

Crown Winners Are Quiet Crew

By ERIC WAHA
 PRAGUE (AP)—There was no jubilation in the world hockey champions' dressing room Sunday.

Canada had successfully defended the world title and had a gold cup to prove it. But all the Belleville players could think about was the 5-3 pasting they had absorbed from Czechoslovakia in the final game of the tournament.

The cup was presented to Belleville captain Floyd Crawford by J. F. Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation. Czech girls in national costume skated up to the Canadians and handed them flowers as the crowd gave them a generous applause.

Two of the Belleville players, defenceman Al Dewsbury and centre Gordie (Red) Berenson, didn't stay for the ceremony. Overcome with emotion after their defeat, they skated to the dressing room immediately after the final whistle.

REAL QUIET

When the rest of the team joined them, the dressing room was about as lively as a public library.

"I don't want to talk about anything now," said Berenson, the 20-year-old centre whose third-period goal while the team was short-handed was his ninth of the tournament and made him the top sniper of the competition.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand said the team missed too many scoring chances Sunday.

"We had too many penalties, too," he added. "And we deserved them all."

Then he spoke to his players. "There's a little tarnish on the cup, but after all, we won it. Anybody can have a bad game. We're world champions, that's the main thing."

Led by 35-year-old defenceman Jean Paul Lamirande, the older players took up the cry.

"What the heck, we won it, gang!" shouted Lamirande, one of the team's five veterans from last year's competition at Oslo.

Hildebrand had nothing but praise for the Czechs, a disappointment throughout most of the week who finally lived up to their advance notices.

"They played real well," he said. "They deserve full credit."

HAWAII STATEHOOD BOOSTERS

Supporters of the Hawaii Statehood Bill gave out with victory smiles after the Senate passed the bill to make Hawaii the 50th state. Behind the Territory of Hawaii flag, are left to right:

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) who led the bill to a successful 76-15 roll call vote; Dolores Martin, Honolulu Democratic National Committeewoman; John Burns, Hawaii Delegate; Sen. Gale W. MacGee (D-Wyo), Mike Cafferty, Insular Affairs subcommittee counsel; and Dan Aoki, administrative assistant to Delegate Burns. The House of Representatives passed the measure 323-89.

Crossed Building Poles Reported In Strong Demand

CALGARY (CP)—The old fashioned tree trunk, cheap and efficient, is struggling for acceptance as a suitable construction material for warehouses, barns and small business buildings.

The Canadian Institute of Timber Construction, claims that a new method of timber engineering using large poles especially treated with preservatives, is gaining competitive strength on other building materials, particularly steel.

The Canadian Crossed Company Limited of Calgary says it has received a large demand for giant 150-foot jack pine poles to which preservatives have been added by means of a pressure process. Sunk five feet into the ground, they form a rigid support for a timber framework.

MANY ADVANTAGES

A spokesman for the company said poles construction has many advantages—the chief one being engineering economy. The company claims use of a timber framework cuts costs by as much as $2 a square foot, the result of cheaper materials and greater handling ease.

Properly treated poles will last between 40 and 50 years. The method is much the same as used to treat railway ties.

The poles are placed in huge boiler-shaped ovens where heat and preservation treatment takes place under a bond pressure of 210 pounds a square inch.

The department of veterans' affairs, endorsing pole building as a cheap and safe method, has issued a circular to farmers recommending poles be used in barns. It says:

"It is a fact that what has become to be known as the pole barn type of construction has much more to commend it than any other type of farm building in use today.

EASY CONSTRUCTION

"With a set of good plans, such a building can be built by anyone capable of building a chicken coop."

H. E. Thompson, fire research engineer of the Canadian Institute of Timber Construction, says under many conditions timber has a much smaller fire hazard rating than steel.

"A myth has been built up around steel as a fire resistant material. Fire performance depends on rate of loss of strength, rather than on combustibility. For this reason large timbers are superior to structural metals which lose strength rapidly at high temperatures.

The institute claims this better time factor lessens danger of collapse on occupants and fire fighters in case of fire.

Bassey Will Risk Title Wednesday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria risks his featherweight title for the second time Wednesday night in a 15-round fight with Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio.

The little Nigerian won the championship when he whipped Cherif Hamia in Paris in 1957.

And last April 1 here he strengthened his rule over the world's 126-pounders with a spectacular three-round knockout over the dangerous puncher from Mexico, Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno.

Moore, at 24 two years younger than the champion, has won 13 straight fights, dating back to 1957. He capped his drive toward a championship encounter when he blasted Moreno out in one round here last Dec. 11.

BASSEY FAVORED

Bassey remains a close favorite in pre-fight betting. But Moore might climb into the Olympic Auditorium ring at even money in the televised battle.

ABC does the TV, starting at 7 p.m., PST (10 p.m. EST).

CZECHS SCORE 5-3 UPSET

Bellville Suffers Defeat But Captures World Title

PRAGUE (CP)—Canada won the world hockey championship Sunday although crashing in defeat in the final game.

Czechoslovakia defeated Belleville 5-3 in a last-minute upset that left the Canadians tied with Russia with four victories and a single loss each at the top of the six-team standings.

Canada retained the title because of its superior goal record but the world champions were dispirited by the loss of the game. Centre Gordie (Red) Berenson and defenceman Al Dewsbury didn't wait for the presentation of the cup ceremony on the ice but skated off to the dressing room close to tears.

When the other players joined their coach Ike Hildebrand and summed up the general feeling he said: "There's a little tarnish on the cup but after all, we won it."

CZECHS WHOOPED IT UP

The Czechs meanwhile were whooping it up as though the title were theirs. If it had been decided on the day's play, they would have deserved it.

But earlier defeats at the hands of Russia and the United States had left them with nothing to play for except the approval of a capacity crowd of 14,000 fans. It was all they needed.

They took a 2-0 lead in the first period, held the margin at 3-1 after the second and killed off a desperate Belleville rally by firing their last goal into an empty net after goalkeeper Gordie Bell went off for an extra forward with two minutes left to play.

Jan Starsi, who fired two of the Czech goals, was the crowd's hero, along with goaltender Vladimir Nadrachal, who made 44 saves, many of them spectacularly.

The other Czech marksman was Jaroslav Volf, Rudolf Potsch and Miroslav Vlach.

BERENSON SCORING KING

Pete Conacher, Bart Bradley and Berenson fired the Canadian goals. Berenson's was his ninth of the tournament, in both the preliminary and final rounds, and made him the top goal-scorer of the competition.

The two-goal victory gave Czechoslovakia third place in the standings by the barest margin over the United States. Both teams won three games and lost two and both had identical goal spreads—a surplus of eight scored as against the number conceded. But the Czechs' 23-14 record gave them a slight advantage in goal average over the Americans' 23-15.

Canada's margin over Russia was clearer. The Canadians finished with 21 goals for and seven against, a goal difference of 14. The Russians, beat Sweden 4-2 earlier Sunday, had a 20-10 record, a difference of 10.

Sweden placed fifth with one win and Finland ended the tournament Saturday without a victory, going down to Russia 6-1. In Saturday's other game, Canada defeated the U. S. 4-1.

The title is the 18th world championship that Canada has taken in 27 competitions and its second in a row following the victory of Whistly last year in Oslo.

The Belleville players were clearly off form after their strenuous European schedule and the result was an anti-climax. But they battled gamely to the final whistle, which came after a series of face-offs and scrambles in the Czech end.

For most of the game they acted as though they had forgotten the string of seven straight wins—three in the preliminary round at Bratislava and four in Prague last week—that had earned them their championship. One of their preliminary-round victories was a 6-2 win over the same Czech side that humbled them Sunday.

Dewsbury took three of the game's 10 penalties, eight of them awarded to Canadians. The last minute was enlivened by a brief free-for-all in the Czech goal mouth in which a few punches were thrown but no penalties were awarded.

The Canadians had a wide territorial margin in the first period, outshooting the Czechs 21 to 11, but Nadrachal kicked out everything thrown at him while the Czechs twice beat Canadian netminder Gordie Bell, who made 30 saves.

Starsi slammed home his own rebound at 8:55 after taking a pass from Vlach. Then, with Belleville captain Floyd Crawford off for boarding, Jaroslav Jirik downed a perfect pass to Volf in the goalmouth and the puck was in the net before bell could make a move.

The Canadians stormed in on Nadrachal again at the opening of the second period and were finally rewarded when Conacher took a pass from centre Johnny McLellan and whistled a backhander past Nadrachal at ankle height from about five feet out.

The Czechs took over and gave Bell a long, hard session as three successive Canadian penalties, to defenceman Moe Benoit, left-winger George Gosselin and McLellan, twice left Belleville two men short. They were back to full strength when Potsch's long screened shot eluded the Canadian goalie.

Bradley narrowed the margin two minutes after the interval, poking the puck through a maze of players, and nearly scored again on a breakaway on which Nadrachal outguessed him.

The Czechs retaliated with the prettiest goal of the day, a two-man break on which centre Karol Fako passed across the goalmouth to Starsi, who easily put the puck into the empty net.

The Canadians survived two successive cross-checking penalties to Dewsbury, making it 4-3 before the defenceman came sock from the second sentence as Berenson blasted home a 25-footer at ice level.

Bud Werner Makes Sweep Of Combined Ski Crown

STOWE, Vt. (CP)—Wallace (Bud) Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., made a clean sweep of the Vermont Alpine ski championship Sunday when he raced over the downhill course in one minute, 55.3 seconds for his third victory of the meet.

His wins in Friday's slalom and Saturday's giant slalom gave him the combined title easily.

Surprises came with the second and third finishers—Gordon Eaton of Middlebury College, Vt., and Pete Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que. Eaton was more than four seconds behind Werner and three-tenths of a second ahead of Ryan who had a time of two minutes. The Quebec skier placed 45th in the giant slalom.

Lorne O'Connor of Vancouver took seventh spot in the downhill, a 1 1/2-mile event on Mount Mansfield, with a time of 2:02. He was 34th in the giant slalom.

QUEBEC SKIERS' PLACE

Behind him was Jean-Guy Brunet of St. Agathe, Que., at 2:02.2. Peter Kirby of Montreal tied an American competitor for 10th place with 2:02.6.

Still in the top 20, Hell Summerauer of Banff, Alta., placed 18th at 2:03.7 and Fred Tommy of Ottawa 19th at 2:04.

Other Canadians who placed lower: Darcy Marsh, Ottawa, tied for 25th; John Lessard, Sherbrooke, Que., 33rd; Phil Lesulieu, Montreal, 36th; James Quarles, Montreal, 43rd; Lawrence Laing, St. Agathe, Que., 52th.

WERNER SET RECORD

Werner's time was a record for the course. The old mark of one minute, 55 seconds was set in 1957 by Tony Sailer of Austria.

Werner's three wins gave him 30.00 points at the top of the combined standings under the international scoring system.

Summersauer's 24.70 points put him 11th, the best of the Canadians. Others were: Tommy 25.20 points, 12th; Marsh 34.68, 20th; Quarles 21st; O'Connor 27th; Brunet 36th and Laing 47th.

Joan Hannah, 19, of Franconia, N.H., covered the course in one minute, 42.4 seconds to win the women's downhill. The winner of the North American giant slalom at Squaw Valley, Calif., she was 2.2 seconds faster than Penny Pitou of Gifford, N.H. Austria's Putzi Frandl was third and Betty Smitte of Norwich, Vt., winner of the previous two days' competition, was fourth.

However, Miss Hannah's disqualification in Friday's slalom put her out of the combined results for the three events. Miss Smitte was declared the winner of the combined with 2.12 points.

Canadian star Ann Heggtveit of Ottawa placed ninth in the downhill with a time of 1:50.8. She ranked seventh in combined standings with 38.70 points, ahead of Claire Monaghan of Quebec City who had 62.79 points. Miss Monaghan was 15th in the downhill. Miss Heggtveit was second in the slalom Friday but fell during the giant slalom Saturday.

Nancy Holland of Montreal was 10th in the combined standings. She came 12th in the Downhill and Susan Ellis, also of Montreal, was 11th. Miss Ellis placed 16th in the downhill field. Fay Pitt, another Montreal girl, finished in 11th spot in the downhill but was not ranked among the combined placers.
