The Colonial Exhibition.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION TO EXTEND HOS-PITALITY TO CANADIAN TOURISTS—FACTS ABOUT THE EXHIBITION.

The visit of Sir Charles Tupper to Canada has developed an interest in the Colonial Exhibition to open in London next May, which could not have been promoted by any less important event than the presence of the High Commissioner for Canada.
Every day the exhibition officials receiving letters from manufacturers all through the Dominion, who announce their intention to send exhibits and who ask for information as to how they are to proceed.
The importance of the coming exhibition to the colonies of Great Britain and to Canada in particular cannot be overestimated and as the Government with a paternal interest in the progress of the country have determined to afford unprecedented facilities to the merchants and manufacturers of Canada to show what our commercial community is capable of achieving, no trader can have a pretext for keeping in the back ground on this occasion.
Even if the broader principle of upholding the fair name of Canada does not enter into consideration, the self-interest of the manufacturers ought to induce them to be alive to the necessity of making a grand display in London next year. It should be remembered that the Canadian Government will carry exhibits to London and return them, if unused, absolutely free of expense. The metropolis of the great Empire will next year be the tourist field for the people of the English colonies, and from what can be learned, Canadians especially may expect to have a pleasant time during their stay in London. The members of the British Association, amongst whom are the most influential men in England, Ireland and Scotland, mindful of the whole-hearted hospitality with which they were received last year, are making arrangements to return the many kindnesses extended them by the people of Montreal and Canada. Cheap excursion fares are to be arranged with the ocean steamship companies, and facilities will be extended to Canadians to visit the great manufacturing centres of England. Mr.
Cunliffe Owen, London, the secretary of the Royal Commission, has already commenced making arrangements for the comfort of Canadian tourists. All goods intended for exhibition should be ready for shipment about the end of March.

The Volunteer Movement.

The War Office authorities are beginning to appreciate the importance of the volunteer movement in England, and the benefit the force would prove to the nation were it ever engaged in a serious European war, calling for the employment of its full military strength. During the week just passed over nine thousand men belonging to the volunteer corps have completed a seven days' training at Aldershot, where they were brigaded with the regular troops in camp there, performing all the duties incidental to a soldier's life, and acquiring the knowledge to fit them for their active service.
The transport, so important a feature in modern campaigns, is being made the subject of special instruction, and in this Canadian corps might take a lesson from their brothers over the sea. The 1st Hants Rifles in their training were given complete management of their affairs, as if they had been an army corps in the field. Farmers' horses and wagons were impressed for service, the drivers were instructed in their duties, and the men made long marches, carrying with them every necessary for active war, and rendering themselves perfectly capable of performing any movement called for.

To Help Scotch Crofters.

Margaret McLeod, of Dundee, Scotland, arrived at Philadelphia a week ago on the steamship Lord Gough, and left for the West. Miss McLeod intends to lay the claims of the Scotch crofters before her countrymen who have found a home on this side of the Atlantic, and to make arrangements, if possible, for the transportation of several hundred families from the Highlands and Lowlands. She will probably remain in America for several months, but her movements will be kept as quiet as possible, in order that the land agitators may not circulate false reports among the crofters. An appeal for funds will be made to leading philanthropists of the West and South, and the result of the visit, it is thought, will be a great influx of crofters, who will settle in North Carolina and other States. As soon as Miss McLeod has accomplished her purpose she will return to Scotland and organize the emigration to America.

Another Victim.

The residents of Edgar, Oro township, Ont., were moved to excitement one day last week by a young man named Wm. Fenn, of that place deliberately committing suicide. He was in Barrie on Monday selling cattle, and it is said, got under the influence of "blue ribbon beer." The next day he complained to some neighbors that he was bewitched and that his health during the past summer had been wretched. He visited a neighbors house some time before dinner, and engaged in a hearty laugh with the children over some trifling amusement, after which he suddenly left the house and went into a shed, took a plough rope and hung himself.
He was not discovered until the hired man came to dinner. Dr. Powell was summoned, but no inquest was considered necessary.

CHEAP FLANNELS.—Ladies should see the cheap lot of fine flannels now being sold at Weeks & Co., Market Square. sept 1.

Gray Hair.

Many persons begin to show gray hairs while they are yet in their twenties, and some while they are yet in their teens.
This does not by any means argue a premature decay of the constitution. It is a purely local phenomenon, and may co-exist with unusual bodily vigor. The celebrated author and traveler, George Borrow, turned quite gray before he was thirty but was an extraordinary swimmer and athlete at sixty-five.

Many feeble persons and others who have suffered extremely both mentally and physically, do not blanch a hair until past middle life; while others, without assign-able cause, lose their capillary coloring matter rapidly when about forty years of age.

Race has a marked influence. The traveler, Dr. Orbigny, says that in the many years he spent in South America he never saw a bald Indian, and scarcely ever a gray-haired one. The negroes turn more slowly than the whites. Yet we know a negress of pure blood, about thirty-five years old, who is quite gray. In this country, sex appear to make little difference. Men and women grow gray about the same period of life. In men the hair and beard rarely change equally. The one is usually darker than the other for several years, but there seems no general rule as to which whitens first. The spot where gray-ness begins differs with the individual. The philosopher, Schopenhauer, began to turn gray on the temples, and complacently framed a theory that this is an indication of vigorous mental activity.

Electric Fishes.

There are at least a dozen species of fishes which are among animals in the possession of electric organs—truly the most remarkable weapons in the entire animal armory. The application of electricity to the arts is one of the most prudent achievements of nineteenth-century men; yet these fishes, there is little reason to doubt, applied their electric battery to the art of capturing their prey long before man had come into existence.
That these natural batteries exhibit true electric phenomena is shown by their currents behaving in exactly the same way as those produced artificially; thus, says Gunther, "they render the needle magnetic, decompose chemical compounds, and emit the spark." To receive a shock, it is necessary in the one apparatus as in the other that contact should be made at two points in order to complete the circuit. The various species of electrical fishes are not as might have been expected, from the common possession of so unique a weapon, by any means all closely related. They belong to three widely different groups—namely, rays, eels and sheath-fishes—which would indicate that electric organs have originated independently in each group. The electric eel of South American waters is the most powerful of creatures, growing to a length of six feet, and provided with a pair of batteries containing some hundreds of minute cells copiously supplied with nerves.

Rough on the Americans.

Is it true that there are stores and hotels in London that do not desire Americans? A New Yorker dwelling there answers in the affirmative. At three of the finest of the London hotels he tried to get rooms for Americans who were to arrive, and as soon as the managers found out that the apartments were wanted for Yankees they ate their words about having any vacancies. A boot maker in Oxford street, not understanding that the inquirer was an American, said he would not waste the time necessary to sell boots to Americans, as they were so troublesome. A West End tailor displays a placard, "No Americans served." This antipathy principally arises from the fact that Americans have got into the erroneous way of thinking that England is a cheap country.

Smallpox.

The Montreal Witness says: The epidemic of small-pox is a small thing compared with the plague of cholera. While the deaths from small-pox in our midst mount up to hundreds in a few months, those from cholera in Europe are counted by thousands. In Italy and France, last year, there were 20, 000 deaths, while in Spain alone, this year, they numbered, up to Monday last, 72,347.
The cholera is still carrying off hundreds of victims in the south of France, so that up to date probably one hundred thousand people have died of cholera in Europe. All but four thousand of these have died of the disease since this time last year, when the plague had just begun. The proper protection against cholera is cleanliness.

SALMON FISHING on the Tay shows little sign of falling off, and within the six days to Aug. 20 as many as 10,000 salmon and grilse have been taken below Perth. Tracemen are at a loss what to do with them, and they lie piled in heaps on the banks of the river.
Sixty of the fish weighed were found to average forty-five pounds each.

At Batavia, N. Y., Friday, Mrs. Adelaide R. Kinney and Mrs. Marion E. Sheffield were elected trustees of the schools by nineteen majority over two men. Twenty-eight women voted. This is the first time that women have been candidates there.

DURING this year the tobacco trade of Kentucky has been very large; the sales at Louisville will reach 130,000 hogsheads. When they reach 100,000 hogsheads the business men have determined to make the day an occasion of public demonstration and celebration.
