The Home Rule Bill.

The scene in the British House of Commons when the vote was taken on Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, is described by correspondents as one which will never be forgotten. The House was crowded from floor to ceiling, and the Peers' Gallery was filled to overflowing. In the ranks of spectators stood many foreign ambassadors. The Strangers' Gallery was full to suffocation. Mr. Gladstone rose to speak at 11.30 and was greeted with loud and long continued cheering. Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Morley were on his right, and Messrs. Childers and Mundella on his left. Lord Hartington and Sir Charles Dilke sat immediately behind him. Mr. Chamberlain occupied a corner seat on the second bench below the gangway closely beside Mr. Maine. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach looked confident, and Lord Randolph Churchill nervously twisted his moustache. Parnell sat between Sexton and Thomas O'Connor, and Messrs. Dillon, Healey and O'Brien were near by. Gladstone spoke with great energy, and his thrusts at Chamberlain were keenly relished and excited roars of laughter. Chamberlain sat with his head resting on his left arm, not moving a muscle until Gladstone finished, at 1.07 a. m., the Premier having spoken one hour and forty minutes. The Speaker finally put the question, and a tremendous shout arose, when he asked those in favor to say "Aye," and an equally loud cry when he asked for the nays. The Speaker requested the yeas to go to the right and the nays to the left. Messrs. Morley and Major Banks were appointed tellers for the yeas, and Messrs. Brand and Cairne for the nays. The members filed out rapidly, and at 1.15 a. m. they returned to their seats, and the space below became crowded. Way was made for Gladstone. The Irish members cheered the Premier and howled at Chamberlain. The latter paid no attention to the derisive yells of the Irish contingent. When Brand announced the result the pent up excitement culminated in loud, long and triumphant Unionist cheers, the Conservative rank and file shouting themselves hoarse. Chamberlain and Cairne sat immovable, and the Ministers appeared resigned. The Parnellites waited patiently for the Conservatives to exhaust their strength, then en masse at a concerted signal they set up louder shouts. A voice cried out three cheers for the "grand old man," and the House seemed to rise at the call. It was a historical scene, the greatest since the passage of the Reform Act in 1832. Lord Randolph Churchill was the first to discover that the Government was defeated, and by waving his hat and indulging in other joyous demonstrations he aroused the enthusiasm of the members of the Opposition, who rising waved their hats and cheered again and again. When the figures were announced the noise was deafening. The Parnellites rose and challenged the vote. Mr. O'Connor called for cheers for the "grand old man" which were given with a gusto by the Government supporters, and Sir William Harcourt and his companions rose and bowed to Mr. Gladstone, who was somewhat embarrassed. The Parnellites called for cheers for Chamberlain which were given with shouts of "Traitor" and "Judas Iscariot." Chamberlain merely laughed. When Cairne was elected Mr.

THE BELFAST RIOT.

Fight Between the Police and the Mob.

Many Persons Killed and Wounded.

BELFAST, June 11. The police charged the rioters a dozen times last night with bayonets, but each time were forced back by volleys of stones. The police were finally forced to take refuge in a barracks, whence they fired upon the mob from the second story windows. The mob, however, held their ground twenty minutes longer, although the firing of the police was very heavy and incessant. Scores of rioters were wounded and it is known positively that six men and two women were killed. A great many wounded persons were carried away by their friends, and whether their injuries were fatal or not is yet unknown.

The Canvass.

THE Protestant Union says:—"With regard to Mr. Morris, as the candidate selected for Charlottetown and Royalty, in the Liberal interests, we have nothing whatever to say. The 'convention' which selected him, no doubt, clearly saw, that a 'dealer in strong drink' would naturally 'take' among the supporters of the 'traffic.' We are, however, in a position to know that not a few of the most attached friends of the same party are deeply grieved that a 'dealer in strong drink' in a city and province where the Scott Act is in full force, should have been brought out as its representative, and further, that they believe their party has been compromised, and dishonored by such a choice."

The Summerside Journal remarks:—

"The present Administration has the credit of being the only one that did any real earnest work with regard to the fulfillment of the Terms of Confederation. Even the Opposition have admitted that the delegates presented their case ably and admirably in London; and we submit that the work so well begun can best be accomplished by those who made the good beginning. And moreover we fear there are reasons to gravely distrust the Opposition policy on this most vital question—if the debates of last session are any criterion."

And again:—"This record of the Sullivan Government is a good one; and the electors should pause before placing the reins in hands that have not yet shown that they are capable and safe."

An Other Scene.

In the course of his speech on the second reading of the Home Rule Bill, Mr. Parnell said: "It has been made an argument against the honesty of my declaration with regard to the final character of the settlement that I have claimed the right of protecting Irish manufactures, and that this bill gives no protection to the Irish manufactures. Undoubtedly we claimed that right, but it was not when the Liberal party was in power that the speech at Wicklow about protection was made, but at a time when we had every reason to know that the Conservative party, if they should be successful at the polls, would have offered Ireland statutory legislation with the right to protect her own manufactures. (Loud laughter and Ministerial and Home Rule cheers.) This would have been complied with a settlement of the Irish land question on the basis of purchase on a larger scale than that now proposed by Mr. Gladstone. Sir Michael Hicks Beach denied utterly and categorically that the late Conservative Government had any such intention as Mr. Parnell attributed to it. Mr. Parnell—"Does the gentleman deny that an intention to grant a Parliament and to protect Irish industries was communicated to me by one of his own colleagues, a Minister of the Crown?" (Loud Parnellite and Liberal cheers.)

The Fisheries.

CAPTAIN SCOTT AT GEORGETOWN—THE SCHOONER "CRITIC."

CAPT. SCOTT, R. N., arrived at Georgetown, on the 7th inst., on the steamer "Beaver," to inspect with the schooner "Critic," employed by the Dominion Government to protect the fisheries. Capt. McLaren—the owner—has had her ready for inspection since the 7th ult. We are pleased to learn that the inspector was highly pleased with the vessel, and he complimented the owner very highly for the manner in which she was fitted up. There is a large saloon for the men, over which there is a skylight, built of pitch pine, with glass lights in the sides and a grating top. She has first-class stern and side davits for boats. The cabin is spacious and tastefully painted and furnished—the largeness of the apartment being principally due to her being ballasted with iron dross from the steel works of New Glasgow. The "Critic" is of about 70 tons burthen, was built at La Have, N. S., and launched about one year ago. Competent judges pronounce her a handsome model, well built, with bottom copper fastened. She is a fast sailer, and though carrying a large quantity of canvas is very weathery, drawing ten feet of water aft. The gig-boat is 24 feet long, has cedar planking, copper fastenings and teak wood fittings. Capt. McLaren, who has been appointed commander, is busy shipping men and providing stores before proceeding to N. S. for armament and ammunition. A chief gunner or instructor from Halifax will join her there. When equipped, she will be to the American who will dare trespass within the three-mile limit.

The Fisheries.

Sir Michael—"Yes, I do that—Cries of 'Name and order'—to the best of my knowledge and belief" (Ironical cheers.) If such a statement was communicated it was without authority from my colleagues. (Laughter and shouts of name from the Government benches)—Will the hon. gentleman give the name.

Mr. Parnell—"The gentleman has asked a question which he knows to be a very safe one to ask. (Cries of order.) I shall be glad to name the gentleman when I receive permission from him. (Loud cheers and counter cheers.)

Sir Michael was unable to proceed owing to the continued shouts of "Name," "Name," and the Speaker interfered.

The Fisheries.

WINNIPEG, June 11. Alderman Woods has been appointed Canadian Agent General to Australia to develop a trade with Canada. The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company will tender for the mail contract between Japan and British Columbia, to connect with the C. P. R. It is again rumored that the C. P. R. will establish a line of Atlantic steamers.

Adrift in a Dory.

COW BAY, June 11. Levi Sparks, of Liverpool, N. S., and John McDonald, of Port Hastings, C. B., of the Gloucester fisherman Frederick Perry, who got adrift from their vessel, have been picked up and brought here. They were without food for three days.

The Presbyterian Assembly.

HAMILTON, June 11. The Presbyterian Assembly agreed not to discipline members marrying deceased wife's sister. Thirty thousand dollars have been voted for Home Missions in the Northwest.

A Warning.

ST. JOHN, June 11. Evelyn Manning, a servant girl, poured paraffine oil in the stove to start the fire. It exploded and seriously burned her and a nine months' old infant and a ten-year old girl.

Another Fenian Invasion.

MONTREAL, June 11. The Irish American Fenians threaten to invade Canada because the Home Rule Bill has been defeated.

Sentence Extended.

MONTREAL, June 11. Viau, the leader of the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary revolt, has been sentenced to twenty-five years extra imprisonment.

The Methodists Flourishing.

HALIFAX, June 11. Both Halifax and St. John district meetings of the Methodist Church report marked increases of membership and contributions.

Weather Bulletin.

Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the Maritime Provinces. TORONTO, June 11—10 a. m. Moderate winds, mainly fair; moderately warm weather.

JUNE 10. Thomas H. Heckman vs. Dugald McArthur. This was an action for assault and battery and commenced this morning. The circumstances relating to the assault appear to be that in February last the defendant met the plaintiff on Water Street, Summerside, and charged him with having told stories about him. The plaintiff denied doing so, the defendant insisted that he had, and plaintiff says that defendant, without warning, threw him down on the ground, and as a result the plaintiff, who is a dentist in Summerside, and a delicate man, was injured so as to be unable to attend to his business, and claimed $500 damages. The defendant admitted the assault, but claimed that the plaintiff had attempted to strike him with a walking stick, and that he threw the plaintiff to the ground to save himself from being struck—in other words his defence was that the plaintiff first assaulted him, and that what he did was done in his own defence. The case attracted some interest as the parties all reside in Summerside, and the principal witnesses in the case were some of the "boys" of Summerside. The jury after some deliberation found a verdict for the defendant. Mr. Morson and Mr. McQuarrie appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Hodgson, Q. C. and Mr. Wyatt for the defendant. James Banks vs. William Banks. This was an action brought for a breach of an agreement. The parties are father and son. There was no defence except some legal objections, which were reserved and a verdict given for $100. Morson & McQuarrie for plaintiff, Hodgson, Q. C. and Wyatt for defendant. This was the last civil case for trial and the jury were discharged. To-morrow the Scott Act appeals come on for hearing.

FISHING FLEET AT CANSO. BAIT WANTED.

CANSO, June 11. A large fleet of vessels are anchored in Canso Harbor. Among them are six Yankee seiners and one banker—the Annie Jordan. She is reported to have brought bait from traps at White Point. The schooner Matthew Kenney, lately in trouble at Souris, is anchored here. The captain said they had done nothing and he could not get bait without risk of seizure, had abandoned the voyage and was taking his vessel home.

American Fishermen Threatening.

BOSTON, June 11. The Globe says: "Fishermen are organizing to take the law into their own hands, and defend their property and business by force of arms, unless the Government speedily does something for their protection. Seventy-five sail have banded together at Black Island, and at Vineyard Haven over one hundred sail have organized. They propose, if the Government daily too long, to arm and drive off all Canadian vessels on the high sea, and destroy their fish. They have a detective in the provinces to notify them when fish are to be shipped by rail, and means will be taken to stop their importation. Said one of the men: 'We will carry six pounders, and some schooners can carry as high as eighteen pounders. They will fish on the high seas, keeping three miles from the shore, but they propose to protect their rights and will get mackerel. We can blow their cutters out of the water.'"
