In Memoriam

WM. B. WEBSTER

There passed peacefully away to the great beyond on Saturday, August 12th, William Bolus Webster aged sixty-four years March 12, 1939. The late William Webster was afflicted with rheumatism when he was a young man about 30 years but recovered from that attack and resumed his duties on his farm. Then he had a second attack and finally a third to which he succumbed after a lingering illness of 17 years. However his sisters carried on and kept the home for their aged mother and another invalid brother who predeceased William 18 years ago. He was a sober industrious man when in his prime and took a prominent part in Elliott Division S. O. T. also attended meetings of the Grand Division.

He never made any profession of religion, but was a regular attendant at New Dominion Presbyterian Church.

He was the son of the late Horatio and Euphemia Shaw Webster Fairview. He was tenderly cared for in his home by his sisters until 2 years ago, they placed him in the P. E. I. Hospital for a year where they tried some new cure but all in vain. Although bedridden and helpless he took great pleasure in reading and discussing the questions of the day as he had a remarkable memory. In politics he was a staunch Liberal and did his part when he was able.

He leaves to mourn three sisters; viz. Mrs. John Merigan, (Fannie), Quincy Mass, Mrs. Jas Sherren, (Georgina) St. Catherines, West River, and Bertha M. a retired teacher. He is pre-deceased by two brothers, James E. and Major Horatio who died in childhood.

Gives Interesting Side - lights On World Conference

A representative group of the Christian Youth of Charlottetown gathered Tuesday evening in Central Christian Church to hear the Rev. G. Hayden Stewart speak concerning the recent World Conference of Christian Youth which was held in Amsterdam, Holland.

Mr. Stewart gave some figures concerning the actual make-up of the conference. There were 1500 delegates registered coming from 75 countries.

Christianity was the main theme and purpose of the conference, Mr. Stewart stated, and it was demonstrated in variety of ways. Dr. Niles, one of the Amsterdam speakers was reported to have said that unity must be a result of sonship rather than an effort at brotherliness. He said that to put eggs in a basket and call them an omelet is as wrong as to suggest that we have Christian Unity just because Christians come together in the same place.

Mr. Stewart described the Christian fellowship at Amsterdam and gave brief extracts from addresses by Dr. F. McLeod of Scotland and Dr. Benjamin Mays of Washington.

The meeting was the first in a series of Maritime meetings concerning Amsterdam. Mr. Stewart will be speaking in the Christian Church in Summerside on Thursday and in Montague on Sunday.

Dream Is Fulfilled

By Joseph Dennigan
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, Aug. 22—(CP)— Those old acquaintances the Irishman, the Englishman and the Scotchman, are at it again.

But this time it is not going to end in the customary discomfiture, if not humiliation, of one of them. Messrs. Grundy, Harty and McNab are three engineers now working to realize the dream of a Welshmen.

In the wooded slopes of the Wicklow Hills, 24 miles from Dublin they are building the biggest hydro-electric plant in Ireland since the Shannon Scheme.

More than 25 years ago the Welshman, Sir John Purser Griffith, conceived a scheme to power the country from the Liffey, the river which flows through Dublin. Afterwards he would harness the River Shannon and then tackle the River Erne in Ulster.

When the new State was founded in 1922, representatives of the big Siemens electrical company plumped for the Shannon first of all and so the Shannon was harnessed ("and," as a wit observed, "the taxpayer saddled.")

Due to heavy increase in the use of electricity the Shannon became insufficient to fill the demand. As a stopgap, the Electricity Supply Board, a state undertaking, enlarged the coal-driven plant at Pigeon House Fort on the mouth of the River Liffey.

Two years ago, Dublin corporation wanted more water to meet the demands of the growing capital and under government auspices, a joint scheme was hammered out with the Electricity Supply Board by which the corporation would get more water and the board more electricity.

Flood 5,000 Acres

In brief, the Liffey scheme is to erect a huge dam of 35,000 tons of Irish concrete at Poulaphaouca, 50 miles, as the river runs, from its source and to flood about 5,000 acres of land. From this reservoir, water will be taken to Dublin, while the Electricity Supply Board will have plenty to run its turbines. Fifty farmsteads and a dozen cottages have been acquired for flooding.

One interesting place which the reservoir will cover is an old ruined bridge on the site of an ancient ford where the Norsemen, retreating from the battle of Glenmana, made their last hopeless stand against Brian Boru, last Ard-Ri (High-King) of Ireland. Poulaphouca is named from the pool or hole of the fairies. In descending from the hills, the Liffey falls 150 feet in a series of cataracts, the finest of which drops into "the pool of fairies."

A mile and a half downstream at Golden Falls, Harty, Grundy and McNab will supervise construction of a compensatory dam to control the outflow from the turbines at Poulaphouca. It is expected the main part of the work will be finished by November. The Poulaphouca dam, now more than three-quarters completed, will stand more than 100 feet high. Water for the turbines will flow through a 16-foot pressure tunnel, 500 yards long, at a speed of 10 miles an hour.

The Welshman, a member of the Irish Senate almost continuously since 1922 did not live to see his dreams realized. He died last year, aged 90. If the present rate of expansion in the use of electric current continues, Messrs. Harty, Grundy and McNab may soon be required for the third scheme—the River Erne.

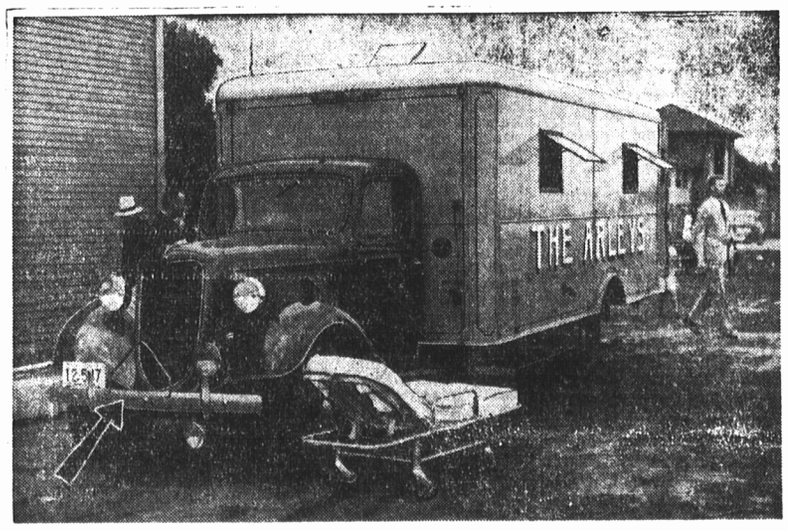
ARCHERY PRACTICAL

BULAWAYO, South Africa—(C.P.)— Those days aren't gone for ever, after all. A native shot an arrow at a large male lion here and killed it.



Victor Alton, of Toronto, is dead as the result of touching the steel bumper guard (arrow) of a truck-trailer housing a troupe of entertainers at Sunnyside Park, Toronto. The youth, 14, shown at the left, had been swimming, and when he came out of the water with companions, he went to the truck for a closer view of the license plate on the front. An extension wire was being used for the lighting of the truck, and evidently the 110-volt circuit was "short," allowing the chassis to become charged. John Swanson (right) received a slight shock as he tried to pry his companion away from the truck. Kay Hayward, of Toronto, also shown above, who was visiting friends among the entertainers, tried to give first aid to the boy.
