STRICT ATTENTION to Business, Honesty and Square Dealing, and paying Cash every time, is what has placed to the front of all competitors, in CLOTHING, HATS, &c. He does not advertize to sell goods at cost, but he guarantees to sell from 10 to 25 per cent less than those who do advertize to sell at cost.

He does not try to deceive the people by making a big blow and offering paltry rewards, but tries to do things right and has the goods to back him up in what he advertizes. He has now about 6,500 HATS and $4,000 worth of CLOTHING, which he guarantees to sell from 10 to 25 per cent less than any house in the trade. A lot of this Clothing was bought less than half price, and will be sold less than half price. He does not ask the people to believe his advertisement until they see his prices; he knows then they will believe, and knows that the goods and prices back him up every time.

All goods freely shown, or sent to any part of the town.

Please don't forget to call.

Churchill on Home Rule.

Lord Randolph Churchill has written another attack on Gladstone's Home Rule policy. A citizen of Glasgow who describes himself as a Liberal, recently sent Lord Randolph a letter asking his views on a proposition to unite the Liberals who oppose Gladstone with the Tories on the basis of a solemn pledge by the latter that if in the next election they be returned to Parliament with sufficient strength to undertake the conduct of the Government they will never propose Home Rule for Ireland, any policy which shall partake of the nature of Home Rule, beyond the concession of local Government, and resist all attempts to enact further special legislation for Ireland. To this letter Lord Randolph Churchill has replied at length and his reply is published and widely circulated. He says: "I cannot admit that any incident in the history of the Tories gives any evidence of the necessity for such a pledge as you propose, because the maintenance of the union in all its essential conditions is and has always been a cardinal principle of Tory policy. The essence of the union is similarity in the laws for the kingdoms. As a general principle, Scotch or Irish habits and customs may from time to time require special treatment, but these rare and minor incidents cannot detract from the general principle. No Tory can ever propose Home Rule, because it violates this principle. The Tories must ever resist such schemes as are presented by Gladstone or any others that can be reasonably held to contain the germ of Home Rule. My speech advocating that the Tories closely intimate the action of the Northern States in America during the period 1861 to 1865, all indicate that that is the only policy for Imperial safety. If Parliament for the sake of purchasing a short illusory quietude, hand the Irish loyalists over to their hereditary foes, Ulster will fight and be victorious, because she will command the sympathy and support of an enormous section of the British community and the approval of the free civilized nations."

The Big Gun.

The big gun recently cast at the South Boston iron works was recently moved from the ordnance foundry into the machine shop for finishing in one of the large 120-inch lathes. This work of finishing requires the utmost skill and judgment, in the variation from prescribed measurements in the greater part of the work must not exceed 3-1000 of an inch. It is to be bored for a steel tube, to be inserted from the breech, whose diameter is about 22 inches, and the length 154 inches. The total length of the finished gun is 30 feet. When completed the gun will throw an 800 pound shot with a velocity of some 1,800 feet per second. With a powder charge of 265 pounds, the 12-inch breech-loading rifle, 54-ton gun which was sent to Sandy Hook last June, has been fired 98 rounds with most satisfactory results, having obtained a velocity of 1,680 feet per second with an 800-pound projectile and 265 pounds powder charge. This rifle is mounted on a 12-inch Powlett pneumatic gun carriage, whose weight with the gun mounted on it is 88 tons, is worked entirely by one man by the system of compressed air. The South Boston iron works are now building a gun loader for this carriage, which will carry the powder and projectile from the magazine to the carriage and load the gun, doing away with any hoisting or lifting hand or crane, and will be worked entirely by one man. In the ordnance shops of the South Boston works the 12-inch 53-ton rifle, called the Hooped and Tinned gun, as the cast-iron body is to be banded with two rows of steel hoops and a steel tube inserted from the breech, reaching about half-way to the muzzle, is being rapidly pushed to completion, one row of hoops having already been shrunk on, and the steel tube inserted.—Boston Herald.

Wholesale Swindling.

The resigning Montreal sensation is the Paterson, Kiscock, affair. In all interest seems to centre there. It is in every one's mouth and the pros. and cons. of the case are warmly discussed. The firm although a comparatively young one, is rated at $55,000 to $60,000, and last year turned over half a million dollars. The frauds which the authorities claim to have discovered, already involve over $10,000. For every charge against McLachlan Bros., they claim to have discovered twenty against Paterson, Kiscock & Co. Invoices are alleged to have been substituted, duplicate invoices used as originals for passing goods of greater value than in the original invoice; invoices altered so as to correspond with the number of the consignment of greater value than represented by invoice, and many other irregularities too numerous to mention are alleged. Clerks at the Custom House are still busily engaged investigating the case and claim to be continually discovering irregularities and frauds. Now that the stock has been placed under seizure, the onus of clearing things by proving that the duty has been paid, lies with the firm. A somewhat remarkable circumstance in connection with the case, is that all invoices of the firm prior to December 5th, are said to have been destroyed. The explanation of this is that the firm, being enabled to obtain more favorable terms than their competitors from exporters in England and in the United States, and fearful that its employes should convey these prices to other houses, destroy the invoices every six months after the bills have been paid.

The Policy of Secession.

The passage of the repeal resolution in the House of Assembly at an early hour yesterday (Sunday) morning, supported by every Brit member in the House, (with the solitary exception of Mr. Pipes) is a fitting finale to the career of the present legislature. Burglars and murderers not infrequently seek to destroy by fire the scenes of their crimes in order thereby to destroy the evidence of their guilt. It is with a similar motive that the present local government, after the most inglorious career that ever disgraced a government, propose to convulse, and if possible dismember the country in which they find themselves so thoroughly discredited. After four years of power they are able to point to no one act that reflects the slightest credit on them. Not a mile—not even a half mile—of railway has been constructed. The province saddled with a bonded debt of about a million dollars, provincial property worth millions of dollars, traitorously given away, solemn pledges regarding the legislative council flagrantly broken, a valuable institution of learning closed, and a humane institution ruined in a struggle to maintain the spoils system, a legislature corrupted in the most profligate manner, and the laws of the province generally mutilated, and the administration of the government generally degraded,—these are all they have to show the people as the results of their four years of government. It is no wonder, therefore, that they seek to cover their retreat from the legislative halls by applying the torch of the incendiary to the constitution of their country. It would have been strangely inappropriate for them to have closed their career of idleness and impishness in any other way.—Halifax Herald, May 10.

The Chicago Outrage.

The cruelty of an indiscriminate dynamite attack upon the police, will at once excite public attention. The officers are acting on behalf of the community. They are appointed to preserve the peace. They are under military discipline, and are taught to obey without question, the orders they receive. While acting in this capacity, they are the representatives of the whole people. Any attack upon them, is an offence to everybody, who is responsible for their official existence. To single out for murder a few officers who are in the discharge of their duty is a wanton and maniacal crime. These officers, presumably, are men of family and far more respectable and useful members of society than any of the ruffians engaged in the attack upon them. To slay them Tuesday, because some other officers Monday, defended themselves against rioters in another part of the city, is to exhibit a degree of madness that we had not believed even of the Anarchists to be capable of. We hope and believe the murder of the police officers last night, will instantly result in a consolidation of public opinion in favor of upholding the law and punishing those that violate it. There ought to be a public meeting called and such an expression given to the feeling of honest men that no alien assassins can remain in doubt what side the power rests with in this contest.—Chicago Tribune.

A Sad Case of Death from Overwork.

An inquest was held in London, last week, upon the body of Jane Shaw, a girl of seventeen, who was employed in Margaret Browne's dressmaking establishment, in Koppel street. Evidence was adduced to show that owing to the pressure of work consequent upon the Drawing-room, which was held on the 5th, and Tuesday's function at the Colonial Exhibition, the deceased, with a number of other girls, was working overtime for nearly every night during the past fortnight, and that Tuesday night, about 11 o'clock, she fell back in her chair and died immediately. The girl, who presented a very delicate appearance, had been working for several days from 8 o'clock in the morning till near midnight, with short intermissions for meals. Heart disease was the cause of death, and the coroner, in directing a verdict from natural causes, told Mrs. Browne that she narrowly escaped being indicted for manslaughter. Before leaving the court she was served with a summons for infringement of the Factory Act, prohibiting her employes at work during prohibited hours without notifying the inspector.

Profits of Stage-Robbing

During the past fourteen years 105 men have been engaged in the business of stage-robbing on Wells, Fargo & Company's Pacific Coast stage lines. That it is a business pursued with great diligence and skill is shown by the "Robbers Record," kept by the company for the use of its own detectives. It has in the last fourteen years cost Wells, Fargo & Company $927,726.55, or an average of $66,266 per year. The robbers are charged with $415,312.55, rewards for arrests, etc., $73,451; attorneys, $22,367; expenses incurred in arresting and convicting robbers, $90,079; guards and special officers, $320,517. In this is not included the great amount stolen from the United States mails in the same robberies, and the still greater total of cash and valuables taken from the stage-coach passengers. But taking the sum the robbers have secured from the Wells-Fargo boxes alone, $415,312, it is seen that the 105 men who have engaged in the business, have averaged $8,835, or $600 per year each. What the money and jewellery have netted the road-agents it is of course impossible to even estimate.—San Francisco Chronicle.
