

Christmas Thoughts.

He who is hospitable shall be himself God's guest.

True love cannot be divided, and must be voluntary and unconstrained.

No metaphysician ever felt the deficiency of language so much as the grateful.

How would Charlottetown now get along without the Daily paper.

The humility, the basis of the Christian system, is the low, but deep and firm foundation of all real virtue.

Opportunity has hair in front; behind she is bald. If you seize her by the forelock you may hold her; but, if suffered to escape, not Jupiter himself can catch her again.

Shall we have a good strong screw steamer to take advantage of the fine weather and our open harbor—by this time next year?

If you wish to get on, (either in a spiritual or worldly way), you must do as you would to get in through a crowd to a gate all are equally anxious to reach.

If we really live under the hope of future happiness, we shall taste it by way of anticipation and forethought; an image of it will meet our minds often, and stay there, as all pleasing expectations do.

Our country cannot well subsist without liberty, nor liberty without virtue.

CHARITY.

I meet her coming from the church and in the crowded thoroughfare, with downcast eyes, a modest mien, and tangled locks of sunny hair.

With her life is a goodly thing, well spent in raising some poor heart, about whose home the sombre wing of sin and sorrow finds a part.

If you believe in evil you have done evil.

The primal duties shone aloft, like stars, the charities that soothe and heal and bless are scattered at the feet of men like flowers.

He is a good man, people say, thoughtlessly. They would be more chary of such praise if they reflected they could bestow none higher.

The path of duty lies in what is near, and men seek for it in what is remote; the work of duty lies in what is easy, and men seek for it in what is difficult.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten its cause.

As in nature, as in art, so in grace—it is rough treatment that gives souls, as well as stones, their lustre. The more a diamond is cut the brighter it sparkles; and in what seems hard dealing, there God has no end in view but to perfect his people.

Annihilate not the mercies of God by the oblivion of ingratitude; for oblivion is a kind of annihilation; and for things to be as though they had not been is like unto never being.

He is good that does good to others. If he suffers for the good he does, he is better still; and if he suffers for them to whom he did good, he has arrived to that height of goodness that nothing but an increase of his sufferings can add to it; if it proves his death, his virtue is at its summit—it is heroic complete.
