Retired Civil Servant Returns To University

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A retired Ottawa civil servant has returned to university to prove a person is never too old to learn—again at all.

D. C. Maddox, druggist-turned-mining engineer, is taking an a.s. course in philosophy and psychology at Queen's University here to fulfil a pledge he made when he attended the university in the early 1920s as a geology student.

Mr. Maddox, who retired in 1946 from the borings section of the geological survey department in Ottawa, came to Canada from England in 1907. He worked as a druggist in Toronto and at Winnipeg and other Manitoba centres, including Melita, Beausejour, Transcona, Portage la Prairie and Neepawa.

During his Winnipeg stay he became interested in metal prospecting and took lectures in geology of mineralogy from Dr. R. C. Wallace, then head of that department at the University of Manitoba.

Second Vessel Said Needed To Keep Up With Nfld. Trade

Cargoes on the M.V. Fergus have increased to such an extent this summer that serious consideration is being given to augmenting the service by the addition of a smaller craft.

The Department of Industry and Natural Resources yesterday released figures to show that the trade with Newfoundland via the "Fergus" has more than doubled since last year. In her first twelve voyages from Charlottetown she carried 4,380 tons in comparison to 2,052 tons in the same number of trips last year.

The last trip made by the "Fergus" from Charlottetown, 75 tons of produce was left on the wharf and it is felt that a smaller ship will be required to take up the surplus.

The biggest increase in shipments is seen in the amount of chilled beef demanded by Newfoundland retailers. This has replaced to a great extent, the livestock shipments that have been made in years past. The last trip of the ship saw turkeys piled on deck and in some instances in the lifeboats.

The "Fergus" capable of taking a 4-5 hundred ton cargo makes weekly calls at Charlottetown. Owned by a Pictou firm, the ship is subsidized by both the Federal and Provincial Governments.

NAVAL SHIPS SAIL TODAY

This attractive crest of the H.M.S. Tenby, which for the past three days served its purpose in identifying one of two visiting British Navy frigates, will be removed today as the ships leave the Charlottetown port and head for Montreal where they will be joined by two other frigates. The four vessels will then continue on to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.
