Away From SDU Campus Girls Form Happy Unit

By MARGARET ANN WARREN
 The problem — too many female resident students. The question — where to put them. The solution offered by St. Dunstan's was to take over the old Mother House of the Sisters of St. Martha at 141 Mount Edward Road and convert it into a girls' residence.
 This was the situation last September when forty more girls applied for residence at SDU than could be accepted into Marion College.
 The arrangement has worked out remarkably well. The girls at St. Mary's had at first to take all their meals except breakfast at Marion College and to walk to and from classes — a distance of about one mile.

A Pair Of Wild Ducks Flew By On Light Wing

It was a wind to bless the housewives which came down from up the creek to Alderlea, this morning. A happy breeze, it was, clean and as bright as the spring-week, we had come to at dawn. It waited before it, the companionable pair of wild ducks that, facing riverward, flew by on light wing as we breakfasted. Was she in that great silence above bothered about many things, and chatting of them as they flew? Or was she planning to herself what she would do through this week so new? Certainly, we smiled, filling the bowls of hot porridge from the smallest but quite adequate pan for this household, the children exclaim 'over, she would have no concern over having to decide whether or not in her housecleaning season, the curtains in the living-room would serve for another year. Or what it would be best to do about the worn carpet on the front stairs!
 No such problems would be hers. Her mission was to follow the air-routes with him, to feather her nest of short sticks and grasses in some quiet wood's spot not too far removed from the stream, and to mother and love very much the wee fluffy ducklings, her spring's gift. At the same time she also would not be without her share of worries. She would doubtless experience anxiety both during her tedious spell of waiting, and on through her motherhood.
 Once back in the years, in the hazy it was, we waited at a gate on another farm of the

WI To Make Easter Bonnets

Mrs. Willard Howell was hostess to the Poplar Grove WI recently. The meeting opened in the usual manner, with the members responding to roll call with a "Get Well Card" and books for the hospital patients. Three ladies from the Bideford Institute were welcomed by the president, Red Cross items were passed in, and more sewing was distributed to the members. ## HAPPENINGS

Audrey Jenkins, Women's Editor, Phone 4-8506

Shirley Shaw and Lois Shaw (Mrs. Vincent MacDonald) were guests of honor at a miscellaneous shower held in Montague recently.
 Entertainment was provided by a quartet consisting of David and Dougie Norton, and Cameron and Nancy Beck singing "A Little Bit of Sugar Makes the Medicine Go Down". A duet by the Norton twins "Come Josephine On My Flying Machine" and a solo by Cameron Beck "Don't Fence Me In" accompanied by Nancy on the mandolin, was enjoyed by all.
 Helen MacDonald read the accompanying verses and Mrs. Ralph Beck arranged the many gifts. Shirley's marriage to Jack MacLean of New Perth will take place on Saturday, April 10th at 4 p.m. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Church.
 A Manitoba woman, deeply moved by photos of hungry children, contributed generously to an appeal made by the United Service Committee of Canada on behalf of starving Koreans. "Those pictures brought back sad memories of my life in Arnhem, Holland, in the winter of the war when liberation seemed so far away. We survived on tulip bulbs and later on weeds, but the babies who needed food looked quite similar. Let's hope these poor people also have some kind of liberation." The money was sent to the Tulp Capital of Canada, where USC has its headquarters at 63 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4.

A miscellaneous shower was recently held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Ward, Granville in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Garnhum (nee Cora Folland). After the bride and groom were escorted to the decorated chairs by Maude Parsons and Willard Moose, Mary Matheson and Maria Jane Ward carried in the gifts. Mrs. Pupper Taylor handed them to the bride and Mrs. Herbie Ward read the accompanying verses. Joan Smith arranged them on the table. Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with music furnished by Mrs. Melvin Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barrett and Fred Bertram.

touched them, a little procession, a wild duck and her brood passed with endearing quacks beneath the gate. They had come up from the stream below, and now she was leading the little wildlings back to the night's nest in the piece of slash above. We smiled there, standing stock-still and alone at the edge of the night, pleased to have beheld such a miracle.

Now come the perfect washdays, those we wished for when the steaming pieces stiffened almost instantly when we pinned them to the line. True there was a little frost this morning, but it would only serve to bleach the hand-made daisy spread from the guestroom, the little wind caught.
 "You couldn't care to remain with us overnight and sleep on the featherbed in the spare-room?" we said lightly to a visitor of this evening.
 "Golly," he chuckled. "I recall sleeping in those. High up they were — hard to climb into, and harder to get out of!"
 It is a wide old bed that now calls. Two peaceful pillows are there.
 Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.....

So we waited there content, arms resting on the top rail of the wooden pasture-gate, listening for the sound of the tractor. The afterglow which had been a glory of brightness had now faded to pastel tints above the dark of a woodland. The gathering twilight was dimming the low of the valley. The distance was veiled.
 The fragrance — we remember it now, with the spring's fields lying snowy beyond our night windows: that sweet aroma which belongs only to the hay-ling. And that silence: the stillness of a beautiful summer evening which waits for the starlight. And suddenly through the shadows there, and so near that if we had stirred we could have

Sausage In Sandwiches --Specially Substantial

PATRONS start coming for breakfast at N. Y.'s Zum Zum restaurant the moment it opens at 7 a.m. And they continue to come steadily until it closes at 7 p.m.
 One of the most original and unusual eating places in all Manhattan, it gives the customers what they want — sausage in startling variety.
 Virtually Untapped
 Through the U.S.A., sausages of many nationalities are on sale. These are largely to the customers with lineage links to the country of origin. Yet sausages are an almost untapped source of meat not just for breakfast but for any of the three daily menus, and for snacks in between. Sausages add variety, are savory and flavorful, budgetwise, and require a minimum of cookery or preparation. Let's use more of them.
 A wide variety of Bavarian sausages are served at the Zum Zum in robust combination with other tasty foods. The sausages include Bierwurst, Rulge, Gungermurst, Bauernwurst, Pfälzer, Bratwurst, Salami, Liverwurst, and Cervelat, as well as the superb frankfurters. Achi! they taste so good.
 But what does Zum Zum mean? "Zum" in German means "to the." For example, "zum wurstgeschafft" means "to the sausage shop," and Zum Zum was the name chosen simply because it implies action, or movement.
 The menu is written daily on blackboards and consists of soup, sandwiches, meat platters, desserts, coffee and soft drinks in addition to beer.

SPICED ORANGE WEDGES FROM THE CHEF
 Interesting new relish from our test-kitchen!

Place 4 unpeeled Florida oranges in 2-qt. saucepan. Pour in water to cover. Bring to rapid boil. Boil gently 20 min., or until oranges can be easily pierced with fork; drain and cool. Cut oranges in eights.
 Combine 2 c. sugar, 1 1/4 c. water, 1/2 c. vinegar, 1 tsp. whole cloves and 3 (3") pieces stick cinnamon. Stir over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil.
