

Urges Fishermen To Take Advantage Of Insurance

With the lobster season opening in five lobster districts in the Maritimes within the next few weeks, fishermen are urged to take advantage of the government sponsored insurance to protect their boats and fishing gear.

This suggestion comes from G. Lorne Grant, Administrator of the Fishermen's Indemnity Plan in the three ocean provinces. Mr. Grant, whose headquarters is at the Department of Fisheries in Halifax, said that experience has proven that the insured fishermen are the wise fishermen.

"Under the Indemnity Plan," said Mr. Grant, "fishermen can protect their means of livelihood. Many of our 17,000 lobster fishermen have already taken advantage of this protection, but there are still those who prefer to run the risk of losing their equipment through storm or fire than to pay the relatively small cost for protection."

INDEMNITY PLAN

Under the Indemnity Plan, fishermen can insure their boats and their traps. Boats up to the value of $10,000 are insurable. The premium is one per cent of the appraised value. Thus, a fisherman owning a boat valued at $2,000 can be insured for a full year for a premium of $20. In the event of a total loss the plan pays 60 per cent of the boat's value.

Similar low cost premiums are available on lobster traps. A premium of 13 cents per trap will provide an indemnity of $2.25, after a deduction of 20 per cent for wear and tear, while a maximum premium of 22 cents will give the fisherman $3.75 for a trap lost or demolished.

BOAT INSURANCE

Elaborating on boat insurance Mr. Grant pointed out that last year in the Maritimes more than 1,400 fishing boats were insured. However, Mr. Grant added, that

Huge Political Rally Held In London's Trafalgar Square

LONDON (Reuters) — One of the biggest political rallies crowds in recent years jammed into London's Trafalgar Square Sunday to hear Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell call on the United States and Britain to follow Russia's lead and suspend nuclear tests.

The crowd of 12,000 cheered and applauded Labor foreign affairs spokesman Aneurin Bevan, who delivered a fiery speech attacking U. S. State Secretary Dulles, Prime Minister Macmillan and American "H-bomber" patrols over Britain.

Men and women carrying banners reading Block H - Bomber Bases and "Stop Tests now" turned out for the demonstration organized by the opposition Labor party and the powerful Trades Union Congress.

But around the sides of the huge square stood silent men and women who proclaimed they would go further than the Labor-TUC policy of banning tests but keeping the hydrogen-bomb.

No H-Bombs for Britain, said the placards carried by these supporters of anti-nuclear movements.

HAVEN'T THE RIGHT

Gaitskell said in attacking tests "Whatever the rights or wrongs of maintaining armaments, no country and no government has the right to poison and destroy the lives of innocent people thousands of miles away from their own shores."

In his speech, Bevan said he is tired of hearing Dulles say "we can't trust the Russians."

He said it is a "misreading" of the Soviet point of view to believe the Russians contemplate launching an attack on the West with all the force at their command.

He urged a united effort by all sections of the Labor movement to "make it clear" that Macmillan "does not speak for the British people" no these issues.

Diefenbaker Returns To Ottawa; Reveals Plans

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, returning tanned and smiling from a week-long Bermuda holiday, said Sunday he expects to make new cabinet appointments before Parliament opens.

He also said that Thursday, May 8, is "the date as far as I'm concerned" for the opening of the Parliament elected March 31.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking to reporters at Uplands Airport, hinted that besides three new cabinet appointments from Quebec he may name one or more new ministers from other provinces as well.

Referring to the election result in which an unprecedented 208 Progressive Conservatives were elected, he said "conceivably, in view of the comprehensive return of members, there could be additions in one or more other provinces."

TIME UNIMPORTANT

Asked when new ministers might be named, he said "immunity isn't a dominant factor." All new ministers might not be named at one time. But there would be appointments before Parliament met.

Mr. Diefenbaker made these other statements in reply to questions:

1. He is planning salary increases for senior civil servants to help offset the "continuing magnetic influence" of high-paying jobs in private business attracting the governments' top men.
2. He expects a cabinet hearing, opening today, on an appeal against a 3.6-per-cent railway freight rate increase will last about two days.
3. A letter in reply to the recent letter from Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the halting of nuclear weapons testing will be ready Tuesday.
4. He doesn't think it possible that the planned Canadian tour this summer of Princess Margaret can be enlarged to take in more than the 13 or so stops now on the tentative itinerary.

Nearly 1,000 persons turned out on the warm, sunny afternoon to watch his arrival.

He is scheduled to arrive on the Island, Saturday, November 8th and will leave the province the following Tuesday.

Tentative plans include a Scout Guard of Honour at the R.C.A.F. Station in Summerside, a giant rally of Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs and Scouters of Prince County there on Saturday evening, an amateur circus in Charlottetown on Monday evening for Queens and Kings Counties followed by the Annual Scouter-Guide Ball in the Charlottetown Hotel and a place in the Remembrance Day program just before he leaves.

Speaker & Clerk Get Pay Boosts

The Deputy Speaker of the Legislature had his honorarium of $300 raised to $500 by the Legislature which considered the report of the contingent committee just before the closing of the Legislature Saturday.

The increase for the Deputy Speaker, Mr. J. Brenton St. John was the result of a suggestion made by Premier Matheson who stated that the Deputy's job this year was heavier than usual. The Speaker of the House, Hon. J. Augustin Gallant, was last at his post on March 20 and did not return to the Legislature for the remainder of the Session.

Mr. St. John as a sitting member receives a seasonal indemnity and travelling expenses amounting to $1,950.

An increase of $100 was given the Clerk of the House, Thomas Cullen. The amount paid last year was $1,400 compared to $1,500 this year.

At the suggestion of Leo Rossiter, who was a member of the contingent committee, it was agreed to pay the messengers, and clerks an extra weeks pay due to the short time the House sat and the long hours involved during the last week.

These employees are paid on a weekly basis. All other expenses in connection with the sessions of the Legislature remain the same as last year.

PM Suggests Liberals May Have Had "Tip" On Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested Sunday the Liberal party might have had an advance tip on some of the recommendations in the final report of the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economy, made public last Tuesday.

On his return from a Bermuda holiday, he was asked to comment on the report's proposals concerning northern development and the use of tax cuts in time of recession.

The report said it would take the "ruthlessness of a Peter the Great" to plant any large population centres in the Canadian Arctic. It also advocated tax cuts and deficit financing to meet recessions.

SUPPORTED PEARSON

The commission was headed by Toronto accountant Walter L. Gordon, who in the recent election campaign openly supported Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Pearson's major campaign appeal was the promise of a $400,000,000 annual tax cut to help overcome unemployment, while one of Mr. Diefenbaker's main proposals for a major program of development in the far north.

Sunday Mr. Diefenbaker said he had read the report in Bermuda.

"Having regard to the campaign of the Liberal party... it is apparent the Liberal party had some anticipation of what some of its recommendations would be."

He declined to comment directly on the recommendations.

Education Price Tag Not High In Terms Of Wealth

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Education, like everything else, has a price tag but in terms of national wealth it is not an unduly large one.

This was indicated by George L. Wilcox, president of Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., in a recent address.

In the next 10 years, he said, about 3,000,000 young people will reach university age in Canada.

Assuming that one-third of them are fully capable of absorbing higher education, then 1,000,000 will reach college age between now and 1968.

But under university expansions now planned only about 300,000 can be accommodated

Mr. Wilcox asked:

"In this day of world technological revolution when brains are precious and educated intelligence the most valuable single commodity on earth—can we tolerate the potential wastage of 700,000 qualified young Canadians?"

Mr. Wilcox, who used figures compiled by the industrial foundation on education, said the entire 1,000,000 could receive college education at a cost of $344,000,000 in the first year, with the figure rising to $460,000,000 by the end of the decade.

NOT IMPOSSIBLE

"This would be a considerable figure, but it would not be an impossible one."

"In 1956 Canadians spent nearly $1,500,000,000 for alcohol and tobacco; $130,000,000 for toilet preparations; $226,000,000 for radio and television receivers; and over $1,000,000,000 for new cars.

"I am suggesting that this prosperous country could well afford the additional expenditure over the next 10 years of about $400,000,000 annually for an educational system that could produce a college education for all her qualified and willing young people."

DEVASTATING EFFECT

Mr. Wilcox commented:

"If all the universities were to be closed today there would likely be hardly a ripple on the economic seismograph of the country. Yet the cumulative effect would be a disaster worse than a whole series of depressions, bank closings or business failures.

Such a possibility might appear to be only an amusing fantasy; Mr. Wilcox said, but the shortage of funds constituted a threat that in the long run might be almost equally serious.

Not Sure Bomb Caused Death

TOKYO (Reuters) — A post mortem on a 34-year-old Japanese woman who survived the atomic bombing on Hiroshima and who died four days ago did not prove whether the bomb was an indirect cause of her death, a doctor said here Saturday.

Doctors said earlier that the woman, Hideo Hiraata, died from "radioactive cancer" following the 1945 Hiroshima raid.

Miss Hiraata was one of 25 Japanese women selected to go to the United States in 1955 for free surgical treatment designed to help them toward a normal life.

Dr. Hiroshi Kawaiishi said Miss Hiraata entered the Hiroshima University hospital last March 1 and underwent an operation a week later for the removal of her stomach.
