

THE DAILY EXAMINER. NOVEMBER 19, 1890.

Mr. Parnell.

MR. PARNELL stands to-day shorn of his strength. His usefulness as a politician is gone. Social purity is the glory of the Irish people. A convicted adulterer—a man no praver than Dilke—cannot be the Irish leader.

The Failure of the Barings

Who would have thought that the great firm of Baring Brothers would permit itself to be placed in a position in which it could not possibly meet its liabilities? Yet it is now evident that but for the friendly assistance of contemporary bankers, Baring Brothers would have been ruined.

Notes and Comments.

A great impulse has lately been given to the construction of tunnels. The latest report is that of a Scotch paper, which says that the directors of the Caledonia Railway Company have at present in their possession a scheme designed for the purpose of accelerating their traffic from England to the North.

John Bright.

THE lecture delivered by the Rev. W. P. Archibald in St. James' Hall last evening is an eloquent commentary upon the life and character of one of the most admirable men in British history. It is full of appropriate and beautiful gems of thought drawn from the British classics and from that pure well of English undefiled, the Holy Bible.

"We shape ourselves the joy or fear Of which the coming life is made, And fill our future's atmosphere, With sunshine or with shade."

"The tis'us of the life to be, We weave with colors all our own, And in the field of destiny We reap as we have sown."

"Young men, we live in a stirring time. Quit you like men. The hopes of our country are with you. Throw your strength and energy into every good cause. Think nobly, live purely, work earnestly. Make yourselves indispensable in whatever position you occupy. Deserve appreciation and promotion and you will win them. Shun the company of the loafer, the tippler and the gambler. He that walketh with wise men shall be wise; but a companion of fools shall be destroyed. Try to excel in your calling whatever it may be. Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

The most prominent features in the character of John Bright were his simplicity, his sincerity and his moral strength. "The keynote of his actions was," said the lecturer, "not the popular tumult without, but the still small voice within. This steadfast loyalty to conscience is an essential element of true greatness. It surrounds a man with a true halo of glory. It was this splendid quality displayed by Daniel amid the pomp and revel and fascination of the Royal Court of ancient Babylon that has wreathed his name with immortal honor." Mr. Archibald pointed out that John Bright never went to the people with his cap in hand promising to be their most obedient servant. He always asserted his principles and described the course which he believed to be the right one to pursue. His ambition was not to obtain position, or office, or emoluments but to plod on in the path of duty. When he accepted a cabinet office, he merely yielded to the importunity of his friends. When he found that he could no longer remain in office he wrote a letter to Mr. Gladstone, the Leader of the Government, in which he said: "I grieve that I cannot sit with you as in years past, but my judgment and my conscience forbid it." His public conduct, with that of Lord Macaulay, was held up as an example for the politicians of Canada. "Oh," said the lecturer, "for more men of the same stamp to take part in the public affairs of our country."

It is passing strange that, in a town which boasts so many "True Liberals," so few went to hear a man of the Rev. W. P. Archibald's culture and standing deliver a lecture concerning one who was known as the eloquent tribune of England's people. The lecture was, however, highly appreciated and warmly applauded by those who were present.

C. B. McNeill, Esq., occupied the chair. A vote of thanks was moved by T. C. James, Esq., seconded by the Superintendent of Education, and passed enthusiastically.

Obituary.

Died at Cambridge, Mass., of tubercular meningitis, on Saturday, the 8th inst., Murdoch McNevin, aged 25 years. The deceased was a young man of exemplary character, and made friends of all who knew him. Six years ago he went to the States to seek his fortune, and, as an evidence of his thrift, had $1,000 banked at the time of his death. His grief-stricken father was with him a week previous to his end, and is now greatly cast down at his loss. His only sister, Mrs. Chas. McLean, mourns the loss of a loving brother. His body was brought home for interment, and on Thursday, 13th inst., was followed to the Argyle Shore Cemetery by a large concourse of his friends. Much sympathy for his relatives in their bereavement is expressed.—Com.

FRED. BEVAN IN TROUBLE.

Stolen Goods Found on His Premises.

Arrested for Larceny

Last week THE EXAMINER intimated that thieves were at work in and about the Royalty, and gave a list of the articles stolen and the names of the persons from whom taken. Among the goods stolen were three tubs of butter from Mrs. Howard, North River, and one from St. Dunstan's College; about a ton of hay from a stack in the field of J. J. Trainor, on the road leading to Mount Edward Road from Malpeque Road; two loads of grain from F. L. Hazard's barn; and four carcasses of lamb from Saunders & Campbell's slaughter house, Lower Malpeque Road. The task of ferreting out the thief or thieves was assigned to police-detective Bradley. After working upon the case some days, he secured what he considered sufficient evidence against Fred. Bevan, who lives in the Royalty, near St. Dunstan's College, to justify him in taking out a warrant to search his (Bevan's) premises for the stolen goods. Armed with this warrant, and accompanied by officers Taylor and Doyle, Bradley proceeded to Bevan's premises yesterday afternoon and made a thorough search. As a result of this search, he found four quarters of lamb, a bucket of suet, a tub of butter, and a quantity of hay, which he confiscated, believing that they had been stolen. The four quarters of lamb were identified by Mr. Saunders, as those stolen from his premises, and he lost no time about swearing out a warrant for the arrest of Bevan for the theft. Last night this warrant was executed by Bradley, and Bevan spent the night in jail. This morning he appeared before the Stipendiary Magistrate. The Messrs. Saunders swore positively to the meat identifying it by the dressing and the skewers, and Bradley and the officers who were with him gave evidence as to the finding of the meat and the subsequent arrest of Bevan. At the request of Bevan's counsel, Mr. J. H. Good, the prisoner was remanded until to-morrow, when there will likely be some additional light thrown on the affair. The tub of butter found answers to the description of that stolen from St. Dunstan's College.

To-day officer Bradley made another search of Bevan's premises, and found thereon a cask of kerosene oil, which Mr. W. P. Colwill identified as one that had been stolen from his warehouse about two weeks ago.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

Several Departments.

We purpose making several important changes in our leading Departments, and before doing so it is necessary to reduce our Stock very low, and in several lines make a COMPLETE CLEARANCE.

RESULT: Heavy Cuts in Prices!

In our MANTLE DEPARTMENT we must make a complete clearing out of all lines of goods. Prices have almost been cut in two. $4, $5 and $5 50 Cloth Dolmans now go for $3. Old lines of Ulsters, worth up to $3, now go for $2. All lines of Ulsters heavily reduced. Jackets worth $9, $7 and $5, now go for $6, $5 and $4. As we have decided to close out all goods now in stock, if you want a Bargain this is your chance.

WHY WE DO IT!

For several seasons it has been our rule to carry over no old stock, so that our customers may always rely upon obtaining from us Fashionable Goods. Consequently our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT must also be cleared out. Hats worth 90c. only 60c., and many other lines in proportion. English and French Trimmed Models at HALF PRICE.

Extensive Alterations Demand Immediate Reduction of our

CARPETS!

BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY, 3-4 and 6-4, WOOL, HEMP, etc.—all must go. Best 5-frame Brussels $1.20; ordinary Brussels 90c., and all other lines in proportion. This is a GENUINE CLEARANCE SALE, and you will miss it by not purchasing at once.

Another Department that Must be Reduced!

Yet another line of goods must go to make room for our new departments—FLOOR OIL CLOTHS and LINOLEUMS. The values we have always given were the very best; but at the prices we now offer these goods, each piece is a DOWNRIGHT BARGAIN.

NOTE WELL.

We do not intend giving such Special Sacrifice Prices in all Departments. These prices are simply to cause a quick sale of certain lines of goods that would be in our way when we make the important alterations contemplated in our second floor. We prefer giving these goods NOW at a sacrifice to keeping them and running the risk of loss by damage, etc.

All Goods on Second Floor Must be Sold. Call at Once for a Bargain.
