

Tin Cans do no Harm.

A MANUFACTURER EXPLAINS THE PRESENT METHOD OF CANNING MEATS.

"Very few manufacturers of tin cans now use muriatic zinc or other poisonous preparations in the making of cans or for soldering purposes," said one of the proprietors of a large factory where all kinds of cans are made, in answer to the question of a reporter.

"The first instance of sickness from eating canned beef that ever attracted any attention was in Germany. The beef was canned in Chicago. It was put up in the old-fashioned way, with an inch of soldering inside and out. The German scientists at the time had discovered little or nothing in regard to the alkaloids existing in meats in case of semi-putrefaction that are so largely engaging the attention of the scientific world at present.

"As I said before, a few packers still use muriatic acid in soldering, but it is all put on the outside of the can, and so little is used that it could hardly affect the food in the cans. Occasionally some small country manufacturers who are behind the times, follow the old style of work and use poisonous solutions, but these can-makers do not supply the packing trade. The packing houses that make their own cans all follow the best modern methods. Nothing is used in the manufacture of the tin can of to-day which could possibly result in injury to any food placed in it."

A Secret in Plant Growing.

A Cincinnati correspondent of the Gardener's Monthly writes:—"An old friend of yours, by the name of Hutchison, here, is the best plant grower that I have ever seen. He confines himself chiefly to roses, verbenas, heliotropes, mignonette and fuchsias, and a few other things; but it would delight you to see such fine healthy plants as he has got. It is worth going miles to see his green-house, and what do you think is the secret? Why, he pots in rotten cow-dung, and nothing else. There is a secret for you! He gathers it up in the fall, and keeps it in a dry place. Before potting, he puts it through a sieve; and when potting puts a little of the coarse in the bottom of the pot, (no crock or drainage of any kind), and uses the fine round the sides. Everything thrives in it, from a begonia to a scarlet geranium. No peat! no loam! no leaf-mould! He propagates in sand, and pots in cow-dung! That is his Alpha and Omega."

Carbolic Acid in Paste and Glue.

The effluvia from decomposing paste and glue is as unwholesome as it is offensive. If, when making the paste or glue, a small quantity of carbolic acid is added it will keep sweet and free from offensive smells. A few drops added to mucilage or ink prevents mold. In whitewashing the cellar and dairy, if an ounce of carbolic acid is added to each gallon of wash, it will prevent mold and also the disagreeable taints often perceived in meats and milk from damp apartments. Another great advantage in the use of carbolic acid in paste for wall paper and in whitewash is that it will drive away cockroaches and other insect pests. The cheapest and best form of carbolic acid is the crystals, which dissolve in water or liquify at any excess of temperature.

NOTES.

Not the promissory, but facts about WELCOME SOAP, an article that does not contain one particle of the adulterations used to reduce the cost of "Pure Goods," but does possess the value of legitimate Washing Qualities, the demand for which proves the advantage gained by the use of the genuine over Soaps of doubtful character. None should be deceived even by Red and Yellow Wrappers, or any of the imitations of the WELCOME, as a pair of clasped hands is stamped on every bar. Made by CURTIS, DAVIS & CO.
