

Fire, Storm, Industrial Strife Mark The New Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fire and storm and industrial strife ushered in the new year. A $1,000,000 fire in Ottawa's Lower Town wiped out two small hotels, rooming houses, small businesses — 10 buildings in all were destroyed — and turned about 150 persons out of their homes in sub-zero weather.

Almost as much money loss — and as many people homeless — resulted from a blaze at Valleyfield, south of Montreal. There, flames burned uncontrolled for seven hours, leveling some 30 apartments and either destroying or badly damaging a dozen business structures.

And in Nova Scotia, a storm bringing 100-mile-an-hour winds toppled timber stands, drove fishing vessels aground, destroyed thousands of lobster traps, damaged buildings and wharves. The bill was put at $500,000 up.

RAIL STOPPAGE
Sixty-four thousand railwaymen — employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway — had their livelihood temporarily suspended in every part of the country. It was Canada's first rail tieup since the big strike of 1950, but this time only one of the country's two railways was involved.

The actual strikers numbered only 3,000, members of the local motive firemen's union. But other union railwaymen honored their picket lines. The firemen are fighting CPR's move to eliminate firemen from diesel locomotives in certain types of freight and yard service.

BUSINESS MOVES
The new year brought important business news. Abitibi Paper Company raised the price of newsprint, one of the country's chief products, by $4 a ton, and other producers were expected to follow suit. This brought the New York price to $134 a ton, a far cry from the $40 a ton that newsprint fetched in the early 1950s.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, which scored something of a hit in air transportation with its turbo-jet Viscounts, announced there'll be something still newer in service in 1957. TCA disclosed it has ordered 20 planes of a new type of turbo-prop — the Vickers Vanguard. The new airliners will fly 82 first-class passengers at 420 miles an hour.

U.S. POLICY
President Eisenhower came out with a plan to help the power vacuum in the Middle East. Roughly, it calls for Congress to authorize use of U.S. military forces to stop any Communist aggression in the Middle East.

While this promise of military intervention is held in reserve, the U.S. will seek to help the Middle East countries economically by dispensing some $400,000,000 in aid over the next two years.

CANAL CLEARING
The United Nations hopes to have the Suez Canal back in full operation by May. The job of clearing the waterway of sunken ships and other obstructions got under way in five areas.

In another Egyptian development, Cairo gave notice that it is terminating the 1954 treaty under which Britain was permitted to retain standby bases in the Suez Canal zone. These were to be available for British troops in the event any outside power attacked the Arab states or Turkey.

PERSONALS

Mr. Alonzo Riley, accompanied by his two brothers, Delton and Forest, Albion Cross, have returned to Ashland, Maine, where they are employed for the winter months.

Miss Sandra Bell and Victor Bell, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bell, Montague, have returned home after a pleasant visit with relatives and friends to Boston and Quincy, Mass.

Dr. Albert Johnston returned to Halifax, N.S. where he is on the medical staff of the Victoria General Hospital, after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Johnston, Montague.

British public — the soccer fans — were unhappy at the Queen's New Year honors list, which gave out peerages, knighthoods and other titles to some 2,000 men and women.

The fans' displeasure was because Stanley Matthews, soccer's greatest star, was made only a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. This entitles him to the letters CBE after his name. Not good enough, said the fans, who wanted him made "sir Stan."

IRISH FIGHTING

The little war that breaks out from time to time on the Ulster border between Irish Republican and British forces got into the killing stage this week.

At Derrylin, in County Fermanagh, a young policeman was slain in an attack on the police station there. Two nights later raiders laid siege of the police barracks at Brookeborough with machine guns and grenades. Two I.R.A. men were slain in 15 minutes of fighting.

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR TOPICS

Many ranchers have been speculating as to causes for the drop in prices of fur pelts and also the high costs of money where one has to go to a bank to borrow. The situation is very well explained in an editorial written by "Doc" Collins in the latest issue of the National Fur News which appears below.

"The coming season offers mink ranchers their greatest opportunity to support their marketing boards through orderly marketing. One reason is an exceptionally large pelt crop, both at home and abroad. The other reason is tightening credit all along the line.

To bankers and businessmen, the greatest danger signal in the U.S. economy credit. In its determination to tighten credit and thus curb inflation, the Federal Reserve Board eighteen months ago raised its re-discount rate from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent. This rate is the interest paid by banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve. Since then, it has been gradually increased by the Federal Reserve Board until it reached 3 per cent last September. To offset the hike, banks raised their interest rates to the public.

The two fold purpose of the new policy is (1) to encourage money savings which, economists say, should be at least 8 per cent of income, instead of the present 6 per cent being stashed away; and (2) to discourage credit, which forces a demand for scarce goods. Although this is the highest bank discount rate in 23 years, consumer credit is still rising. It has climbed to an annual rate of $37.5 billion. Despite economic controls the unprecedented demand for money is keeping ahead of the supply of funds, thus pushing interest rates and production costs even higher.

The government's tight money policy has resulted in fewer homes being built. It is harder now for the average person to buy a home, automobile or household goods. The credit crackdown is forcing businessmen in record numbers to seek government loans through regional Small Business Administration offices. The high cost of money affects auction houses, feed and equipment companies, and other suppliers just as it does every other business. Mink ranchers, in turn, may expect tighter credit from these sources. In some instances, they will be obliged to borrow from banks.

SOUND BASIS
Practically all economists agree that the country's economy ($408 billion estimated for 1956, value this year) is on a sound basis. But the tight money policy is necessary until industry catches up with demand. Until then, the program will halt rising prices and the decreasing value of the dollar. Tight credit is also affecting the auction companies and the buyers of your pelts. Your marketing boards, by spreading the selling season, is on the right track. Give them your hundred per cent co-operation."

Sidney Schipper, Schipper-Freilid, Ltd., Toronto, fur garment manufacturer, will be general chairman of Canada's Fur Fashion Awards Show and Convention at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. Tentative dates are May 5 to 7. Morris Moscovitch, Mo-Son Furs, Ltd., Montreal manufacturer, will be chairman of the Montreal section of the show committee. The Montreal and Toronto markets work on a Joint Show Committee of the Fur Trade Association of Canada, Inc. for the major industry event which marks opening of winter fur coat lines.

Hudson's Bay Company sales of Autumn Haze Mink standards in New York is considered to have been a most successful one in that 85 per cent of the 37,000 skins were sold. Males declined 15 per cent and females 20 per cent compared to last December. A report on the standard ranch mink collection which was 92 per cent sold states that there was good interest as shown by the high turnover. Fine color merchandise met with particularly strong competition.

The top prices for male Autumn Haze standards was $40, for females $19.25; Stewarts, top males $44, females $19.25; Desert Gold 90 per cent sold, top males $38, females $18. In the standard section 1's and 2's 92 per cent of the 3,258 was disposed of. Top prices for males was $35, females $18. The room was somewhat encouraged by the turnover rate in Autumn Haze offering in view of the comparatively large quantity. There was some feeling that the H. B.C. sale was the first real test of it being the largest single color collection of the new season.

Better interest was noted in the second day of the Danish Fur sales held in Copenhagen when 44,000 mutation mink were offered and about 70 per cent sold. The top price for pastels was 210 crowns (equal to $30.) Top price for silverblues was 205 crowns (equal to $29.50.) White mink was all sold with a top price of 315 crowns ($46.50.)

THEFTS
Furriers in New York, Chicago and other large cities are wondering what they can do about the rising tide of fur burglaries suggestion is for them to mark their fur garments. The Chicago Police department, the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago and insurance companies agree and in general system of indelible markings on pelts is undoubtedly an effective way to cut widespread fur thefts throughout the United States. Among other methods prescribed are fuller protection for retail fur establishments, storage and cleaning firms, stricter insured vaults, protective services with complete alarm system and full time guards were also suggested by police and trade sources.

Insurance companies agreed that it is up to them to insist on more protection for their cargo keep on covering "these big losses." Fur thefts threaten to set a new record in Chicago this year and they were boosted recently when a reported $100,000 worth of high quality furs were taken from Marshall Field and Company's Old Orchard store.

During the same week a delivery truck was hi-jacked in the Loop, which varied from $35,000 to $150,000 have been called too conservative by a well-informed source who has placed the value of the stolen merchandise at upwards of $300,000.

As you read the above you will probably wonder, like ourselves, what becomes of these stolen furs and what method the thieves have of disposing of them and what type of merchant would buy valuable furs from "shady" people.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Island Chick Hatchery Company is pleased to announce that they have secured the services of Mr. Ralph Raynor well known local R. O. P. poultry breeder and hatcheryman to manage their hatchery for the coming year. The hatching of baby chicks for both Raynor's Chick Hatchery and the Island Chick Hatchery will be carried on at the Island Chick Hatchery on Belmont Street which was the former location of Swift's Chick Hatchery.

Mr. Raynor brings with him a wealth of knowledge and experience to this well known business and it was felt that by combining the efforts of both hatcheries a more efficient service would be rendered to the chick buying public.

We are now in operation with regular hatches of well known breeds and crosses. We feature heavy crosses of high egg laying ability along with Raynor's Single Comb White Leghorn and Leghorn crosses. Why not drop in and have a chat with Mr. Raynor and the staff right away. They will be glad to see you.

Former Bristol Man Winner Of Ont. Buttermaker's Award

First place in the 1956 all-Ontario competition for buttermakers was won by Owen A. Sinnott, a former resident of Bristol, P.E.I.

Judging in the big contest was based on butter produced during the period May 1st to October 31st, 1956. The award is given annually to the buttermaker amassing the highest points in the combined competitions on quality, yeast, mould count, and workmanship.

In the individual contests, Mr. Sinnott placed 5th in butter quality, and 3rd in the yeast and mould count competitions.

Prizes to the winner were donated by the Ontario Creamerymen's Association, The Appleford Paper Products Limited, and the Victoria Paper Company Limited.

Suitable recognition of Mr. Sinnott's outstanding showing was given by the Milk Products Board, a branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

For the past several years Mr. Sinnott has been employed as buttermaker with Stacey Bros. of Mitchell, Ont. He is married to the former Lois Eldershaw of Morell, P. E. I. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Sinnott of Bristol, Dr. J. C. Sinnott, Montreal, and Patrick Sinnott, meteorologist, stationed at Mould Bay, N. W. T. are brothers.

Receives Graduate Jeweller Degree

Donald MacLeod of Glen William was included among the 52 students in a recent graduating class of the Canadian Jewellers Institute. Having successfully completed the two-year course, Mr. MacLeod received the degree of Graduate Jeweller.

The Institute is a subsidiary of the Canadian Jewellers Association in Toronto. The Glen William Man was the only Prince Edward Island student to be in the 1956 graduating class. He now operates a jewellery business in the village of Murray River.

Mr. MacLeod is a veteran of World War two, having served with the North Nova Scotia Highlanders. He was a Pipe Major with the unit and was attached to D Company, which was composed of Prince Edward Island personnel. He joined the army in 1940 and received his honorable discharge in 1945. During his overseas service, Mr. MacLeod spent some time in Germany with his unit.
