STARS IN MY CROWN AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE — "Stars in My Crown," new M-G-M attraction at the Capitol Theatre, is a tenderly-unfolded, heartwarming story of a small Southern settlement at the close of the Civil War and of a two-fisted preacher who leads the way in making his community a better place to live in. Joel McCrea enacts Josiah Gray, ex-cavalryman who comes to the little village of Walesburg, inspires the community to build its first church, marries the pretty organist, Harriet, and becomes a second father to their little ward, John. The parson's steadfast courage and honesty make themselves felt on almost every member of the village and he even wins the iconoclastic Doc Harris over to his side when he saves the life of the latter's fiancée. Faith, after all the doctor's medical knowledge has failed. Only one man proves stubborn in his resistance to Josiah's precepts of honor and humility. He is Lon Backett, the town's richest man, who tries to exert his own authority over that of the law, but who in the picture's stirring climax, is forced to bow to the stronger will of the indomitable preacher. Although "Stars in My Crown" has its share of rugged action, it is the atmospheric details of a small, growing village, the homespun humor and the vivid naturalness of characterization which give the picture its warmth and color. HOUSTON, Tex., June 19—(AP)—A telephone party-line tiff between two men who decided to "meet down the road and have it out" left one shot dead and the other charged with murder last night.
