

the contumely of the illiterate and the ridicule of the ridiculous: Are not we expected to be men of respectability, of talent, of learning? And more than these, are not we expected to maintain ourselves in accordance with our profession? Is it possible that we can do so upon a stipend which is far below the mechanic—we who prepare the mind of that mechanic to receive the art and mystery of the business to which he may devote the time allotted for his apprenticeship? Shall we, I say, suffer ourselves to be oppressed in such a manner—we who have devoted, and are still devoting, our time, our abilities, yea, and our all, to the education of the uninformed?

Fellow Labourers!—the appeal is to you; come forward, then, to the field of action, and lie dormant no longer. Arouse yourselves from your lethargy; make an effort to emerge from that neutrality in which you have too long been lying. Gentlemen, in the state of the times, the detrimental influence of the proud and the unlearned, the boasted knowledge of the pretended mechanic, (I mean not those who have manifested a mastery of their business), combined with the mischievous efforts of the unwise, and the would-be-thought scholar, call aloud for you to hasten to the hill, and to put your shoulder to the wheel, and to manifest your independence, and thereby you will make all classes feel their dependence upon the propagators of knowledge. Let not the present call be made in vain; but come boldly and fearlessly forward to maintain your cause, and to plead for your rights; and be not trampled upon by those who would wantonly crush us, after they obtain of us what they cannot do without. I would dwell longer on this subject, but am afraid of encroaching too much upon the columns of the Paper at present; and, in conclusion, I exhort you to be diligent in your calling! Neglect not your duty, and let—yea, make our opponents and oppressors see, that we are men of candour, honesty and integrity. Hoping that some of my brethren will continue the subject, and adopt O'Connell's plan, by Agitating! Agitating! until we gain that remuneration which we deserve, believe me to be,

Your staunch friend and brother,
A LICENSED TEACHER.

25th August, 1842.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COLONIAL HERALD.

Sir:—As a great deal of misconception, on the subject of what are commonly termed MILLENNARIAN views, appears to prevail in this, as well as almost every other community at the present time, and as the subject is, doubtless, deeply interesting to many of your readers, as well as to myself, I have to request, that you will give the following remarks, by the Rev. W. DALTON, M. A., Incumbent of St. Paul's Church, Wolverhampton, a place in the columns of the Colonial Herald. A speedy compliance with this request, will greatly oblige,

Your obedient servant,

A CONSTANT READER.

THE MILLENNIUM.—I cannot help expressing my joy that the researches of a Newton and a Greswell have proved that antiquity is on our side, and that novelty cannot be charged against us. The voice of antiquity is so far useful, as it tends to corroborate our appeal to the world. All, indeed, that is ancient is not true, and men may be led to place an overweening dependence on Fathers and Councils. I fear that this has been lately exhibited by some anonymous writers of our own Church to a distressing degree. Still there is the opposite error—the despising of ancient testimony—the neglect of consulting with the saints of former generations; for, though all that is ancient is not true, all that is novel is certainly false; and I must say, that if I could not discover any trace of the views we have propounded until the era of the Reformation, I would suspect that we were walking in the paths of novelty and conjecture, rather than in the "good old paths" of truth and righteousness. But now, whilst we make our appeal to the Bible, as the only standard of truth, we have the satisfaction of setting forth those very prospects that formed the joyful hope of the early Church, the support of many who were called to take their place amongst "the noble army of martyrs."

WITBY, in his treatise on tradition, has given the most decided testimony to the antiquity of these views. His general statement is, "The doctrine of the Millennium, or the reign of saints on earth a thousand years, is now rejected by all Roman Catholics, and by the greatest part of Protestants; yet it passed among the best of Christians for two hundred and fifty years for a tradition apostolical, and as such is delivered by many Fathers of the second and third centuries, who speak of it as the tradition of our Lord and his apostles, and of all the ancients who lived before them, who tell us the very words in which it was delivered, the Scriptures which were then so interpreted, and say that it was held by all Christians that were exactly orthodox."

He then proceeds to cite from the Fathers in proof of the following assertions:—First, "that the doctrine is delivered by the Fathers of the second and third centuries as a tradition received from the mouth of Christ and his apostles." Secondly, "they speak of it, not as a probable opinion, but as a thing they were certainly assured of." Thirdly, "they confidently cite, as plain assertions of this doctrine, the prophecies of the Old Testament, and the sayings of our Lord and his apostles in the New." Fourthly, "that these Fathers do expressly teach that this doctrine of the Millennium was denied chiefly by heretics, and such as were deceived by them." ("Whitby on Tradition," Part I, pp. 74-79.) Under all these heads, the Doctor fully and honestly cites from the Fathers of the first three centuries,—I say honestly, because, as Whitby was a determined opposer of the Millennium doctrine, it was candid in him giving such ample quotations from those with whom he differed; and in this way his testimony to the views of the ancient Church is invaluable.

But of all modern writers, we are most indebted to Greswell, in his truly admirable work on the parables of our Lord, a work of deeper thought, more extensive research, and sounder exposition, than has appeared for many years. I would refer the reader to the first volume of this work for an ample discussion on the scriptural and historical testimonies for the doctrine of the Millennium; and I feel convinced that the unprejudiced mind will admire the tone and substance of these discussions.

In examining the historical testimonies, Mr. Greswell first cites the writers of the three first centuries, and then makes most judicious remarks on each testimony. I must refer the reader to the work itself for his comments, and be satisfied with merely citing a few of the witnesses in question. Papias, Bishop of Hierapolis, was, according to Irenaeus, a hearer of St. John, and a friend and acquaintance of Polycarp. He wrote a work, according to Eusebius, in five books, entitled, "An Exposition of the Sayings of Our Lord." This has been lost, but Eusebius the historian gives us an outline of its contents, which he thus sums up:—"Among these things, Papias says that there will be a period of a thousand years after the resurrection of the dead, the kingdom of Christ being to be established bodily on the earth." And Eusebius adds, "That he (Papias) prevailed with most of the clergy that lived after him to entertain it."

Justin Martyr, of Neapolis, in Palestine, who is supposed to have suffered martyrdom, A. D. 146, gives the most unqualified testimony to the doctrine. In his dialogue with Trypho, the Jew, we find Trypho inquiring, "If he really thought that Jerusalem would be built again? upon which he answers, 'I am not such a wretch, O Trypho, as to say any thing but what I think. I pressed to you, therefore, before also, that I indeed and many others think so, as I am sure you are aware that this thing will come to pass, but I told you on the other hand, even of those whose sentiments as Christians were sound and pious, that did not recognize it. I, however, and any besides who are Christians of a right way of thinking in all respects, know that there shall be both a resurrection of the flesh, and a thousand years for Jerusalem built, and adorned, and enlarged, as the Prophets Ezekiel and Isaiah and the rest of them profess; forasmuch, too, as among us, also, a certain man called John, one of the apostles of the Messiah, foretold in a revelation which was made to him, that they who have believed in our Messiah shall pass a thousand years in Jerusalem, and that afterwards the general, and in one word, everlasting resurrection of all men, at once, with one accord, and judgment shall take place; what our Lord also said, that they shall neither marry nor be given in marriage, but shall be equal to angels, being children of the God of the resurrection.'" (Justin Martyr's "Opera. Hagæ Comitum," 1742, pp. 178, 179.)

This passage," says Greswell, "renders a distinct testimony to Justin's belief upon all the principal points at issue between the Millenniumists and their opponents—that there will be a resurrection of the faithful dead—a reunion of all, both Jews and Christians, under Christ, at Jerusalem—a visible reign there for a thousand years; and the like." He proceeds then to cite from Irenaeus; and Tertullian Nepos, a Bishop in Egypt, as mentioned by Eusebius, is referred to, "as having demonstrated by irrefragable proof that Christ's kingdom would be a terrestrial one." Victorinus, Lactantius Apollinaris, and others, are cited as direct witnesses to the existence of this doctrine in the early Church. And these testimonies led Bishop Newton to make the following positive assertion, "In short, the doctrine of the Millennium was generally believed in the three first and purest ages; and this belief, as the learned Dodwell has justly observed, was one principal cause of the fortitude of the primitive Christians; they even coveted martyrdom, in hopes of being partakers of the privileges and glories of the martyrs in the first resurrection." (See Dissertations on the Prophecies, on Rev. xx.)

The celebrated ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, appropriately styled by its numerous admirers "the auxiliary of beauty," is in all climates and seasons of inestimable importance to female loveliness. During the rigours of Winter, not any attack more serious impairs the beauty of a fine Skin, than inclement cold: it becomes rough, red, chapped, and vulgarly unseemly, and frequently disfigured, by chilblains. Equally available are its virtues against the baneful influence of solar heat, which causes Freckles, Sun Burns, Tan, &c., all of which bleaches the KALYDOR prevents and removes. Throughout season, time and climate, this faithful auxiliary arrays the neck and arms in radiant brilliancy, and perpetuates the vivid bloom of juvenile attraction.—[See Advertisement.]

THE FIRST RESTORATION FROM BABYLON.

By the Rev. W. W. PYM, Rector of Willian, Herts.
The above Lecture, being the 5th of the course, will be read (D. V.) in the large Room under the Colonial Herald Printing Office, on Wednesday evening next, commencing at 8 o'clock; and all who take an interest in the subject are respectfully invited to attend.
Charlottetown, 27th August, 1842.

CLOTH FINISHING MILL AND DYE HOUSE.

THE Subscribers having commenced the necessary Buildings on the Three-Mile-Run, within the Royalty of Charlottetown, hope by the middle of October to be so far completed as to commence Dyeing, Fulling, Shearing, and Dressing the HOMESPUN CLOTH, so as to give the last finish to this substantial article of Island manufacture.
The dye wares about to be employed will be those producing the most permanent colors, and fixed by appropriate mordants. The whole arrangement of machinery will be similar to the most approved systems employed in Great Britain.
At this Establishment Blankets will be scoured, fulled and bleached, and the utmost degree of whiteness given to wool, either before or after its manufacture. Carpets, Druggets and Table Covers passed through the cleaning process without discharging the colour, however delicately.

The Subscribers having fixed at their private residence a suitable number of Vats, are now prepared to clean and re-dye Silks, Satins, Chalfies, Merinos, &c. to any pattern or shade that may be required; in a word, any article of the ladies' toilette will be properly treated so as to develop its original beauty, or re-dyed and finished to look like new.
Faded and spotted Goods in Cotton, Wool or Silk, restored, re-dyed, pressed, calendered or watered.
Hillsborough Street, S. GURNEY & Co.
(formerly the residence of Mr. Spencer.)

THE FAMILY LIFE MEDICINES.

THE celebrated Life Pills and Phenix Bitters, prepared and sold by Dr. Wm. B. Moffat, 375, Broadway, New York, may now be said to be the most respectfully established and extensively adopted family medicines in the United States. They have not only won the sanction and recommendation of all the candid and philanthropic of the medical profession, who have observed their invariable efficacy in general derangements of the stomach and bowels, and their astonishing effects in many varieties of acute and chronic disease, but what is far better, these medicines have recommended themselves, and fully and fairly achieved the distinguished and now certainly pre-eminant position which they now occupy in public and domestic estimation. They are proved by their works, and make no appeal to vulgar credulity. If the proprietor were disposed to make an invidious comparison between these self-established medicines and any others, he might confidently assert and challenge contradiction that there is no medicine known to the medical profession, or named in their books, concerning which so many clear, unquestionable and conclusive evidences of usefulness and remarkable cures are recorded as those which he can adduce concerning the Life Pills and Phenix Bitters. If it be admitted that sufferers are the best judges as to whether a remedy has relieved them and restored them to health and strength, then is the evidence in behalf of these medicines decisive and irresistible. Dr. Moffat is in possession of an immense accumulation of voluntary testimonies from respectable persons and families in all parts of the Union, far and near, who give their names and residence to the unsolicited statement that they have been completely and speedily cured of the following diseases, and of many others not here enumerated, by these Life Medicines alone, when other remedies had been long employed in vain, viz: Scrofula, in its most dreadfully advanced and destructive stages, when large portions of the flesh and bones of the face had been destroyed; Piles of five, ten, twenty, thirty and even thirty-five years standing; Rheumatism, both acute and chronic, of the most violent character; Turgescence of the Liver, and various other affections; Bilious Cholera, and every conceivable variety of bilious affections; Marasmus Tabes, or Decline, and Marasmus of the stomach; Consumption, in more advanced stages than any on which the human system is capable of existing; Dropsy, in all its chronic and acute varieties, with its frightful train of distressing symptoms; Worms of all kinds, both in children and grown persons. Diarrhoea, both serious and bilious; Costiveness, both habitual and occasional; Fever and Ague, in its three principal varieties, and intermittent and remittent fevers, of all kinds; Hypochondriasis, and other extremely complex nervous affections, with nervous debility in general; Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Scald, and eruptive diseases debility in general; Erysipelas, or St. Anthony's fire, and generally, including Eruptions, Palpitation of the heart, and Determination, unhealthy complexion, settled pains in the organs, limbs, back, head and side; affections of the bladder, kidneys, spleen, throat, and pleura; jaundice, dropsy and gout; together with those general affections of the system which arise from complicated causes.

The certificates of these cures are in the proprietor's possession, and will readily be shown to all who desire to see them. A small selection from them have been published in Moffat's Medical Manual, of which a new and enlarged edition is preparing for the press. The reason why these medicines, which in ordinary family use operate merely as mild and effectual laxatives, cure so great a variety of formidable diseases is, that while as cathartics, clearing the alimentary canal, and relieving the liver and the absorbent vessels of all impurities, they lay the foundation for the cure of all specific diseases, they are compounded of unique and unappreciated variety of choice and exquisite ingredients, some of which are almost unknown to the profession, which exert a specific action upon many complaints, without in the slightest degree affecting the general system, otherwise than as simple purifiers, when those complaints are not present. Both the Pills and the Bitters are mild and agreeable in their operations, causing neither prostrations nor nausea, and requiring neither confinement nor peculiar diet. Their effects are uniformly to produce an immediate sense of renovated health, and new life and vigour to both body and mind. They cannot be taken without benefit, and they should be procured both by individuals and heads of families, and constantly kept on hand not only as remedies but as preventatives of distant diseases. They are prepared and sold wholesale and retail, by Dr. William B. Moffat, 375 Broadway, N. Y., and also by the AGENTS—NEW YORK, COOPER & BREMNER.

MOFFAT'S

VEGETABLE LIFE PILLS AND PHENIX BITTERS.
THESE superlative Family Medicines have long since acquired an established reputation for direct and invariable efficacy in all the prevalent and ordinary diseases, as well as in many others of a peculiar and aggravated character. Their virtues are proved by the voluntary testimonials of the persons they have cured, and who accompany their certificates with their names and places of residence. These certificates now amount to thousands, being hundreds to each particular kind of disease. They embrace the most frightful and inveterate cases of Scrofula, Piles, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Biliousness, Liver affections, acute and chronic Rheumatism, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofulous as well as Mucous Consumption, habitual Costiveness, Worms, Stomach and Bowel complaints of all kinds, headache, giddiness and nervous debility, eruptive diseases, and the clouded, sallow, unhealthy appearance of the skin, arising from various causes of ill health, Fever and Ague of every variety, settled pains in the side, back, organs and limbs, humors, ulcers, foul breath and inward fever, night sweats, and general weakness and loss of appetite, the mumps, swollen face and gums, affections of the bladder, kidney, spleen and pleura, and the sickness incidental to females, together with very many other maladies which cannot be here enumerated. The certificates of cure in all these diseases are immense in number, and clear, direct and explicit in description, and coming as they do, in every case, from the persons cured, they are indisputable and conclusive in authority. These inestimable medicines should therefore be kept by every family and grown person in the Union, as they will be found to be not only the best remedies for disease, but also its most certain preventatives, and the surest renovators of sound, cheerful and elastic health. They are singularly mild and agreeable in their operation, and though perfectly effectual, never occasion even the temporary prostration and nausea which always follow the use of coarse drastic purges and the use of calomel. Prepared wholesale and retail by Dr. Wm. B. Moffat, 375 Broadway, New York. For sale also by the agents—New York, May 30.

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR,

A preparation from Oriental Exotics, is now universally known as the only safe and efficient protector and beautifier of the SKIN and COMPLEXION. Its virtues are commonly displayed in thoroughly eradicating all pimples, spots, redness, tan, freckles, and other unsightly cutaneous defects, in healing chilblains, chaps, and in rendering the most rough and uneven skin, pleasantly soft and smooth. To the complexion, it imparts a juvenile rosy hue, and to the neck, hand and arm, a delicacy and fairness unrivalled.
It is invaluable as a renovating and refreshing Wash, during travelling, or exposure to the sun, dust, or harsh winds, and after the heated atmosphere of crowded assemblies.—GENTLEMEN will find it peculiarly agreeable after shaving, in allaying the irritation.
Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle, duty included.

ROWLAND'S ODONTO, OR PEARL DENTIFRICE,

A WHITE POWDER, of Oriental Herbs of the most delightful fragrance.—It eradicates Tartar and decayed spots from the Teeth, preserves the Enamel, and fixes the Teeth firmly in their sockets, rendering them delicately White. Being an Anti-Scorbutic, it eradicates the scurvy from the Gums; strengthens, braces, and renders them of a healthy red; it removes unpleasant tastes from the mouth, which often remain after fevers, taking medicine, &c. and imparts a delightful fragrance to the breath.
Price 2s. 9d. per box, duty included.

Notice.—The Name and Address of the Proprietors, A. ROWLAND & SON, 20, HATTEN GARDEN, LONDON, are engraved on the Government Stamp, which is pasted on the wrapper of "KALYDOR" and "ODONTO"; also printed, in red, on the Wrapper in which the Kalydor is enclosed.

Beware of Counterfeits!! composed of the most pernicious and trashy ingredients, and which are frequently pressed upon the unwary under the lure of being cheap.
Be sure to ask for "Rowland's" Articles.
Sold by every PERFUMER and MEDICINE VENDOR throughout the civilized world.
