

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Carroll Lewis, star of British television, came tonight to Vancouver with some critical words about the CBC.

"This country is being sadly neglected by its CBC," Mr. Lewis said in an interview Saturday. "The CBC won't raise a finger to help homespun talent. Anything Canadian they don't want to know about."

Mr. Lewis, a star in overseas radio and television, is here to visit his mother, Mrs. E. M. McLellan. He said he is in North America to make a survey of TV in preparation for commercial television in Britain, which he believes will be started by October.

Now 45, he first went to England in 1936 after trying to find radio and television work in Canada. He became known as "England's Major Bowser" because of his talent shows.

Flee In Sub-zero Weather

Have Narrow Escape In Fire

—Mrs. Arnold Smallman and her family of seven children ranging in ages from nine years to fourteen months had a narrow escape from death in a fire which destroyed their large farm home at Knutsford near O'Leary early Saturday morning. Mr. Smallman had lit a fire in the kitchen stove and left for the barn when one of the little boys discovered that the kitchen was full of smoke. He returned upstairs and informed his mother who roused the sleeping children and brought them all downstairs together through the kitchen door leading to the living room. The front door had been banked and closed for the winter. Putting down the youngest boy, he knocked out a large heavy glass window and the storm window in the living room and managed to get all the children outside where they made their way to the barn in their bare feet in five below zero temperature.

It was then discovered that the baby, Thomas, was still in the house and despite several return trips inside Mrs. Smallman could not locate the child in the smoke filled room. Mr. Smallman had arrived by this time and also failed to locate the little boy. One of the other children then remembered that his mother had put the little baby on the chest-terrace and the father broke out another window from the outside and managed to get far enough into the room to rescue the now unconscious baby.

Mrs. Smallman suffered severe cuts to both hands and an arm as she reached for the baby. The baby was still in the Turner Nursing Home at O'Leary last evening but was reported to be recovering satisfactorily. Donna, age nine, suffered a frozen foot. The house and contents, which included a large quantity of potatoes, were lost. Origin of the fire was thought to be from the kitchen stove. There was some insurance. The Kensington Juniors were supposed to play the Charlottetown Juniors at Kensington but the game was postponed until Friday night of this week. No doubt a large attendance of Kensington fans will be out to see their favorites of last year in action.

O'Leary Maroons are expected to take on the Summerside Aces at the Raceway Stadium Tuesday evening. One of our summer-side boys is coach of the O'Leary team this year, Paul Schurman, ace producer of the production line, will be behind the blue line for the Maroons. They have a starry young player in Glen Rogerson who scored six goals against the RCAF team Saturday night.

Vance Harris will be the only member of the production line left to the Aces this year. Maynard Schurman is at Acadia. Their defence will be bolstered considerably, however, by the addition of Ron McArthur, Ron, together with Garth Gay, Carl Woodside and the veteran Leo Shields, looks like a pretty stiff defence corps to us.

The Islanders have certainly not been impressive on their last half-dozen road trips, but we think they have the stuff to cap all the honors in the Atlantic Coast League now that their era of injuries and suspensions are over (we hope). In a tough schedule such as the boys are playing, the road trips generally find them not at their best but when play-off time rolls around, their games will probably not be crowded quite so close together, or in any event they will probably play two games in one town to start off and this will cut their travelling.

Spurt Echoes From Prince County

The Raceway Stadium has finally opened its doors, and the first Friday night session for the minor hockeyists was held last evening. There is a considerably larger group of boys participating this year. A contingent of cleaners to town to join the Friday night jamboree. Kensington has decided not to have an intermediate team this year. Their rink seems to have an over-loaded schedule, and the juvenile bracket is the one getting all the attention in Kensington at present. There isn't much to wonder about that because Kensington's juvenile team this year is with a few exceptions the same team that won the Island midget championship, went on to take the N. B. P. E. I. title, and made a good showing against the present Maritime champs from Sydney, N. S. The boys will go on this evening for their first practice tonight at 6:30.
