

By: Lisa Reiten

No one plans a famine, they strive to avoid it. But UPEI students will do just that October 12-13. Money raised from the thirty hour fast will go towards developing water projects for Third World countries.

The Pitstop will become base for participating students traveling to and coming from classes, collecting pledges and lending support to one another during the event.

The kick-off is set for 9:00 AM and the conclusion 30 hours later at 3:00 PM on Thursday. All activities will take place in Robertson Library's Student Lounge where beverages will also be available for participants.

If you don't feel like going without food for thirty hours, set your own time limit or support a friend taking part.

If possible, the Pit will remain open all night, so feel free to bring a pillow along!

Vet students as well as UPEI students, faculty, and other staff are encouraged to take part.

Pledge kits, buttons, and other helpful information are available from David Morrison located on the third floor of Main building or by contacting Lisa Reiten at 892-8793.

PLANNED FAMINE

HURTS

ATTENTION ALL
READERS:

There will be no issue of
THE GEM next week due to the holiday on Monday.

The next issue will be on Thursday, Oct. 20.