ELLEN'S DIARY

Only A Bit Of Heather But It's So Dear To Me

Today, by way of bringing the beef-farming at Alderlea to a more exact basis, feeder cattle were weighed from the stables and let then to the grass.

"And what?" we overheard James later ask Mack "did that thinish one weigh? You know the one I mean."

"I believe it was 745" the youngster replied off-hand. "But just to be sure of it, I'll look at the list."

He reached into an overall pocket, drew forth a paper, scanned it with much concentration, smiled, nodded. "Yes, that is exactly what he weighed. I haven't a doubt" he offered "he'll make a better gain than most of the others. You mostly see it that way."

James smiled. "At any rate, we'll notice it more" he said. The little band was turned then to the field across the creek, emptying winter-stalls, giving up piecemeal the bays to a not unpleasant summer quiet. The sun picked out their colors, pretty, we thought, against the new green grass they grazed or rested in that place on the far side of the stream sheltered from wind by woodland and hill. Before long the cows and nursing calves will come to their day-pasture in a near field and the barns tenanted so long will be left then to the swallows and sunbeams.

"A strange winter we had—and a queer spring it is" one who came by today commented.

"It won't be an early cropping after all" the younger farmer observed.

"We've been getting too much of that north wind" James said. "There is never too much cropping in that."

But the trees are putting on the face of the Maytime. The poplar by the gateway has its catkins, lilac a leaf interestingly, Hyacinths blossom, and the narcissi, to welcome first bees.

"Bon Voyage!" we wish in parting the May week which embarks now for far shores in its shallow or boat. It sails from that weathered pier of ours on the millstream, where have come in our ships of the year some riding low to the tunnels with treasure-trove for us, other alas coming to port high and empty, though rarely without something of delight in their holds.

"Pleasant memories!" the week smiles.

The May memories! So varied so nice to look back to: New robin-song in the morning; pond pipers at evening into a nostalgic refraining; the miracle of spring breaking over the hills and the valleys. Now across wide distances memories stir at a sound, at a token. At night of a bit of heather a Scottish lady in

State University. "Training the Non-Professional Worker" and Miss Anne Guthrie, New York, an authority on the United Nations and the Middle East food problems.

John A. MacAulay, Q.C. Winnipeg, prominent Canadian businessman will also address the meeting on a subject to be announced.

CDA past president, Mrs. Ruth Reid of Montreal will conduct a panel discussion on "Recruiting of Dietitians," explaining the work currently underway with high school students and women organizations. In addition to its own members' speakers bureau the CDA distributes a newly completed color film and informative literature about the profession.

Miss Anna Rydeen, head of Food Services Department, University of Manitoba is convention chairman and arrangements for the program are in the charge of Dr. Isabel MacArthur, former director of the University's School of Home Economics.

BREAKFAST MEETING WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower conferred at breakfast Friday with Dag Hammarskjöld, secretary general of the United Nations. Hammarskjöld declined to tell reporters what he and Eisenhower discussed.

Brilliant Reception Held After Dedication Service

"Righteousness exalteth a nation" . . . In a joyous and confident tone the Rev. H.L. Mitton began with this message in the Call to Worship Tuesday evening at the Dedication to the Community of the First Baptist Church of Charlottetown.

While it was primarily Civic Night yet one thought of the dedication of this new church in the terms of nationalism, too. Numerous lives and many generations have gone into the establishment of such a church—a church that has played its part and will continue to grow into the life of our wonderful young Canadian nation.

Representatives of church and state were in the congregation. The organ prelude Sonata No. 2 (Mendelssohn) played by the organist and choir director, Mrs. V. Leigh Dingwell was followed by the Call to Worship, Prayer of Invocation and the Lord's Prayer. Hymn (Trentham) was sung. Mrs. Keith S. Rogers joined with the organ in the accompaniment for the hymns.

The Rev. Keith Hobson, Summerside, Moderator of Association of Baptist Churches of Prince Edward Island, read the Scripture closing with the magnificent portion from I Peter: 2:17 as follows: Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King.

Then in the prayer the Rev. A. Frank MacLean of Trinity United Church in quiet sustained tones began "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings, O Lord of Hosts." The anthem "How Calmly the Evening" (Elgar) by the Charlottetown Choral was conducted by Mr. William Keith Rogers.

Words of welcome were given by His Honour, Lieutenant Governor F. Walter Hyndman, the Hon. B. Earle MacDonald, representing the provincial Premier, His Worship Edwin C. Johnstone, and the Rev. T.H.B. Somers, of St. James Presbyterian Church, representing the Charlottetown Ministerial Association.

Governor Hyndman's message was chosen from the Scripture: Haggai 2nd Chapter, Verse 9. "The glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former, saith the Lord of Hosts, and saith the Lord of Hosts."

The Hon. B. Earle MacDonald

ald, in his first public appearance since his major illness, said that he could think of no better in this place will I give peace, occasion for a beginning. Mr. MacDonald said that from his place of business he has been able to look out upon five churches. Now he will be looking at six. In his address Mr. MacDonald said that much faith and Christian endeavour had gone into the building of this new church.

His Worship, Mayor Edwin C. Johnstone said that while the City Fathers do their best yet they fully realize that the character of the people is shaped not by City Council but by the churches.

The Rev. T.H.B. Somers drew attention to the fact that last Sunday was the Feast of Pentecost, the birthday or festival of the Christian church. There could be no more suitable day for a dedication of a new sanctuary to the worship of Almighty God. Mr. Somers paid tribute to the gifted minister of the Baptist Church and his faithful congregation.

Hymn Holyrood was sung followed by the offering. The organ offertory was "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" (Bach). This was followed by the Doxology, National Anthem, announcements and the Hymn Aurelia.

"Let Us Break Bread Together" was the second number of the Choral (arranged by Dr. Leslie Bell). The beautifully moving words of this anthem and the sensitive interpretation by the choral under the direction of Mr. Rogers was in keeping with the reverent order of service.

The title of the sermon by the Rev. Keith Hobson was "The Church's Responsibility to the Community". There was a combination of spirituality and political science in this sermon. Mr. Hobson stressed the fact that the church's adherence to the laws of the state trencher her own spiritual and temporal power.

Letters of congratulations were read during the service from other churches, church bulletin greetings conveyed and telegrams read from the Hon. J. Angus MacLean and Mr. Heath MacQuarrie, M.P.

Mr. Mitton extended a cordial invitation to all who had gathered at the evening service to attend the reception immediately following the service. The entrance to the Church Hall is off the main foyer. Members of the First Baptist Church show their friends through the building; in fact, they were actually "At Home" to the people of the community.

CLYDE RIVER W.M.S.

The May meeting of Clyde River Presbyterian W.M.S. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin MacPhee on Monday evening, May 11th.

Theme of the meeting was "The Fruit of the spirit is long suffering." The devotional period led by Mrs. Louis MacLean, opened with call to worship, followed by president leading in prayer.

Psalm selection, 128, Good unto all men is the Lord, was sung. The Scripture lesson, taken from Matthew 12: 1-15 was read responsively.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Killan and Mrs. Louis MacLean, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Exposition on the theme, was given by Mrs. Colin MacPhail.

The Bible study was in charge of Mrs. Killan, taken from twenty-third chapter of Matthew. The offering was received and dedicated. Twenty-four members answered roll call with a verse of scripture.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. John Beer reported box of clothing had been sent. Mrs. Paul Dawson was in charge of the Missionary study.

Next place of meeting Mrs. Lorne Docherty, with Mrs. John Docherty, Mrs. Everett Murray, Mrs. Heber Campbell, Mrs. Foster MacKinnon, Mrs. Lloyd Murray on lunch committee.

Meeting closed with hymn, "Rescue the perishing," followed by prayer by Mr. Killan.

WANT TALKS HALTED

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) R. J. Heffron, New South Wales education minister, was asked Friday to end a series of school lectures on the racial policies of the South African government being given here by Tom Boydell, a former South African cabinet minister. The leader of the state opposition, Patrick Morton, was joined in his appeal by churchmen, educationists and civic leaders.

DOUBLE-DUTY BEAUTY

BY ALICE ALDEN

AS COSTUME jewelry becomes finer it also becomes more practical. At least, it does in the deft hands of designer Sarah Coventry, who promotes double-duty pieces. Gracing the neckline of a black dress is a beautifully designed and executed silver chain with leaves. The silver leaves detach to double an earrings or shoe ornaments. The pearl earrings also have a special clip so that they may be attached to pumps.
