

Women Clerks.

The London Daily Telegraph says:— "There are many advantages in women clerks. They are found to be punctual and docile. Their good conduct and decorum after office hours insure a steady attendance not broken in upon by 'Derby headaches' or the drowsiness that follows nocturnal dissipation. They have not that genius for getting into debt which is an indication of superiority displayed by their male colleagues. It is also worthy of note that the sluggishness of promotion, which is one of the difficulties of all official careers where men are concerned, is got rid of in the case of women. No matter how closely they may restrict themselves to their work from ten to four, the clever, clear-headed, vigorous young girls, who are Government clerks are ready enough for society in the evening. They enter it with freshness of feeling, because they have honestly earned relaxation, and the fact that they are pecuniarily independent enables them to meet men frankly and on equal terms. Their very success in examination and in office life implies their quickness, brightness, and good health, and these are the qualifications that tell in a sweetheart and wife as well as in a postoffice clerk. The result is that they get married off with reasonable celerity, and thus the official field is kept clear by the wedding out of brides, who relinquish red-tape for orange blossoms, new girls coming in to take their place. For those, however, who cannot or will not marry, the office duties provide a quiet, steady, and decorous career. Most live at home; many help to support a relative; all have shown by their docility and steadiness that a young woman is ready to work hard for half the pay that will content a young man."

It is said that in certain parts of France important steps are to be taken to renew, through systematic athletic exercise, the ancient vigour of the present race. At Reims has just been held a fete with 2,000 young men from all sections of France taking part in it, which is declared to have been a part of the general scheme. The French Minister of Public Instruction was present at a banquet given subsequently, and said that if his hopes and plans were only carried out, France would, in a few years' time, "be able to point with pride to a race of active and manly youths somewhat different in physique and appearance from the pallid boys who loiter about a small court-yard or walk in procession through the streets on half-holidays."

NEUROUS EXHAUSTION, and all diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisement of which appears in another column. Sold in Charlottetown by Apothecaries Hall Co. June 16, 2 wks., wky, 2i.
