

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH LORNE ARSENAULT

Double Ring Ceremony Will Live In Kinkora

St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, was the scene of a pretty wedding on August 15, 1956, when Mary Elizabeth Kelly, Stanchel, became the bride of Joseph Lorne Arsenault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alyre Arsenault, Kinkora. The Rev. James Smith performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. The altar was prettily decorated with assorted flowers and the guest pews were marked with satin ribbons.

Mrs. Wilfred MacLeer was organist and played appropriate musical music for the ceremony while Mr. Wilfred MacLeer, his daughter and niece sang many beautiful hymns during the mass.

The bride given in marriage by Mr. Richard Kelly, chose a floor length gown of net over white slipper satin of which the sleeves came to points over the wrists. The collar was studded with pearls and sequins. Her finger tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a Juliet Cap with sequin trim. She carried a cascade of pink roses with white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Helen Campbell, was attired in a strapless floor length gown of yellow net over satin with lace bolero, and wore matching headdress and mits to match. She carried a nosegay of blue and white flowers. The best man was Mr. Norman Arsenault, brother of the groom. The ushers were Mr. Ralph Arsenault, brother of the groom, and Mr. Paul Flood.

Mrs. Maria Kelly wore for the wedding a navy blue taffeta dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Arsenault chose a dress of blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Summerlea Restaurant, Summerside, with sixty guests in attendance. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Reverend James Smith and responded to by the groom. The afternoon was spent in dancing to music supplied by Mr. Stephen Toole and Mr. Frank Flood. For travelling on her honeymoon through the States and the eastern provinces of Canada, the bride wore a light blue wool suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Autumn Wedding American Male Highly Perfumed

The marriage of Gloria Bell and Ronald Brown was solemnized in Fourth Avenue Baptist Church on Saturday, September 15 at 2 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bessie A. Bell of Ottawa and Douglas Bell of Prince Edward Island. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Brown of Ottawa.

Rev. E. H. Cameron, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Mrs. Keith Miliken and Stewart Brown was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York. On their return they will make their home in Ottawa.

The news in kitchen decor is white with brass. After splurging in color, as women have done during the last few years, the return to white looks downright refreshing—something like the aristocratic, new look that a black, dark blue or dark green auto now has!

At any rate, brass accessories with gleaming white turn the kitchen into a handsome workshop and informal gathering spot.

Of course, nothing is easier to keep clean than white. When it becomes the least bit soiled, one can't fail to notice it at once. It gets a quick going-over with a soapy cloth and the whole area looks nice again.

Brass, too, can be kept shining with suds and a sponge. If you're careful not to let stains remain on brass pieces, you can polish them with a soft cloth after washing to make them shine.

If you use a metal polish, be sure to wash brass fixtures or pieces with warm soap or detergent suds after polishing. Don't take a chance that even a smidgen of polish may remain on the surface of pieces used in serving food.

Princess On Tour Of Indian Ocean And Of East Africa

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret took off on Thursday for a five-week official visit by plane and ship to British territories in the Indian Ocean and East Africa.

Queen Mother Elizabeth waved farewell as the four-engined Argonaut lifted her 26-year-old daughter into the overcast sky over London for the trip into the sunny tropics.

The Queen and her family were not on hand. They are vacationing at Balmoral Castle, in Scotland.

The five-week tour is the princess' most important official function since the breakup last October of her reported romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend — who himself soon is to leave for Africa, by jeep on a round-the-world trip.

For her departure the princess wore a form-fitting navy blue coat and a head-bugging hat. Her mother, also in navy blue, said a brief private farewell in the plane, then stood on the airfield with Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd to watch the departure.

As the big craft moved away, the princess waved gaily from a seat by a window.

The plane headed first for Gibraltar. From there the royal route lies through Kano, on the edge of the Sahara, and Entebbe, in Uganda, to Mombasa, the Kenya port where the princess Saturday afternoon will board the royal yacht Britannia, her home for the major part of her trip.

PLAN 56-DAY VOYAGE After a weekend in Mombasa, the princess will make a six-day voyage to the island of Mauritius, east of Madagascar. On her way back she will call in at Zanzibar, Tanganyika and Kenya before flying back to London Oct. 25.

As royalty does on such official visits, the princess will be the guest of honor at a dozen garden parties and state dinners. She will meet many native chiefs, bringing them greetings from the Queen.

She will be the guest of a sultan, and will make an expedition into wild game country. She will lay cornerstones and plant commemorative trees. Everywhere she will meet as many of her sister's subjects as possible at a succession of "barazas," an East African term for gatherings of joyful people.

To give those in far places as possible, the princess took with her a large wardrobe of glamorous gowns. Designers have been working on them for months.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Holiday Is A Tonic

It was a holiday today for us, who in a manner appear to have perpetual holiday in our dowager status here on these farms. This one, while not bearing us far as miles go, nevertheless took us away to strange scenes. This, if one is able to enjoy it, is a splendid tonic. It is our belief that in many instances this is one of the best remedies for the jaded housewife and mother that ever could be prescribed. Not that we actually needed a flip to either body or spirit, at the same time, such an outing we find good for both.

The notion had been forming in mind of late, even intruding itself somewhat irrelevantly into the busy affairs of the harvest. We should, we planned, in the early freshness of some morning, don what an old friend was wont to call "trotting tackle" and quietly steal away from the round of our something to our resolve. The cold would come anon. Besides as we said to James, there was the matter of having eyes tested which as we have found it needs to be a leisurely and unhurried procedure. And if back of that there was the hope that with time in plenty on our hands we might possibly gain a new bonnet from the excursion, that was only a natural feminine impulse in the season which gives up the lighter whimsies of summer in favor of the more substantial wearings of Fall.

The morning as it happened favored us. It was without promise of harvest today.

So, breakfast past, and with satisfying visions of our day ahead in mind we "tripped" down the lane in the dewy freshness, in time to join, to his surprise a farmer of this road who this summer in a change from his farming, commutes by little truck to work in the city.

"And where do you think you're going so early, Ellen?" he asked. "To town with you!" "And what's the big rush?" "Got to have eyes tested."

White For The Kitchen

If you're having trouble ironing "impossible" items? RUFFLE IRON Somehow, no matter how adept one is, it seems impossible to work a flat iron into puffed sleeves, pleats and curtain ruffles the way one would like. But help has arrived! An electric ruffle iron, which appears on the market recently, does a smooth, heat job. Just fit its tall stand over the edge of the ironing board, plug it into an electric outlet and flick the fabric dial to the correct temperature setting. Ease the material

LET'S EAT

Protein Sauce Sparks Vegetable Main Dish

"Here are fresh potatoes, young carrots, crisp snap beans, nice ripe tomatoes and a handsome cauliflower," remarked the Chef, taking them from a shopping bag. Shall I prepare a vegetable platter for dinner?"

"It would be a good change," I replied. "And be sure to make plenty of your new golden cheese-egg sauce to serve with it to provide plenty of protein to balance the meal. Then everybody will feel satisfied."

The reason many persons become hungry soon after eating a meal with a vegetable main dish is because of insufficient protein. So it's necessary to serve a protein-rich sauce with the dish or accompany it with creamed eggs, creamed fish or chicken or creamed ham.

Monday Dinner: Chicken soup; little biscuits; vegetable platter of whole cauliflower; parried potatoes; buttered carrots and broiled tomatoes with golden cheese sauce sliced peaches; cream layer cake coffee, tea or milk.

All measurements are level unless otherwise stated. Recipes are for 4 to 6. Broiled Herb-Topped Tomatoes Wash tomatoes. Cut in half. Place on a broiling rack. Sprinkle with salt and ground black pepper. Top each with 1/2 tsp. butter or margarine.

Place under the broiler 5 to 10 min. or until browned. Garnish with crumbled basil leaves.

Cream Layer Cake: Make up 1 pkg. yellow cake mix according to directions on the box, with this exception: add 1 tsp. fine-grated orange rind.
