SAFE SOOTHING SATISFYING

Originated by an Old Family Physician in 1810.

You can safely trust what time has indorsed for nearly a century.

There is not a medicine in use today which possesses the confidence of the public to so great an extent as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. For more than eighty years it has stood upon its own intrinsic merit, while generation after generation have used it. The best evidence of its value is the fact that in the state where it originated the sale of it is steadily increasing.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment

I. S. JOHNSON ESQ. My Dear Sir:—Fifty years ago this month, your father, Dr. Johnson, called at my store and left me some Johnson's Anodyne Liniment on sale. I have sold it ever since. I can most truly say that it has maintained its high standard and popularity from that time to this. JOHN B. RAND, North Waterford, Maine, Jan., 1891.

This certifies that Dr. A. Johnson, whose name is signed to every genuine bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, in the month of Jan. 1840, first left at my store some of the same I have supplied my customers with it ever since, (over fifty years) with increasing sales. JABEZ KNOWLTON, Newburg, Maine.

baby growth

The baby's mission is growth. To that little bundle of love, half trick, half dream, every added ounce of flesh means added happiness and comfort! Fat is the signal of perfect health, comfort, good nature, baby beauty.

Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, is the easiest fat-food baby can have, in the easiest form. It supplies just what he cannot get in his ordinary food, and helps him over the weak places to perfect growth.

STORY OF WOLSELEY.

The Commander-in-Chief Shows a Lax Postmaster How to Work.

To illustrate some of the disagreeabilities which the soldiers suffered in the Soudan, Mr. Nourse tells the following anecdote of the postal service, which also well shows how democratic was Lord Wolseley, the commandant. Nourse went to the post-office at Korti to look for some leters. The postmaster was a native and not very much at handwriting, and said there was nothing for him, after a superficial glance at a big pile of papers and letters.

Nourse asked to see the pile of letters, and while he was looking the over a man with nothing to designate his rank came into the office in company with another. He took in the situation at a glance and said: "Let's clean this thing out." Whereupon they jumped over the counter and bundled the postmaster out, neck and heels. Then they began the examination of the office and found it congested with mail for the army.

They searched every nook and cranny and threw the letters for one regiment into one corner, those for another into another, with all the newspapers in the centre of the floor. Then they went through each pile and separated it into companies, and before night every letter in camp was distributed and the next day the papers were out. Nourse at the time did not know who his companion in the good deed was. He asked him his name, and his answer was: "They call me Charley." Some time afterward Nourse was going to see the commandant, and sitting near his tent saw his companion at the post-office.

"Hello, Charley," he said, "I'm looking for the commandant; where'll I find him?"

"Well," said "Charley," "you won't have to look far. I'm the commandant. Come inside and have a bit to eat and drink."

It was Lord Wolseley, and a man worthy of the title.

Animal Criminals.

Sparrows have a habit of stealing swallows' nests. The swallows occasionally retaliate. In one case they have been known to do so by killing the young of the sparrows.

Some pigeons steal straw and other building materials from dove cotes. The thieving pigeons have been observed to be shiftless birds, bad flyers and carriers. They showed the principal characteristics of human thieves—disinclination to work.

Cases of theft have at times been remarked among female dogs, but such cases are almost always influenced by material love. Certain dogs which when in a normal condition, are very well behaved and respect their masters' property, begin to steal when they have puppies, and they steal anything that the latter will eat.

Nor is murder wanting among animals; that is to say, not murder such as is caused by the exigencies of the struggle for life; but murder committed under the influence of induvidual malice or passion. It would be absurd to declare that the hawk which kills a swallow is a criminal, for he is only fighting out his struggle for existence, but, on the other hand, animals which kill others of their own species are guilty of a true criminal act when they do so for any other reason than that of self-defence.

Thus Karl Vogt, the celebrated German naturalist, has observed a couple of storks that had for several years built their nest in a village near Salette. One day it was noticed that, when the male was out in search of food, another younger bird began to court the female. At first he was repulsed, then tolerated and welcomed; at last, one morning, the two birds flew away to the field where the husband, was hunting for frogs, and killed him. According to Brehm, storks often murder the members of the flock which either refuse to follow them at the time of migration or are not able to do so.

An Electric Hen.

The business of hatching chickens by artificial means is carried on so extensively that any improvement in the apparatus or methods is certain to attract the attention of all poultry raisers, says an exchange. The latest invention in this line is an electric apparatus. It is said that in this invention the temperature can be adjusted and maintained to a fraction of the desired pitch. The walls of the incubator are filled in with mineral wool. There is a hot-water tank at the top which keeps up the proper temperature by circulation. In these electric hens, as they are called, a resistance box may be used to heat the water, but they are made so that either oil, gas or electricity may be used. The idea of hatching chickens by electricity explodes the old theory that an electric current addled the eggs. This notion went out of fashion a long time ago, with many other things to which our ancestors clung with the utmost tenacity. It is thought that chicks raised in electric incubators have more strength and vitality than when brought out in the ordinary way. Several poultrymen are experimenting with electric brooders, and the results will be looked for with great interest.

A HOT SOUP SPRING

A WONDERFUL FREAK OF NATURE FOUND NEAR ELKO, NEVADA.

Visitors Bring Cups and Crackers and Feast on Something That Tastes Like Chicken Broth—Nature's Soup Kitchen in the Foothills of the Sierras.

The free soup houses might have been dispensed with during the hard times if the people of Nevada had only put up barrels of the chicken soup that bubbles from the foot hills of the Sierra Nevadas, in Elko County, Nev., and had dispatched it to the poor in our great cities. Incredible as it may seem, it is nevertheless a fact that soup is a natural product; and I have often satisfied my hunger, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, from this boiling hot spring, which, judging by the palate, is simply nature's hot soup tureen. The pool, scarcely 100 yards in diameter, lies just off the stage road among the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The traveler comes upon it just after crossing the toll bridge over the Humboldt River, which rushes like a cataract through the Humboldt Valley far below, making Chicken Soup Spring seem rather insignificant; but in reality this wonderful little body of water has been sounded to the depth of 100 feet, while the turbulent waters below are shallow in comparison.

The south side of the pool is deepest and seems to be the source from which the peculiar solution flows; for the bubbling, boiling water on that side will cook a goose egg in two minutes. It is a common sight to see tourists wending their way with bags of crackers and cups in their hands.

The neighboring roadbed is ballasted on one side by what appears to be a covering of hardened lime; but it is in reality pure crushed lava of unmistakably volcanic organ, for lying in close proximity are evidences of volcanic eruptions.

The pool has been dragged many times, but nothing has ever been taken from its depths but cedar. Cedar trees once abounded in this locality, and the bark, which bears marks of considerable age, was probably thrown in by the Indians while building their rafts and canoes.

This wonderful freak, lying about three and one-half miles from the rough little mining town of Elko, is never visited by the inhabitants, unless they are passing that way and feel hungry. The miners and the rest of the matter-of-fact population have long ceased to wonder at nature's partiality, and except the existence of this boiling soup caldron as a convenient fact. Whether it is due to the mineral properties of the soil or to the close proximity of lava beds, or is itself a volcano in a mild state of aqueous eruption, I know not. But, there it is, and any one who will go to Elko can easily find the spring and sample the soup to corroborate my statements.

Footwear of a Giant.

"Big Foot Johnson is a noted criminal of Southern California and recently he was traced from the scene of a highway robbery to his hiding place in a swamp many miles away, by the immense foot prints he left en route. But Johnson's shoes were only sixteen inches long and now another Californian turns up at San Jose and beats the record with pedal apparel seven inches wide and eighteen and a half inches long. John Defant is the owner of the feet and he has just left a good pair of shoes in a San Jose shop, and had a new pair made to order.

The youth of the town gathered about the shop and saw those wonderful feet enshrouded in two calf skins. Defant was not annoyed by the curiosity. He frankly said he had long got over that feeling.

"They may look large," he said frankly and modestly, as one knows the real worth of his possessions, "but they ain't. You just ought to see my sister's feet." And he proceeded to reveal to those gaping youngsters the broad and noble dimensions of his sister's Trilbys.

Defant is working about the mines in the Sierra foothills. Though a Frenchman he looks as big as the biggest of the Cornish miners in that locality. He is six feet six inches tall, weighs 230 pounds, and is 45 years of age.

Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chase's Pills have gained popularity because they are a specific for the uric acid condition, prevent Bright's disease, cure Rheumatism and all Catarrhal conditions of the Kidneys and Bladder. They do this because they possess remarkable alterative, tonic and deuretic properities, exerting a wonderfully soothing influence on irritated or inflamed mucos membrance of the kidneys or bladder. One pill a dose. 25 a box. The cheapest medicine in the world.

The common nickel (5c. piece) was authorized by act of Congress May 16, 1866, and its coinage was begun the same year.

It Saved Our Child.

"My little daughter, three and a half year old, suffered three years with Eczema. Her little body was covered with the itching rash, and doctors did no good. Four boxes of Chase's Ointment entirely cured and saved our child. Her skin is clear and not a sign of rash is to be seen." Andrew Aiton, Hartland, N. B. Mr. Aiton is one of thousands benefitted by this unfailing cure for piles and skin diseases.

The old-fashioned copper cent was authorized by act of Congress, April 22, 1792, and its coinage was begun the following year.

Build Up.

When the system is run down a person comes an easy prey to Consumption or Scrofula. Many valuable lives are saved by using Scott's Emulsion as soon as a decline in health is observed.

The general fineness of American silver coins is from 89 to 90 per cent., except the 3-cent piece, which contained 25 per cent of alloy.

Completely Knocked Out.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr, Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." Scott's Sarsaparilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poisons. Ask for Scott's and get it.

Moses Brown, of Boston, had the credit of making the first deposit of gold bullion to be coined. In 1795 he deposited $2,276.72.

Telephones and Lightning.

Investigations carried on for several years have shown that the introduction of the telephone has greatly lessened the danger from lightning. German statisticians have established data secured by observation of 4,374 buildings in cities without the telephone and 37,444 in cities which have telephone service. The annual average of lightning striking these houses for the past five years shows that four of the 4,374 buildings in cities without telephone were struck, while only two of the 37,444 houses in cities with telephone service suffered in that way. The proportion pro rata in 100,000 houses would be 91 to 5, which proves how much less the danger from lightning is in cities where the telephone is introduced than in those without it.

A Malapeau Proverb.

"It's too bad," said Miss Cayenne thoughtfully. "It must have hurt Miss Trimwell's feelings very much, but I spoke before I thought."

"Were you rude to her?" inquired the mutual feminine friend.

"I am afraid so. She was telling me how Mr. Wickles proposed to her. She was wonderfully pleased because he declared that if he had the wealth of the Indias he would lay it at her feet.'

"And what did you say?"

"I said 'a fool and his money are soon parted.'"

Bad Advice.

"Every experience of your life, my friend," said the solemn-faced visitor at the jail, "is for you to make the right use of it. Utter no complaint. Bear your punishment in silence. Take things as you find them."

"I allus do," said the dejected vagabond, behind the bars. "That's how I got here."

PORT HOPE, Oct. 26 (Special)—Citizens called on here to vouch for correctness of the following statement without an exception endorsed it as true. Mr. Chas. Gilchrist, Chief of Police and government Fishery overseer of his own case said:—"For ten years my distress increased until the doctor called it Diabetes. At times my suffering was intense, and medicine taken did no good. At last a friend assured me that Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure me. A few boxes have kept that promise, and I thank these pills for a perfect and I believe permanent cure."

The 3c. nickel piece received the authorization of Congress by a law passed April 3, 1865, and its coinage was begun the same year.
