Highway Accidents Reported East Royalty Man Injured

As the result of a highway accident involving a single car, Harold MacDonald of East Royalty, was taken to the Prince Edward Island Hospital last evening for treatment for minor cuts, abrasions and bruises.

The accident occurred at about 7:30 p.m. at the intersection of the Union and St. Peter's roads. The exact details as to what caused the mishap were not available, as police reported that the driver, whose name is unknown, apparently abandoned his vehicle and returned to his home and had not been located at a late hour last night.

Conservative Column Set To Resume

Due to popular demand from all parts of the Island the weekly Conservative news column "Conservative Speaking" will commence publication again in Charlottetown newspapers on Monday, Nov. 26.

An authoritative party spokesman announced that the column would probably appear daily until the end of the current election year.

Many people will remember these columns from the August election days of 1959. Conservative activities were covered in light-hearted vein, gossip from back benches, reports and penetrating analyses of the political scene were made.

One of the most interesting features of the 1959 series was the gradual unveiling of a political strategy of voters' opinions on the outcome of the election.

With surprising accuracy this survey reported a growing ground-swell of favourable Conservative inclinations which were more than borne out by the results on election day.

Much speculation went on about the identity of "the islander". So far no one has managed to find the man or woman behind the pseudonym. Perhaps in the course of the current series some identity clue may be revealed.
