THE race between Stewart's "Josie" and Miller's "Little Fred" came off as announced on the Hillsboro ice yesterday afternoon. Four heats were trotted, "Little Fred" winning the first and "Josie" the remaining three. A large number of spectators witnessed the race.

In yesterday's issue of the daily Patriot we find the following: "If Ananias had lived now-a-days his prevaricative ability would never have handed his name down to posterity." Our contemporary is right for once, and is evidently jealous of the distinction. With all his faults the original Ananias was never accused of editing a virt newspaper.

WE are informed that a young man was to-day arrested by two policemen as a witness in a Scott Act case. Although he made no resistance, and was quite willing to go with the officers, they handcuffed him and marched off with him quite triumphantly. The Griffith case appears to have had no effect, and we suppose it will have to be repeated before officers will be taught their duty, and the city their responsibility for their conduct.

NOTWITHSTANDING the gale of westerly wind on Saturday last, Mr. Donald McDonald (strong), of Dundas, walked from his own place to New Perth, a distance of nearly eighteen miles. For a young man this would have been quite a feat, considering the weather that day, but when it is remembered that Mr. McDonald is an old man of 92 years of age, the merit of the undertaking is considerably increased. We think Mr. McDonald can be counted as the strongest old man in this island.

THE Brecken-Rattray three-mile race came off last evening. The race was one of the most interesting and best contested ever witnessed in the Excelsior. At 9.40 sharp the men were set off. Brecken led for the first mile with Rattray at his heels. At the close of the first mile Rattray gave his opponent the "go-by," but Brecken "collared" and passed Rattray again before half the second mile had been covered. Brecken continued to lead until within about seven laps of the finish, when Rattray, who "held" him well, spurred and sailed ahead. This order was maintained until the finish, Rattray winning by about four feet. Brecken claimed that Rattray fouled him in passing the last time, but the foul was disallowed and the race awarded to Rattray. Time 11.05.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

(SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.)

The Missing Postmaster.

SOURIS, March 29. William Howlett, the Annandale Postmaster, has not yet been found. It is now believed that he was drowned before reaching the dory. The facts of the sad affair are about as follows:—On Saturday afternoon last, about dusk, Howlett noticed that a dory of his had been blown from the wharf and was drifting away. He started in pursuit taking with him a dog, a pole and a coil of rope with which to tie up the dory. Some time later the dog returned home but there was no trace of the master. This did not occasion any alarm as it was supposed Howlett would return later on. The night wore on, but still he did not show up. Mrs. Howlett began to grow uneasy and alarmed the neighbors. It was then too late to institute a search that night, but on the following day (Sunday) every place where it was suspected he would be likely to be found was searched but all to no avail. It was at first supposed that he had got into the boat, and the tide being strong from the shore had drifted out to the gulf. This idea is now discredited, and it is now believed that he broke through the drift ice and was drowned before reaching the dory as above stated.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

A Souris correspondent writes:—It is feared that Captain William Howlett, of Annandale, lost his life on Saturday night last under the following circumstances: A little before dark he started across Grand River to secure a dory that was likely to be broken up by the ice on the southern side of the river. Up to the present writing no tidings have been heard of him, although his friends have been searching for him diligently in every direction. It is supposed that while attempting to cross the river he fell through the ice and was drowned. Howlett was the ferryman, buoy contractor, and postmaster at Annandale. He was married to a daughter of Capt. Jones, of Newfoundland, but has no family. It is just possible that he may have been carried out to sea on the ice, but his friends have given up all hopes of finding him living. There were no oars in the dory, and if, after hauling her up on the ice, the wind (which was blowing stiffly from the westward at the time) drove him out to sea, he may still be found alive. Two men started in search of him on Sunday evening, in the direction of East Point, thinking that he might have been driven up there along that coast, but they returned yesterday without having seen anything of him. Much sympathy is felt for his wife and aged mother and brothers under their present trying circumstances. Some have suggested the advisability of sending out the Northern Light in search of him, and if there is any likelihood of his being out on the ice, as some suppose, the sooner she is sent in search of him the better, as no time should be lost if his life is to be saved.

Shooting Affray.

BOSTON, March 28. About four o'clock this afternoon a shooting affray took place which will probably result in the death of two persons. The premises had been used as a gambling room by Edward Flanagan and David Lahanan. The two proprietors and A. A. Albrecht were engaged in a game of faro. According to Albrecht's story he detected Lahanan in an attempt to cheat him, when Lahanan grabbed a long iron bar and made a pass at him. Albrecht says that in self-defence he drew his revolver and fired two shots at Lahanan, one passing through his head, causing instant death. Flanagan then started for Albrecht, also with an iron bar, but was met by two or three more bullets from Albrecht's revolver. Flanagan's wounds are pronounced mortal. Albrecht was arrested.

Arrived.

HALIFAX, March 28. The steamer Newfoundland arrived to-day from St. John's. She left the latter port at 6 p. m. Thursday, and took from 5 to 6 o'clock to get through the ice Thursday night, and had a heavy north-westerly gale to this port. It reports a bark, two barkentines and a brigantine outside St. John's, waiting opportunity to go in.

Another Yacht Race.

NEW YORK, March 28. Richard K. Fox has notified Messrs. Bush and Colt, owners of the yachts Coronet and Dauntless, that he will give a cup of the value of $5,000 for a return ocean race from Fastnet Island to Sandy Hook, under conditions similar to those of the recent race which was won by the Coronet.

Canada's Authority.

LONDON, March 28. In the House of Commons this evening, Sir Henry Holland, Colonial Secretary, replying to a question, stated that the Canadian Parliament possessed authority to purchase and direct the operations of armed cruisers in Canadian waters without the consent of the Imperial Government.

Out of Danger.

ANTIGONISH, March 28. Currie, the Cashier of the Merchants' Bank, who was the victim of the shooting affray and attempted robbery on Saturday, is considered out of danger.

The First Reading.

LONDON, March 28. Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland to-night in the Commons, moved the first reading of the Irish Criminal Law amendment Bill.

The Ocean Race.

QUEENSTOWN, March 28. The Dauntless crossed the finishing line at 6.45. Her actual time on the passage was 10 days, 1 hour, 43 minutes and 13 seconds.

Immigrants.

HALIFAX, March 28. The Parisian arrived from Liverpool this morning with the weekly mails and about 1000 passengers, over 700 being immigrants bound to the Upper Provinces and Northwest. Among the cabin passengers were Charles H. Tupper, M. P., and Lady Tupper.

Burned at Sea.

HALIFAX, March 28. The ship Vendorne, from New York, 22nd February, for Amsterdam, with a cargo of oil, has been burned in the North Sea. Crew saved. The Vendorne was built and owned by Wm. D. Lovitt, of Yarmouth.

Fast Skating.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 29. The ten mile race last night between McCormack and Dowd was won by the former in the good time of 37 m. 2 1/2 s. The final contest comes off on Wednesday night, the distance to be 15 miles.

Weather Bulletin.

TORONTO, March 29—10 a. m. Strong winds or moderate gales, veering to westerly; cloudy with occasional rain, followed by clearing and slightly colder weather.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The "Patriot" and the "Tory Outrage."

SIR,—I was amused on seeing yesterday's issue of the Patriot, in the leading article of which the editor complains on account of some investigation which he says is going on at the Railway with reference to the officials, and calls it "Another Tory Outrage." This comes with a decidedly bad grace from the mouthpiece of a party whose whole stock-in-trade previous to the Dominion election was the promise to oust from office every Liberal-Conservative within their reach and fill their places with Grits. Why, sir, I would like to ask these purists if they have forgotten the caucus meeting which they held the night before the general election, at which they named their men (prospectively) to fill the various offices in the railway and other departments of the public service occupied by supporters of the Government. Then they were so confident of a great political victory throughout the Dominion that they thought it unnecessary to keep these things a secret, but now, when there is a prospect of their being paid back in their own coin, they raise their hands in holy horror and howl. Well, we say let the heathen rage. They throw down the gauntlet, and they cannot blame the Conservatives if it is taken up. The Grit orators have for years past, on the platform and on the street, announced their intention of dismissing every Conservative official as soon as they get into power, and if their chickens come home to roost perhaps they will recognize them. They should be quite content to receive that mercy which, if they had the reins of Government, they would accord to others. The Patriot, however, not only howls, but is full of threats and vituperation, and insinuates indirectly that Mr. Davies will upset the Dominion generally, if his partisan, political friends are not kept in some of the best positions in the gift of the Government. Well, this is refreshing certainly; but I imagine that Mr. Davies is not going to exercise very much influence in the distribution of the patronage of the Dominion Government for the next five years, nor for that matter, the next fifty. He will probably be a much older if not a wiser man before his party attains to power in this go-ahead age. At all events, his bluster and gasconade count for nothing at Ottawa and when he gets up there in front of Dr. Tupper, no man knows better than he does that he is not in the Market Hall in Charlottetown. Not wishing, Mr. Editor, to trespass too much on your columns, I would just say in conclusion, that the supporters of the Conservative Party here expect and demand justice at the hands of the Dominion Government, regardless of the impotent threats of Mr. L. H. Davies and his crew. Yours, &c., CITIZEN.

The Liquor Traffic.

SIR,—Is it not high time that the people of this island, both in town and country, should shake up their minds about the working, or rather the non-working, of the Scott Act. It is supposed to be in force in this Province, and still liquor of the vilest kind is being sold wholesale and retail. Nevertheless, we are told that the Scott Act is a good act, and that all it needs to make it what it was intended to be, is the means to enforce it. Very well, let the means be supplied at once, otherwise let it be acknowledged that the Act, so far as suppressing the sale of liquor is concerned, is a miserable failure. For making this statement, I am aware that some temperance men will probably say that I have no sympathy with the temperance or total abstinence movement. It may be even said that I am either a rumseller or one strongly in sympathy with the traffic. But I may tell anyone who may feel disposed to so accuse me that I am neither the one nor the other. I voted for the adoption of the Scott Act, and am sorry to have to admit that there is scarcely a settlement on the island but some one or more families in it are suffering from the evils of strong drink. Is the Scott Act in any way lessening these evils? I believe not. Without attempting to discuss the merits or demerits of the law supposed to be now in force, it is our duty at the present time to look at the naked facts as they present themselves. And what are the facts? In all our towns and villages and along many of our highways, liquor is sold without leave or license. Inspectors of licenses, (whatever that may mean) have been appointed, but they either cannot or will not prosecute offenders. In the rural districts especially, the law is a dead letter. Liquor dealers in Charlottetown supply their customers in the country with any amount of the article, and it is sold and drunk with impunity all over the land. What is the remedy for this state of affairs? Either secure the enforcement of the Scott Act or repeal it and get something upper workable in its place. The matter rests in the hands of the electors. If the law we have, no matter how ineffectual in theory, is practically inoperative, we should be prepared to acknowledge it and try to make matters better by bringing about legislation that will check at least the use of intoxicating drinks among the people. QUI VIVE.

Partizan Grit Officials.

SIR,—No sooner had the late Dominion campaign opened than it was given out by the Grits that, if successful, no quarter would be shown to "Tory officials." It was proclaimed that so certain was the Tory party of defeat, that Sir John Macdonald was packing every office in the Dominion with "Tory officials;" and it was boldly asserted by the organ here that it would not be very long until the Grits would have the pleasure of ejecting them. In this way a reign of terror was kept up, and in no part of the Dominion did the Grits benefit so largely by it as in this Province.

Now that the struggle is over, the mode of dealing with certain Dominion officials who took an active part during the campaign, in favor of the Grits, ought to be considered without delay. When those officials ranged themselves on the Grit side, although they were only mis-calculating upon another lease of office, they led some to believe that a change was coming.

It is needless to say that such officials have forfeited public confidence, that "their usefulness is gone." To continue them in office would not induce one of them to retract a single slander uttered by them against Sir John Macdonald's Government, while it would be obnoxious to right thinking men of both parties. To allow such men as Mr. J. H. Cummiskey to hold the position of postmaster, or Mr. Thomas Cummiskey to remain as wharfinger, or Mr. MacRae to continue as sub-collector of Customs at Pownal, would be taxing the forbearance of the people too heavily. Then there are those who, while not canvassing openly, did not conceal their violent political partizanship on the night of the 22nd February, and on the following day, while the result was uncertain, but who have been very much since the correct returns were received. Such officials have no right to expect any political favors only what their friends are in a position to bestow upon them.

Whether they are disturbed or not, one thing is certain; the Grits will never give the Conservatives credit for showing mercy to such officials. The old slanders will still be repeated, and if the Grits were returned to power to-morrow they would faithfully carry out the threats made by them against Conservative officials previous to the election.

Yours truly, VOTER.

Boston Markets.

BOSTON, March 23. Eggs.—The tendency of prices continues in favor of buyers, under the influence of liberal receipts, and at the close sales of Eastern were at 16 to 16 1/2c and Western at 15 to 15 1/2c per dozen.

POTATOES.—The market is a little steadier, with a fair demand. Houlton Rose command 63 to 65c, the outside for seed lots. Hebrons 50 to 55c, all of which were from the Provinces. Reports from Provinces since January 1 foot up 12,430 bbls against 6,825 bbls same time last year.

FISH.—There continues to be a slow trade in fish and the market is easier on almost all kinds. Holders of Nova Scotia Mackerel have become anxious, and several lots have been forced off at lower prices. We notice sales of some 2,500 bbls No 1 at $13 to $13 40, and it is understood that more could be bought at the same rate or even lower. Extras are nominally at $15 to $1. No 2 are held at $13 to $14, at about the same rate as No 1. No 3 are nominal $9 per bbl. Receipts of Mackerel for the week closing Friday were 1,883 bbls, all of which were from the Provinces. Reports from Provinces since January 1 foot up 12,430 bbls against 6,825 bbls same time last year.

David Kennedy's Wealth.

The inventory of the personal estate of the late David Kennedy, Scottish vocalist, who died at Stratford, Ont., on Oct. 13th last, which has been received, shows that the net value of the deceased's estate, after deducting debts and funeral expenses, amounts to £7,184 17s. 11d. By a will dated Aug. 5, 1887, he directs his trustees to pay a legacy of £100 to his sister, Miss Catherine Kennedy, and to deliver over his whole household furniture and other effects, to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Frazer or Kennedy, excepting a grand piano, which he bequeathes to his eldest daughter, and an American organ which he bequeathes to his second daughter. He further directs his trustees to pay to his widow an annuity of £300 during her life, and, in event of the marriage of any of his daughters, to pay to such daughter £100 for marriage outfit. After the death of the longest liver of himself or his wife, or upon the youngest of his children or of their survivors attaining the age of 21, which ever of these events happen last, the deceased directs the residue of his estate to be divided among his children, share and share alike. In addition to the property in Scotland left by the late Scottish vocalist (which amounts to £7,184) it is understood that the deceased leaves other £7,000 of assets in Australia. The total property left by him is £14,100 in personal estate and £1,400 heritable—together £15,500.
