LIBERALCANDIDATE

for your chosen candidate, you will be voting for the great purpose that inspires Canada and the Canadian Government as it inspires all the free nations of the world. You will be voting to defend our principles and our freedoms. You will be voting for that vision of a greater Canada of which Laurier spoke long ago.

Prime Minister's Stand

Not least important, by your support of the Government candidate, you will indicate that the courageous and forthright stand of Mr. St. Laurent's Government has your unswerving, undiminishing support. When your vote is cast for the Liberal candidate it will show that you are among those who believe that security — national security as well as social security — should be among the first concerns of Government.

Today the Democracies are threatened by a false political creed. The Canadian Government however is doing its part — in the United Nations, in the North Atlantic Organization, and here at home — to strengthen our defences against aggression. At the same time it continues its successful fight against any injustices in our society.

This year more than one billion dollars will be expended by Governments and voluntary agencies in Canada, on measures for the health and well-being of the Canadian people. What has this to do with Liberalism? Just this: More than two-thirds of all provincial social security measures, and every one of the major Federal measures, have been enacted by Liberal governments.

Let me remind you of five great measures that indicate the true character of Canada's present Government and its predecessors.

1—Old Age Pensions:

The most striking social advance for many years is the new contributory plan for old age security that will bring pensions and assistance to an additional 500,000 Canadians.

The constitutional and administrative difficulties are now being cleared away so that, as soon as possible, the universal pension of $40.00 a month can be paid to all Canadians over 70, without means test. With provincial cooperation, the Government also plans to institute old age assistance for those 65 years of age and over who are in need. It is appropriate that this latest improvement in our old age security program should be sponsored by the St. Laurent Government, for our first old age pension plan was enacted — in spite of Tory political opposition — by a Liberal Government in 1927.

2—Unemployment Insurance:

In our society, there are hazards of life against which willingness to work cannot always avail. To counter unemployment, the Liberal Government in 1941 provided for unemployment insurance to protect three million Canadian workers and their families against unemployment.

Family Allowances

The third important social measure introduced during the last decade by a Liberal Government—also against Conservative political opposition — was the Family Allowances Act. Under this Act, almost four and one-half million children in nearly two million Canadian homes are receiving assistance every month, so that they can be better fed and housed, and clothed and cared for, and so that they can continue at school for a longer period.

In this province alone, more than 13,335 families, with about 34,358 children, receive Family Allowances totalling $207,521.00 every month.

The Veterans Charter

At the end of World War II the Government introduced one of the most comprehensive schemes anywhere in the world for Canada's war veterans and their families, to honor their courageous and unselfish service to this nation.

The National Health Program

The fifth outstanding social measure initiated during the past ten years, was the National Health Program which started three years ago. All across Canada, the thirty-five millions in federal grants available each year under this program are helping Provincial Health Departments to expand and extend existing health services, to inaugurate new programmes, to train and employ thousands of health workers, to build new hospitals and health centres, and to push ahead with medical research.

These measures are five acts among many, but they are five real indications that our present Government under Louis St. Laurent is true to the social aspirations of those that have gone before it.

Because they recognize that social security and economic stability must go hand in hand, Liberal Governments have been careful not to over-load the national economy with impractical measures. By sound fiscal policies, by budgeting on a sensible pay-as-you-go basis, and by positive measures for the industrial workers and for farmers and fishermen, the Liberal Government has constantly sought to increase the productivity and prosperity of our Canadian system.

In the search for social justice the rule of the Liberal Party has been responsible progress, at a steady and sensible pace. The Liberal Government is dedicated to the best interests of the individual Canadian citizen. Its constant aim has been and will always be to increase the well being of the Canadian people.

A Worthy Successor

When in 1949, with your support, Louis St. Laurent became Prime Minister he assumed leadership of a government that is a worthy successor to those that for so many years in this country have been laying solid foundations for social progress in Canada. In the few years that he has been in office, this great Canadian has demonstrated how well he merits your confidence and continued support.

But the Liberal Government is not satisfied to rest on its past achievements. We believe that under a seasoned, intelligent and responsible administration, there is no limit to what our system can achieve in improving the welfare not only of Canada as a whole but of our citizens individually.

That is our political faith.

We all know where Mr. St. Laurent stands on the question of Social Security. We know the value he places on freedom. We know his far-sighted stand on world affairs. Do not forget, on June 25th, to show your support for St. Laurent and his government, by voting for the Liberal candidate in the Queens by-election, who is pledged to give loyal assistance.

If you believe in a forthright and courageous defence policy:

If you believe in consistent, determined and progressive leadership:

If you believe that freedom and security are more important than political necessity:

If you believe in a political party having a policy, a safe, sane, yet progressive policy, which leads from achievement to greater achievement, which demonstrates Faith in themselves, Faith in their fellow man:

If you believe in a political party which has held fast to its principal of equality for all classes, creeds, and color, which has consistently followed Laurier's advice given in 1918 — a few months before his death, "To banish doubt and hate from your life, let your souls be ever open to the strong promptings of Faith and the gentle influence of brotherly love. To be adamant against the haughty. To be gentle and kind to the weak and the poor. To let your aim and purpose in good report or ill, in victory or defeat, be so to live, so to strive, so to serve, as to do your part to raise the standard of life to higher and better spheres:"

Mr. King's Ideals

Or if you believe in a political party following the footsteps of that great public benefactor, the late W. L. MacKenzie King, who stated in 1948 —

"During the long years of my leadership, I have sought to hold fast to certain principles, certain ideals, which I believe to be at the very root of Liberalism. These aims may be summed up in three words. The three words are — Unity, Security and Freedom.

To maintain national unity — and strive for world unity.

To enlarge social security at home and contribute to human betterment in other lands.

To extend and defend the frontiers of freedom, these throughout the years of my leadership have been fundamental objectives of the Liberal Party":

If you believe in all these things — then you will not fail to cast your vote on June 25th for the Liberal candidate and for the government headed by that great Canadian — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

McGill Music Exam Results

Results of the McGill University examinations in music conducted during the past three days in this City by Mr. Waud, Secretary of the Faculty of Music of McGill, show four students passing with High Distinction, six with Distinction, and twelve with Honors.

OTTAWA, June 13-(CP)-Due to pressure of business, Prime Minister St. Laurent will not be able to go to Oxford University to receive an honorary degree June 19, his office said today. The Commons now is sitting three times a day in an effort to adjourn by June 30. Degrees have also been offered to Viscount Alexander and External Affairs Minister Pearson, both of whom will attend the convocation.

MONTREAL, June 12 -(CP)- Six-year-old Jean Dubois waited as usual at a busy corner for his mother to take him home from school Tuesday. He watched while his mother, Mrs. Marie-Anne Dubois, crossed busy Lajeunesse Street. She was knocked down by a truck and died an hour later in hospital.

Prices Strengthened In Egg Market

Production of eggs is showing the usual seasonal decline, reports Mr. F. M. Nash, district inspector, Poultry Products. There is a slight decline in quality, presumably due to birds being allowed excessive range or being forced to pick up a greater portion of their feed from the range then heretofore.

The demand for the product is strong with the result paying prices have strengthened and operators of grading stations are quoting producers for ungraded eggs Grade A Large 54, Grade A Medium 52, Grade A Pullet 45, Grade B 46, Grade C 33. Dealers are paying for the graded pack delivered Grade A Large 61, Grade A Medium 59, Grade A Pullet 52, Grade B 52, Grade C 39. Wholesalers are quoting retailers for the product Grade A Large 64, Grade A Medium 62, Grade A Pullet 55, Grade B 55, C 42. Eggs are selling to consumers at Grade A Large 70-1, Grade A Medium 68, Grade A pullet 63, Grade B (loose) 60.
