Island Fishermen Not Included In Loan Scheme?

Fisheries Minister Announces Appropriation Of $100,000 To Assist Needy Fishermen In New Brunswick.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BATHURST, N. B., July 9.—Hon. J. E. Michaud, federal minister of fisheries, made two important announcements today while here to attend the funeral of the late Hon. P. J. Veniot.

(1) The Dominion Government has authorized a contribution of $100,000 for the establishment of a fund to provide small loans for needy fishermen in New Brunswick. This is contingent on the provincial government making available a like sum (provision for which, it is understood, has already been made). The fund will be administered by the provincial department of lands and mines.

(2) The Dominion Government has completed arrangements with the extension department of St. Francis Xavier University whereby an educational program emphasizing co-operative principles will be provided for fishermen along the eastern coast of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The fishermen's loan fund, Mr. Michaud explained, is similar to that set up for the Province of Nova Scotia. The funds were provided for in the supplementary estimates.

The idea, the minister said, is to set up a permanent fund from which fishermen who are in need will be granted short term loans at a low rate of interest, to assist them in repairing nets, boats, and other equipment and to help them to secure new tackle at the opening of the fishing season.

The fund may also be drawn on in times of emergency when fishermen are subjected to heavy loss due to marine disasters such as sudden storms. Mr. Michaud emphasized the fact that the loan fund is to be administered by the Province.

The object of the educational extension program, he said, is an attempt to raise the social and economic standards of the people engaged in the fishing industry.

Study groups will be conducted along the coast where all fishermen regardless of the extent of their learning may meet under expert guidance to study the advantages of co-operation.

Mr. Michaud announced that the extension work will be under the direction of Dr. F. M. Coady, of St. Francis Xavier University, who has already done notable economic work in the fishing industry in Nova Scotia. In New Brunswick the active field instructor will be Father Levin Chlissan of Shippegan.

The St. F. X. method is being adopted because it has already proved its worth in Nova Scotia and is being emulated elsewhere with marked success. Mr. Michaud said, adding that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had proposed a similar movement some 20 years ago. "We discussed the plan at length while enroute to Bathurst," the minister stated, "and the Prime Minister is very much in sympathy with the idea."

DEATH OF WELL-KNOWN NEWSPAPERMAN

J. W. H. Sutherland, Publisher of New Glasgow Evening News, Passes In 65th Year.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) NEW GLASGOW, N. S., July 9.—J. W. H. Sutherland, publisher of the Evening News, a daily newspaper serving Pictou County and the North Shore of Nova Scotia, and the Free Lance, a weekly, died suddenly in hospital here today following a brief illness. He was in his 65th year.

Apparently in good health until a few days ago, when an X-ray revealed a stomach disorder. Mr. Sutherland underwent an operation this morning and failed to rally. He died soon after it was performed.

He was associated with the Evening News and the Free Lance for more than 20 years and was widely known in the Canadian newspaper field.

For many years he was an active member of The Canadian Press and lent his efforts toward co-operative news gathering in the Dominion as well as in the Maritime Provinces.

A prominent figure in his native county of Pictou, Mr. Sutherland held office in the New Glasgow Town Council, was chairman of the Pictou County Power Board, a past president and member of the board of the Victorian Order of Nurses in New Glasgow and a member of the hospital board.

Austro - German Accord Reached

Pact Will Prevent Hapsburg Restoration, Is Belief — Nazi Refugees To Return Home.

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) VIENNA, July 9.—Germany and Austria, strongly prompted by Italy, have reached an extensive accord which would temporarily prevent a Hapsburg restoration, diplomatic quarters believed tonight.

Legitimists, however, were still keeping up a show of courage in face of a seven-point accord in principle, worked out in negotiations between Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Franz von Papen, German minister to Austria.

A source close to Italian and German diplomatic circles said the negotiations, now in the third week, almost broke down, but after promptings by the Italians, the two nations were on substantial agreement on these seven points:

1. Nazi party ban in Austria to be continued.
2. National elements (friendly extension of German, but not necessarily of Nazi influence) to be permitted actively.
3. National exponents to be included in Austrian Cabinet not later than next fall.
4. Germany's willingness to support all Austrian measures aimed at equality, which might, for example, include the building up of the Austrian army to 400,000 or 500,000 men.
5. Amnesty for persons convicted of or in concentration camps for Nazi activity.
6. At least a part of Austrian refugees now in Germany to be allowed to return home without risk of punishment.
7. Efforts at trade normalization including lifting of Germany's 1,000-mark visa requirements for Germans going to Austria. (This has hurt Austrian tourist trade).

France Terminates Mutual Assistance Pact With Britain

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, July 9.—France officially announced termination of her Mediterranean mutual assistance agreement with Great Britain tonight.

Officials said the government had informed Great Britain and Italy that she considered the arrangement promising her assistance in the case of an Italian attack on the British fleet ended when sanctions were lifted.

Sanctions are to be lifted July 15 upon recommendation of the League of Nations coordinations committee.

France's action, it was indicated, was taken in an attempt to satisfy Italy and win her participation in the forthcoming Locarno conference at Brussels, as well as in the Dardanelles conversation now in progress at Montreux.

The agreement was reached shortly after the League instituted sanctions against Italy. It promised French aid and the use of naval bases for the British fleet in the Mediterranean in the event of a clash with Italy.

Officials said the French ambassadors communicated the decision to London and Rome.

Diplomatic sources declared France had discussed the question with Italy before reaching a decision. They said Italy indicated if France renounced the Mediterranean agreement, she would send a letter guaranteeing France against German attack as called for in the Locarno agreement.

It also was learned in official circles Italy probably would remove at least one division from Libya following Britain's decision to take part of her fleet from the Mediterranean.

Official said it was hoped dropping the Mediterranean agreement would show Italy that France "really wants her friendship."

United States Is Now Canada's Second Best Wheat Customer

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, July 9.—The United States is now Canada's second best wheat customer and sales to that country are continuing at the rate of about 1,000,000 bushels a week. Short crops in the United States last year and prospects of short crops in Canada as well as the United States this year have kept United States buyers in the Canadian market.

The present relationship of cash wheat prices in the two countries is regarded here as favorable to entering the United States to pay a duty of 42 cents a bushel and the spread between cash wheat prices at Minneapolis and Winnipeg goes a long way towards taking care of the duty.

United States customs figures show that about 44,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat entered that country so far this crop year or since Aug. 1, 1935.

If these imports maintain their present rate for the next four weeks the total for the crop year 1935-36 will be close to 50,000,000 bushels, compared with 25,000,000 in the crop year 1934-35.

Man. Election Manifestoes Issued

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) WINNIPEG, July 9.—Manitoba's election campaign hit a high tempo tonight with manifestoes of four parties before the electorate and meetings being held throughout the province.

Ninety-seven candidates have been nominated in 43 rural constituencies and in the 10-member constituency of Winnipeg. Voting in two rural constituencies—Rupert's Land and The Pas—has been deferred until Aug. 21 with voting day July 27 in all other constituencies.

The Liberal-Progressive party, headed by Premier John Bracken, has named 42 candidates for the 53 seats to be decided July 27. Conservatives have nominated 33; Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, 13; Social Credit, one and others eight. Several recommendations for nominations have been made by the Social Credit central executive but no selections have been announced.

Premier Bracken, head of the government since 1922, is appealing to the electorate on the "sound policy of his administration. His manifesto asked approval in recognition to seek adjustment of municipal debts and a fresh start for people in farming areas hit by drought.

Ernie F. Willis, Conservative leader, promised elimination of the two per cent wage tax and reduction of costs of government by not less than $1,000,000 in a year. Interest rates on the provincial borrowings, the Conservative manifesto said, would be honorably reduced to permit a saving of not less than $1,000,000 a year. Debts would not be repudiated.

The C. C. F. manifesto called for establishment of an economic council to make a survey of resources of the province and assist the government in organizing the resources through public ownership. Re-opening of the provincial savings bank and socialization of finance were proposed.

A basic dividend for adults and for younger people to guarantee their education was promised in the Social Credit manifesto. The dividend would guarantee food, clothing and shelter to all.

Fix Date For Thanksgiving

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, July 9.—An Order-in-Council, fixing Oct. 12 as Thanksgiving Day, has been passed by the Government, it was announced today.

participation in the agreement was on a slightly different basis from that of Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia. Although France's potential assistance was most important in the pact, it was realized she had less to fear from Italy than any other power, and therefore less reason to keep the agreement in force.

Employers Ask Govt. To Evacuate Strikers

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, July 9.—Employers in several French cities called upon the government tonight to make good its promise to evacuate strikers from factories by using police "without bayonets."

Soon after Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro told Socialist deputies he would use armed force "with care" if other means failed, chambers of commerce in Nimes and Limoges and local authorities in the Norman city of Brieux asked the government to clear out stubborn strikers.

The managements of three large Strauberg plants, newly occupied by workers after employers tried to cut down working time, asked similar action.

Growing discord within the ruling Popular Front appeared at a meeting of Socialist deputies, with some Radical Socialists charging Communists were "at the bottom" of the strike trouble.

Salengro, repeating his promise to evacuate factories, warned of a possible Rightist attempt to create disorders on Bastille Day, July 14.

Effect On British Policy

LONDON, July 9.—News of France's disavowal of the Mediterranean Mutual Assistance Pact came tonight only a few hours after it had been officially announced Britain was reducing her naval strength in the Mediterranean.

Official comment was lacking but parliamentary circles wondered whether the rate of moving warships away from the Mediterranean Sea might not be slowed down as a result of the new development.

It is realized here that France's

All Engagements Off For Next Few Weeks

Lord Tweedsmuir To Take Rest On Doctor's Advice

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) SAINT JOHN, N. B., July 9.—His Excellency much regrets that for reasons of health he is compelled to cancel his tour to the Maritimes, said a message received from Lord Tweedsmuir's secretary this evening by Chief Justice J. B. M. Baxter, administrator of New Brunswick in the absence of the Lieutenant-Governor.

QUEBEC, July 9.—Recurrence of an old stomach disorder has led Lord Tweedsmuir to cancel all engagements "for the next few weeks" on his doctor's advice.

A formal statement from the Governor-General's secretary announced the cancellation today a few hours after Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir had returned to the vice-regal quarters in Quebec's citadel at the end of a short cruise on the St. Lawrence and Saguenay Rivers.

The announcement said: "Owing to the return of an old gastric complaint, His Excellency the Governor-General regrets that, acting on the advice of his doctor, he must cancel all engagements for the next few weeks."

There was no indication as to Lord Tweedsmuir's condition today.

At Saint John, a message from the secretary to Chief Justice J. B. M. Baxter of New Brunswick announced the governor-general would have to cancel a planned tour of the Maritimes. The Chief Justice is acting premier of the province.

Condition Unchanged

QUEBEC, July 9.—(C. P.)—Lord Tweedsmuir's condition was described as unchanged tonight after an announcement that he had been compelled to cancel all engagements for the next few weeks because of the return of a stomach disorder.

Home Fleet Units Recalled From Mediterranean

Announcement Made By Sir Samuel Hoare — Naval Re-arming Proceeding Rapidly.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, July 9.—Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced to the House of Commons today the withdrawal of home fleet units concentrated last fall in the Mediterranean Sea.

At the same time he said in a statement accompanying supplementary defence estimates that the government is driving ahead with its rearmament program in the naval sphere.

In case of necessity, Sir Samuel told the Commons, the navy could put to sea immediately seven battleships and battlecruisers and raise steam for three more on short notice.

Publication of the supplementary defence estimates brought the year's total funds for the army, navy and Royal Air Force to 187,870,000 pounds (about $940,000,000).

The estimates included the second supplementary provision in three months for the navy.

When the budget was introduced in April by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, he said that additional sums for the defence services would be sought later.

Regarding those units of the home and other fleets sent to the Mediterranean during the Italo-Ethiopian war to reinforce the regular fleet regularly stationed in that sea, Sir Samuel said: "It is proposed to release at a very early date those units which were sent temporarily from the home stations and other stations abroad."

Approximately 185 war-ships were sent into the sea at the height of the Ethiopian crisis. Since then, the strength has been slightly reduced.

Although there was no official announcement regarding these ships to remain in the Mediterranean, it was believed the fleet there would remain somewhat stronger than before the African war.

Reduction of the Italian garrison in Libya, adjoining Egypt, as a gesture of conciliation once the fleet is dispersed was not anticipated in London. Informed sources said there had been no communications with Italy on the subject.

Warship withdrawal it was said, was decided upon once the tension was eased chiefly for reasons of furloughs and training.

(In Rome, government officials declined comment on Sir Samuel's announcement, but the step was regarded unofficially as removing another barrier to Italian collaboration in Europe.)

An Admiralty committee, it was understood, was preparing a report to Sir Samuel on the possibility of constructing two battleships in addition to the two provided in existing treaties. The armor for the latter, it was said, already had been formed.

Experts engaged with naval planning were aided considerably by the experience gained from facilities created by the Mediterranean concentration. These, informed persons said, would render much more easy and rapid any future massing of war strength.

The defence services asked Parliament for supplementary estimates.

Bandits Cut Railway; Are Defeated

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) ROME, July 9.—An official communique announced tonight that "bandits" had cut the Addis Ababa-Djibouti Railway line less than 30 miles from the capital, fighting all night with Italian troops before they were dispersed.

The incident occurred last Monday night, the communique asserted.

Intending to loot two trainloads of provisions, the official report said, the Ethiopians attacked the railway between Akaki and Mogio. In addition to tearing up the rails, they cut telegraph and telephone lines.

The Italians "inflicted grave losses" on the Ethiopians, the communique said, and put them to flight.

Army engineers restored the interrupted communications.

Nazi Party Has Biggest "Union"

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BERLIN, July 9.—The Nazi party enrolling 25,000,000 men and women in the Nazi Labor Front, claimed today the world's biggest "union."

Membership is compulsory for all German workers, employees and employers. And since the organization has an estimated revenue of nearly 1,000,000,000 marks ($400,000,000) annually, it is regarded as the National Socialist party's most powerful and self-sustaining propaganda apparatus.

For some time it was rumored persistently, not only in foreign circles, that tremendous sums from the vast income of this "Arbeitsfront" probably were the financial backbone of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's rearmament program.

That, however, was denied officially.

15 Fishermen Perish Off Spanish Coast

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BILBAO, Spain, July 9.—At least 15 fishermen perished today in one of the worst storms reported of the northern coast of Spain in 20 years.

Eleven were lost when the fishing boat Joven Republica foundered near Bermeo and four others were swept from the deck of the fishing boat San Francisco by a huge wave.

Of 11 boats in the fishing fleet off Cantada, eight were missing. It was feared other craft might be lost, including three fishing boats reported missing off Gijon.

Storm Of Tropical Intensity Sweeps Over Massachusetts

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) WORCESTER, Mass., July 9.—A wind and lightning storm of almost tropical intensity swept through central Massachusetts tonight, striking homes and barns afire, temporarily blocking highways and blowing down telephone and power lines.

The Boston-Worcester turnpike was blocked for an hour by fallen trees. Trolley service in Worcester was out for half an hour when power failed. The state road in Holden was blocked by fallen trees and billboards. A billboard on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad just north of Worcester was quickly removed by a rail crew.

Factory windows were blown in. Lightning struck several homes in the city and surrounding area. Two homes were set afire at Shrewsbury. The Lincoln Golf Club clubhouse was blown down. A score of persons were reported to be seeking shelter in it at the time. Herbert Askoff was knocked unconscious and taken to City Hospital.

At the Worcester State Hospital housing thousands of insane an emergency was declared when slates were ripped from the roof by wind, rain began pouring in and some inmates showed indications of unusual excitement.

Four persons in two cars at Tassit Beach jumped from the auto mobiles just before a tree crashed down, practically cutting the auto in half.
