A special collection was received for the furtherance of this splendid work. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Eaton addressed a meeting of the ladies of the community in the Baptist Church. Fast Mail Service For King's County

Residents of King's County received with satisfaction the news that a morning mail service is to be inaugurated within the matter of a few days in the county.

This has been a contention of the various Boards of Trade and other civic organizations throughout the county for several years, and on several occasions briefs have been presented requesting that a mail service by truck be undertaken for King's.

The situation with respect to King's is a unique one, in that there is only an evening mail service, the mail thereby arriving some twenty-four hours late in rural sections, and in some cases almost thirty-six hours late.

For example a letter arriving in Charlottetown tonight would not be received in a local post office until the next evening, and it would not be received in the country until the following day, when delivered by the rural carrier. Such a system was not out of order fifty to seventy-five years ago, but with such methods of transportation as are in existence today, it is, to say the least, out-moded.

The new service by truck delivery will speed up the delivery of mails by some twenty-four hours, and will give the residents of King's a greatly improved service over what has been in existence heretofore.

The first step in developing the new system was taken when The Guardian was delivered by truck in the morning only a few hours after coming off the press. King's County residents were already acquainted with the air-delivery service in Prince County, and were hopeful that some similar arrangement might be made to have the morning paper delivered here at the same time. The new arrangement by truck delivery has met with the approval of readers who are aware of the great deal of work involved in setting up such an organization, and the co-operation received from the Postal Department and the rural carriers. With the further development of this organization into the carrying of the mail, express, and l. c. l. freight by the C. N. R., trucks King's County residents for the first time will now be placed on an equitable delivery basis with the rest of the province.

Hodgson - Giddings Wedding

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon Sept. 1st in Murray Harbour United Church when Rev. A. D. MacKenzie united in marriage Hazel Myrtle, daughter of Mrs. Oliver Giddings and the late Oliver Giddings of White Sands, P. E. I., to William Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hodgson of Moncton, N. B., in a double ring ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with various colored gladioli for the occasion. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Albert MacLeod played the nuptial music. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Oliver Giddings, by whom she was given in marriage, and was attended by her sister Miss Jeannetta Giddings as maid of honor. Mr. Kenneth MacQueen of Moncton, N. B. supported the groom and John Williams ushered.

The bride was charming in a floor length gown of white bridal satin styled with a fitted bodice with tiny covered buttons extending to a point at the back, and featured a net yoke edged with lace and tiny pearls, the long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt was caught up in front with satin bows to show numerous rows of chantilly lace. Her full length veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held in place with a coronet of seed pearls and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The maid of honor was beautifully attired in a floor length gown of turquoise taffeta. The moulded bodice was fashioned with a net yoke and brief sleeves, while the full skirt fell in graceful folds to the floor.

Her shoulder length veil fell from a matching coronet trimmed with tiny beads and she carried a nosegay of pink roses and white baby mums.

The bride's mother was attired in a gown of navy blue crepe with navy and white accessories and her corsage was of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother was unable to attend.

Following the ceremony a reception for forty guests was held at the home of the bride's mother which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with bouquets of gladioli and other summer flowers. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked on both sides with bouquets of cut flowers and tall tapers in silver candle holders.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. D. MacKenzie and fittingly responded to by the groom. Mrs. John Williams presided over the teacups. Mrs. Oliver Giddings served the bride and groom. Miss Catherine MacKay and Mrs. Luther Williams served the guests.

Later the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and best wishes for a honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Maritimes.

For travelling the bride wore a dusty pink gabardine suit with navy accessories and her corsage was of cream roses. On their return they will reside in Moncton, N. B. where the groom is employed with the Dominion Stores Ltd. and the bride is on the staff of the cash office of T. Eaton Co. Ltd.

YOUR DONATION to the 1950 Cancer Campaign has already brought important gains in our program of cancer control. The dollars you gave last year made it possible to send six leading P.E.I. doctors to the world-renowned Mayo Clinic. At that centre of research, our doctors learned about the latest methods of diagnosing and treating cancer. Now, with increased skill and improved drugs, our doctors are ready to protect every one of us. We hope to send 7 more doctors next year.

Remember . . . early cancer is curable. Learn the four easy-to-remember symptoms, and at the first sign of suspected cancer, GO TO THE DOCTOR.

WE MUST CONTINUE our efforts to tell all who live in our province the hopeful news of cancer control. Our program is supported by your contributions . . . one of the best ways you can guarantee your own good health. Make your gift with that real benefit in mind this year.
