WHEREVER the English language is spoken, the after war romances of the great Civil War of the United States are read with avidity. None which have so far appeared have more human interest than the latest from the pen of Bret Harte. Its title, which appears at the head of this column, is the name of the heroine, and the story is charmingly written in the great novelist's best vein. The characters are all clear cut and show an amazing grasp of the situation as well as the natural results which might be expected from the conditions which surrounded them. Bret Harte, the prolific writer, has never given to the world a better story than that now offered in Sally Dows to our readers.

The story is appropriately illustrated, a few simple illustrations being given herewith.

In Blinding Storm.

NEARLY THREE HUNDRED RUSSIAN CONVICTS PERISHED.

Advice from St. Petersburg give the details of a sad case of life among a band of convicts bound for the prisons of Siberia. The band numbered in all three hundred and seventy-four persons, including a large number of persons sentenced to exile for political crimes. In accordance with the custom, the convicts were marching to their various destinations. They had spent the night in Tomsk, Western Siberia, and continued their journey early in the morning. A snowstorm was prevailing, and when six hours' march from Tomsk, the storm had become so severe that all the roads were obliterated. Chained together, the convicts struggled on, until gradually the weaker ones fell in the deep snow, dragging the stronger ones down with them. Despite the efforts of the cossack guards, the exhausted people could make no attempt to save themselves, and they were abandoned to freeze to death while the others were driven forward, those in charge of them hoping to get them to shelter. The storm continued to increase in violence, and the traveling became worse and worse. Now and then the prisoners would drop by the wayside, where they would soon be covered by the rapidly-falling and drifting snow. When the guards managed to get what few remained of their charges to a place of safety, they found that of the 374 persons they had started with, only 91 survived. Sixty-two of those who had perished were political prisoners. Among those lost were Madame Lazarov, six other women, and four children.

A Dangerous Joke.

A few months ago a person hardly dared say they had La Grippe for fear of ridicule. And now that one-half of our population have had it, the other half are in mortal terror for fear they too will have it. We cannot wonder; for no epidemic scourge has ever visited this country and left such a trail of death and sorrow behind. The best loved members of families from state armies down to the humblest state in life have perished.

It has been the ripples and after-drops from La Grippe that have been so appalling. The death rate in many larger cities has exceeded 100 a week from the "grip" alone; and the end is not yet. Physicians are learning to fear (much more than the epidemic itself) the serious and fatal extension of the inflammation downward to the throat and bronchial tubes, causing croupous and catarrhal pneumonitis, true as quercus of the malady; which terminates in death or produce severe laryngitis, bronchitis, asthma and a form of catarrh which contributes largely to chronic disease of the ear, nose and throat, causing loss of hearing, smell and taste. Those physicians who have been most successful with the epidemic say, the surest treatment has been with tonic and anodyne remedies. The medicine most relied upon have been Quinine, Astringent, Salicylate of Soda, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, etc. A prominent Boston paper announced in January last that more persons had successfully used the last named medicine than all the others combined. That seems reasonable for the effects from La Grippe cause severe inflammation, and it is a well known fact that for nearly eighty years no remedy has taken the place of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for every form of inflammation, internal or external. Therein lies its great value as a household Anodyne, namely: the fact that it is and can be used more internally than any other way. At any rate, if one has any symptoms of the after dangers of the Anodyne at once, or send to the sole manufacturer, Dr. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., for full particulars which they send free, and which may save you a big doctor's bill. mar15 d6i w11

COD LIVER OIL has long been justly celebrated as a lung healer. Alone it is difficult to take, but combined with the Hypophosphates in Futtner's Emulsion, it is agreeable to the taste, and is equalled by any other medicine for weak lungs.

In a ball room. Doctor to General—It is not gallant of your officers to dance the whole evening with the young girls and to utterly neglect the elderly matrons, who are the best preserved. General—Everyone to his taste, my dear sir. Soldiers always prefer what is fresh; what is preserved.

USE SKODA'S DISCOVERY, the great blood and nerve remedy. "Professor," said a gentleman recently to the famous Professor Baskie, of Edinburgh, "may I ask the secret of your happiness?" "Yes," replied the genial Professor, "who in his old age is as sprightly and merry as a schoolboy, 'here is the secret. I have no vain regrets for the past. I look forward with hope to the future and I always strive to do my duty."

THREE BILLIARD TABLES and two POOL TABLES. JOHN JOY.

The Telephone Company OF P. E. ISLAND.

PARTIES using the Telephone would find it talking much more satisfactory if they would observe the following rules: 1st. Speak with the mouth about four inches from the transmitter. 2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, not too loud and distinctly. 3rd. Use the hand which is on the ear, not as if you wished to shut out all other sounds. Do not press too hard on the ear. 4th. It is possible to talk and hear when standing back 10 or 15 feet from the transmitter, if you speak loud enough, but it is not a pleasant mode of conversation, is entirely unnecessary, and is a useless waste of wind and lungs, besides being very annoying to all within range of your voice.

IT REACHES THE AGED SUFFERER.

MR. THOMAS PETERS, A Veteran of the Civil War Hale, Hearty and Happy at three-score and ten. GRODER'S SYRUP. HIS FAMILY MEDICINE.

THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CURE CO. GENTLEMEN:—I am now seventy years of age, and have been out of health the past fifteen years. My suffering has been greatest during the last five years, when I have been in constant pain from weakness and distress of stomach. At different times I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, and sharp pleuritic pains, distress from eating any kind of food, and became so bloated from wind on the stomach that breathing was difficult. Nervousness kept me awake night after night. My physicians could give me only temporary relief, and my troubles returned again and again until I learned of your medicine and began to use it regularly. From the first there was a marked change in my condition, and to-day I eat heartily and with good digestion. I am free from constipation, my health is better than at any time since the war. I firmly believe in Groder's Syrup, for it has made my old age a painless one. My wife too has used your medicine with entire satisfaction. Yours truly, THOMAS PETERS, WINSLOW, MAINE. Notice Trade Mark—The Bear. At all Druggists, $1.00 per bottle. Guaranteed to Cure. THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CURE CO., LTD. SAINT JOHN, N. B.
