—SPECIAL RALLY AT BORDEN UNITED CHURCH — On Sunday last the Bedeque, Searletown and Cape Traverse United Churches cancelled their regular services for a special rally at Borden of the Sunday schools in the afternoon, and church service in the evening, both of which filled the Union Hall to capacity. The junior choir, which led the singing at both services, is a new feature in Borden, and is an organization of which any community might be justly proud. With Rev. Arthur Organ at the piano, the choir of thirty young voices responded as a unit to his leadership, singing with good expression and in perfect time, evidencing very careful training. In the afternoon, besides the congregational hymns, the following very fine program was rendered, each of the four Sunday schools taking part: processional hymn "The Church's One Foundation," junior choir; "Father, We Thank Thee"; recitation, Harold Bell, "Where Are the Men to Help"; song, Cape Traverse S.S. "The Wise May Bring Their Learning"; junior choir, "A Gladsome Hymn"; solo, Norma MacFarlane, "Jesus Wants Me For a Sunbeam"; recitation, Marion Wright, "Jesus Loves the Little Children"; song, Searletown S.S., "Jesus Bids Us Shine"; recitation, Eleanor Lord, "I'd Like to Send a Message"; song, Cape Traverse S.S., "The Ships go out to Sea"; junior choir, "A Little Seed Lay Fast Asleep"; solo, Ruthie MacFarlane (aged two), "Jesus Bids Us Shine"; pageant, Bedeque S.S., "The Choice". Rev. Fred M. Young, M.A., B.D., pastor of Tryon United Church, in a brief address urged the pupils and teachers to mae their Sunday school "glow and grow." The junior choir sang as a retiring hymn. "Come, Children, Join to Sing." The guest speaker at the evening service was Rev. Ross Flemington, headmaster of Mount Allison Academy, who gave a splendid address, based on the first verse of the ninetieth psalm, showing how God has been with His people from age to age, and that we are now the inheritors of all the ages. Besides the congregational hymns, the junior choir rendered the following numbers: processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation", "God, Who Made the Earth," "A Little Seed Lay Fast Asleep," "He Loves Me," "Have You Had a Kindness Shown." Special mention should be made of the very beautiful children's anthem "He Loves Me," composed by Rev. Arthur Organ, which the junior choir sang spiritedly during the service, and as a retiring hymn.—D.

Awaiting Opening of Alpine Club

(Special to the Guardian)

JASPER, Alta., July 16—Awaiting the opening of the thirty-first annual Alpine Club of Canada camp in the rugged valley of Fryatt Creek some thirty miles southeast of Jasper, the advance guard of mountain climbers has already arrived. The little band of ardent alpinists is tuning up wind and limb for the yearly mass attack on the great rocks of Canada.

The camp opens this year on July 18 and will close Aug. 1. Tents will be pitched at 5,400 feet in an area that is little known and will provide a number of first ascents. For hardier climbers an auviliary camp will likely be established at the head of the creek valley where Mounts Fryatt, Belanger, Lowell and Lapensee offer a fine challenge. The new government highway has made this year's location possible by opening up a territory hitherto extremely difficult of access. As a result the trail into camp from the highway is only seven miles. It has attracted an entirely new group to the annual camp in the Montana Mountaineers, an organization associated with Missoula University

Scores Evil of Alcoholism at Convention

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

SYDNEY, N.S., July 15. — "The great evil of alcoholism with satantic power is spreading over this continent with devastating effect upon the morals and economy of our people," H P. Newcombe of Halifax, Most Worthy Patriarch, declared today in his presidential address to the 92nd Annual National Convention of the Sons of Temperance.

"The Sons of Temperance have fought the curse of strong drink for nearly a century. In this day the ravages of the traffic, developing as it is upon fronts undreamed of in the old days, especially endangering the welfare of the youth of Canada and the United States, presents a tremendous challenge to this total abstinence institution.

"The reports appearing daily in our press show the increasing frightfulness of this devilish traffic.

"The effects of drink are reaching the height, or rather the depth, in society, hitherto unsuspected. It is robbing the home of its happiness, and men, women and children, travelling on our highways, are its victims.

"In high places and among the honored of this land it has found a nestling place. The brewers and distillers, even a large section of the press and many others, are fattening from the profits of the traffic to the disgrace and shame of our nations.

"Where the governments have engaged themselves in the vending of liquor, the shame becomes greater. Some day a great popular indignation will be aroused which will surely sweep this from the land."

E. R. Nickerson of Halifax, Most Worthy Scribe, told the 300 delegates government sale of liquor had been tried long enough to prove it was valueless as a means of reducing consumption and illicit selling.

CANADIANS START FOR BERLIN TODAY

(By Elmer Dulmage, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL, July 16—The main party of Canada's Olympic team, ready to shoot for Olympic titles at Berlin in 11 divisions, will sail from here tomorrow morning on the Duchess of Bedford. More than 100 athletes, officials, coaches and newspapermen will make up the party.

Six days before the games open Aug. 1, the Canadians will settle in what has been called the most sumptuous Olympic village yet devised. They will disembark from the steamer at Havre, France, and travel to Berlin by train.

After much scurrying about in many cities and towns, competitors appeared financially fixed tonight for the voyage.

Oarsmen are already in Berlin, the Hamilton Leander eight having sailed July 3 and Charlie Campbell of Toronto following the next day on borrowed money. Campbell, Canadian and United States singles sculling champion, slipped away without the consent of the committee.

The main party will be made up of the following groups, barring last-minute surprises: Men's track and field, 22; women's track and field, seven; swimming, 22; paddling, eight; cycling, five; wrestling, four; fencing, nine; basketball, 22; yachting, two; boxing, seven.

Sam Manson of Hamilton was in active charge of the team, succeeding M. M. (Bobby) Robinson of Hamilton, manager of the last two Olympic teams. P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, and W. A. Fry of Dunville, Ont., President of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, also will sail tomorrow.

British Women Turn to Maids

BOSTON, July 16—(CP) — Anna Steese Richardson, who began a generation ago to coax United States women away from their hot stoves and in the direction of gas ranges and electric refrigerators, now considers the plight of their British sisters.

Scheduled to tell the Advertising Federation convention about women's demand for truth in advertising, she switched her subject at the last minute, giving her hearers what is happening in the households of England as she saw them while visiting the country recently.

"The women of Britain know nothing about housekeeping," declared the sturdy septuagenarian, pioneer of advertising. "They haven't known anything about it for generations. They have depended on a huge staff of servants. Now all the munitions factories—working, in fact, overtime.

"The dear English women have no resourcefulness," Mrs. Richardson continued. "They can't turn to and do housekeeping as we would. They won't learn. They just sit and weep for their maids."

Mrs. Richardson admitted that she had been entertained in England, and entertained magnificently, but always in hotels and cafes.

The viewpoint of baffled British women deprived of their servants is alien to us in this country, Mrs. Richardson asserted. "Tell our women there is a scarcity of maids and they would reply 'We'll do it ourselves, and cook a dinner right out of the advertising columns."

The condition of housewives in Britain is terrible. "And that my friends," declaimed Mrs. Richardson, "is where America should cash in."

"The women of England," Mrs. Richardson concluded, "they will still go to Ascot, trail long chiffon dresses through the mud until they are past cleaning and throw them away the next day."

Overseas Nurses Bored With Life

(Canadian Press)

BULAWAYO, July 16 — Bored with life in Great Britain, 10 trained nurses arrived here recently "in search of adventure." They are under a three-year contract with Rhodesian hospital authorities. Five come from Ireland, four from England and one from Scotland.

"I just got tired with things in England," one of the nurses said. "It was a sense of great adventure that made me come out here.

"There are so few opportunities in England. There was no future; one just had to go on nursing, nursing. There is no scope there. I heard Rhodesia was a beautiful, vast country, and I decided to come out and see a fresh country."

Another nurse said if she had stayed on she would have stuck in the hospital "till the end of time." She had been in the same hospital eight years and had "got no further."

Another said she had heard that in Rhodesia natives did all the hard work and nurses merely attended to the patients.

"The pay is about the same as we get in England," she said, "and the work appeared to be more congenial. In England nurses fall more or less in the same category as domestic servants."

They all agreed that it was a "great adventure," and looked forward eagerly to their new start in a new country.

is the OLD Province of QUÉBEC

"Charmant," that is the word! There is a charm everywhere in old Québec; charm in the beautiful scenery, in the old French architecture, in the Normandy farm houses; charm in the people themselves, in their old-time hospitality, in their old-world customs, their way of living — weaving, rug making, wood carving. They have learnt how to live, these French people — how to be content. Life moves at an unhurried, restful tempo. They find time still to be courteous and gracious to visitors and amongst themselves.
