKenna's father, Mr. P.J. McKenna, and Mrs. McKenna, Montague.

Miss Barbara MacLure, R.N., Toronto, Ont. is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacLure, Montague.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, have left on return to Detroit, Michigan, after visiting Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hennigar, Montague.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel MacGregor, Montague, accompanied by their daughter Miss Shirley MacGregor, Charlottetown and Miss Thelma Larter, Charlottetown, returned from a pleasant visit with relatives and friends in Boston and other cities in Massachusetts.

Miss Laurene Wood who has had a most successful year in Household Economics, University of Toronto, arrived by plane Thursday evening to spend her vacation in this Province.

Prior to leaving Toronto Miss Wood was visiting with her sister (Pauline) Mrs. MacLeod and Mr. MacLeod at their summer home in the beautiful Lake Couchiching District.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wood, Mt. Herbert.

A word has been received here that Mrs. Jessie Larter, 53 Villa ave., Charlottetown, has been elected to the office of Grand Chaplain of the L.O.B.A. in the most wonderful Grand lodge of British America.

The election took place at the Annual session which was held last week in the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. G. Chester McClure, Manager of Public and Industrial Relations of Business and Economic Service Limited, 32 First Street, Toronto, will be in Charlottetown Saturday and Sunday in this Province.

Mr. McClure graduated from the University of New Brunswick and Queens University. He is the son of the late Mr. George McClure, for many years with the Civil Service in Ottawa and natives of this Province.

Another native of this Province, Mr. W.R. Fraser, of Fredericton, the latter were accompanying Mr. and Mrs. McClure on the trip and while in Charlottetown were guests of their friends the Reverend A. F. MacLean and Mrs. MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. Chester McClure called on Mrs. W. Chester S. McClure and Miss Lena McClure at Bonaventure.

The ladies attending the Maritime Pharmaceutical Association Convention were entertained at a coffee party Monday morning. The setting for this lovely party by Holmans was in a large merchantise lounge room.

From the spacious windows, the guests had a splendid view of historic and modern Charlottetown.

The table appointments were in gold and blue, the colors of the Pharmaceutical Association. The ecru lace cloth was centred with an elongated floral decoration of the small golden yellow mums, blue iris, red tea roses and white carnations. The tapers were in blue.

Pouring tea at the Silver services were Mrs. John Turnbull and Mrs. J.K. Macdonald. Mrs. Turnbull, Toronto, is the wife of the secretary manager of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Society.

Mrs. E.L. Johannes, Toronto, was delightedly carrying her lucky door prize—a steam iron. Navy and pastel shades were the predominant colors in the smart ensembles worn by the ladies.

Music was furnished by Mr. Pope of Holman's. The party was convoked by Mrs. Earle C. Baker, president of the Ladies Branch of the P.E.I. Pharmaceutical Society.

Mrs. Hazel McCarron, St. Mary's Road, was hostess to the members of the ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Montague Branch, Tuesday evening, June 12th. A brief business period was conducted by the president, Mrs. Thomas Clair.

In the absence of the secretary, the correspondence and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Jessie Shaw. Mrs. Shaw also read the financial report which showed a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. Wellington Campbell reported for the visiting committee. Twenty-four members responded to roll call and one visitor was present.

Arrangements were discussed for holding the annual picnic at Wightmans Point in July and Mrs. Atwood MacDonald and Mrs. Archie Hildey were appointed on the purchasing committee, with the officers in charge of the program.

At the close of the meeting a delicious lobster supper was served by the committee assisted by a committee of members. A musical program followed and included guitar and vocal selections by Danny and Leith McCarron, organ selections by Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Hildey, and a hearty singing.

There is to be no meeting in July. Refreshment committee for August is Leone Ross, Edna Seaman, Marjorie Trewin, and Helen Vessey.

Another lovely Prince Edward Island custom, even in the three years old, is the annual Apple Blossom Tea held by the Cross Roads Women's Institute. The setting for this tea, Wednesday, 20 June, was at "Fruitland Farms", the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Reeves.

There were many guests from Charlottetown and the surrounding communities.

Before having tea they walked or drove around the farms to view the apple blossoms. At the tea hour the table was in the centre of the lawn and was decorated with a bowl of tulips. The chairs were arranged around the table in a good luck horse shoe style.

Admission was expressed for the table appointments in this beautiful natural setting. The fine old Canadian Maples were particularly impressive.

The preside of Cross Roads Women's Institute, Mrs. Lloyd Balderston welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Edwin Stewart and Mrs. F.S. Reeves poured tea. The assistance was given by the women's institute and other community ladies.

There were 19 members and 1 visitor present at the monthly meeting of Parkdale W.I. on June 8th. This being Citizenship month the meeting opened with O Canada. Roll call was answered by "How can I best serve in my community?" The treasurer's report showed the finances to be in a satisfactory condition. The shipment of blankets is on the way and should be arriving shortly.

KEEP IN TRIM

Best Beauty Measure Is A Regal Carriage

In spite of protective nutrition, miracle promising creams and a keeping young philosophy, after 40, alas, something seems to happen to the chinline.

Resistance exercises are effective since they work the underlying muscles hard without stretching the skin.

The best beauty measure is regal head carriage, for when the head is balanced the throat muscles are braced on the job.

Place tip of chin in the heel of hand, and press along the jawline, in a firm, kneading action.

Working up toward the ear, concentrate on working the muscles under the skin, rather than stretching the skin.

Follow this with knuckle massage. Fold hand into a fist, and "work" along the jawline with the knuckles, shifting the position, working up toward the ear, first.

The jawbone is covered by broad flat muscular bands which originate underneath the jaw, extend upward and attach to the cheek bone.

Keep the skin on the front of the throat snug. One muscle toning technique is with friction massage.

Place tip of chin in the heel of hand, and press along the jawline, in a firm, kneading action.

MARY HAWORTH

Brooding Wife Dead And Does Not Know It

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have a problem which I am sure is of my own making; therefore I need advice to help me solve it. I have been married eight years and have two children, and am very happy except for one thing: my husband was married before, when he was very young, a fact that bothers me. I know about it before we married, and thought that it didn't matter. Now, however, I find myself thinking about it all the time, especially the sex factor.

This first marriage was very unhappy and ended after three years, leaving Harry (my husband) quite sour against women. From the little he has said, I gather there wasn't much sex life in the marriage, due to his wife's attitude; and as he found out later, it was because she was interested in other men.

EVADES QUESTIONS

I don't know why I keep brooding on this, and I know I shouldn't; but I have developed a deep resentment of my husband's intimacy with her. There are many things I would like to ask him about their life together; but I know he doesn't want to discuss it, as he rates it all a big mistake, and a disgrace to himself and his family.

I realize I'm unfair to Harry and to our marriage in feeling this way. But in his arms I always think of his first wife, and it makes me sick. It preys on my mind, and I feel I just can't go on like this any longer. H. Y.

SEX FRUSTRATION?

DEAR H. Y.: Your angry envious preoccupation with imaginary concepts of Harry's sex life with his first wife suggests that your own experience of sex with him may be unsatisfactory; and that he is, perhaps unknowingly, a chronic witless offender against a wife's hopes and needs of reassurance on this score.

Also it suggests that you may be a jealous clinging person, unduly dependent upon your husband to be your "all." And that your life is too narrow, too ingrown, to sustain healthy personality. Perhaps your emotions are centered on household and children and self, with "me"-feelings, not "we"-feelings, your focus of interest, in Harry's arms.

In all probability, your mind has no farflung range of favorite projects that engage and exercise and refresh your energies, outside the home. Such as gardening, golfing or sailing, for instance, to put you in harmony with nature. Or such as club work or church work.

Do not doubt the sturdiness of your existence, due to your lack of outgoingness, does a lot to foster your sorehead disposition towards Harry's aborted first marriage.

In any case, whatever the inside story, the obvious remedy for what ails you is: 1. Talk things over with a qualified counsellor, until you are purged and relieved of the whole dreary weight of your multiple frustrations. 2. Then study your circumstances, with this expert's help, to determine what social activities are available, into which you might channel your erstwhile wasted potentials of love and friendship and civic usefulness.

As of now, you aren't really living. Read "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life" (Revell) by Hannah Smith, to get on the beam of what you've been missing. M. H.

"Balanced" Lunches For Motor Trip Picnics

Two young boys can't wait for July to come. It means vacation time which has been anticipated, worked for and planned during the long winter.

It means they will be motoring and having a good time with their mother and busy father, George Alexander, whose long days in his successful business in New York City, keep him at work even past the dinner hour.

He told me: "The boys have been planning this summer's trip ever since we returned last year from a vacation by car to Canada. They have decided we'll go to Nova Scotia—this is their own project, you see."

SENT FOR MAPS

"First they sent for maps, then picked out places of interest to visit. Next they figured out the most economical route to travel."

"All I can allow is $45 a day for a 10 day vacation—that's for 4 persons. It includes gas, oil, motels, food—all expenses except the boys' spending money which they earn."

"They take many color motion pictures to show to school and church groups. The older boys act as Master of Ceremonies. I buy the film; the boys pay for developing the pictures."

"How can 4 persons manage to motor and travel comfortably on $45 a day for all expenses?" I asked.

BOYS FIGURED

"The boys had to figure that out, as they're in charge of the exchequer," he replied.

"We buy a good breakfast at a restaurant. We have a leisurely picnic lunch on the road of bread, cheese, cold cuts, fruit and milk."

"The boys shop for the food and we take it along in a car refrigerator. We always carry chilled fruit juice in a thermos as roadside water supplies are not always safe."

"There's no danger of child delinquency in this family. The boys are busy, interested and happy in a remarkable home partnership of mutual love interest, and constructive work."

The following lunches are balanced and supply bulky foods helpful to assist elimination during long periods of sitting.

Wife Preservers

If you buy one of the new leather jackets, see that it is the washable type, as many are. These should always be washed in soap and water, as their dyes do not react well to cleaning fluids.
