Testimonial

C. P. Fletcher, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I do not wish to return to Montreal without expressing my gratitude to you for the very excellent Bell Piano that you placed at my disposal for my recital. I have tried many Canadian Pianos of different manufacturers, and must say that, considering the size of the instrument, I have never found one to equal it for depth and brilliancy of tone. The action is quite as elastic and responsive as in American Upright Pianos of the highest grade. Again thanking you, very sincerely,
I remain,
Yours,
FRED. E. MORRIS

A CITY OF STREET CARS.

Careless, on the Pacific Coast, and Its Domiciles of Abandoned Vehicles.
The idea of converting an abandoned street car into a domicile is strictly Californian—as original as the houseboat life of Belvedere bay or the slave traffic of Chinatown. When you think of it, there is no reason why some such use should not be made of those obsolete vehicles, with their glazed sides and varnished panels. Yet there is nothing about the style of them as they were borne through the streets in other and older days to suggest this ultimate purpose of their being. Who, though, sees his old clothes in the white paper of the morning journal or mere coal in the dining room? Of the availability of a street car for living purpose there may be a question, but of the adaptability of the structure there is no doubt—not, at least, after a visit to Carville. Carville is on the verge of the Pacific ocean and on the northwestern edge of Golden Gate park. It is founded on the sand dunes, and its residents are free of the sea breezes and the sunsets. Before them the park stretches out its vistas of dark green, around them are tawny sand dunes—a veritable Sahara billowing away to the hills. To the west the Pacific stretches illimitably its bright wastes of blue waters, an admirable site surely—a seaside resort within a stone's throw of San Francisco.
Carville and its cars belong to Adolph Sutro. You may occupy a car there, lease it even at the rate of $5 per month. You may convert it to domestic purposes, furnish it elaborately, but you cannot purchase it or its site for love or money. The location, thinks Mr. Sutro, who is a man of much foresight, has a future. What other great city has a seaside resort at its doors, he wants to know. Here is a London with its Brighton in the suburbs, a New York with a Narragansett Pier on its water front. Why, it will be worth millions yet. The plutocrat of the twentieth century will have his villa here rather than on Pacific Heights or at Burlingame. Indeed, Mr. Sutro, who had the imagination to build the biggest and ugliest baths in America and a Cliff House that looks like a fortified drygoods box, has but to close his eyes and see a vision of pale pink palaces embowered in verdure along the boulevard stretching over the sand dunes to the gum trees in the distance, and all paying tribute to his foresight. This is the ocean beach according to Sutro.
W. M. Coward's domicile is a summer villa—the swell show place of Carville. It is hung with portieres, equipped with a dining table, a tiny kitchen and all the other domestic attributes. Its outfit of furniture and trappings cost $150, and really the impression you have of the interior is quite sumptuous. It might be a Pullman car, or a cozy corner in a plutocrat's mansion, or something equally luxurious, if you can think of it. Here cometh the owner every Sunday armed with the materials for the Sabbath dinner, and he and his family enjoy the ozone and the freedom of beach, park and sand dunes. If he chooses, he may live there the week through, as Captain Dailey does. The captain is a gentleman of prominence and education, who found himself a few years back broken in health and out of pocket. There was a bit of a hut set out on the edge of the ocean which he obtained leave to occupy, believing that the fresh, free air of the Pacific was endowed with healing virtues which the atmosphere of the city proper did not possess. An invalid veritably, though young in spirit, he made the hut his domicile, and ever since he has waxed strong and hearty, regained his lost health and secured a new lease of life. The little cabin has been transformed into a quaint residence ornamented with the spoils of the sea. Behind it are stacked up, timbers and shells and coconut husks and innumerable other articles of flotsam and jetsam. A dining room has been scooped out of the sands and around the walls grow flowers. But it is the collection of bottles you will look at with the deepest interest. Such an array of bottles standing in every corner and brause of the establishment, every one of them picked up by the captain in his morning tramp along the great, broad beach, which curves in shining reaches away to Lake Merced! He will tell you of the charm of life on the ocean shore and assure you that the sea fogs have their abiding place not on the water's edge, but amid the chimney pots of the city. He will descant to you of renewed vitality and buoyancy of spirits gained from the sea breeze.—San Francisco Wave.

AN OLD AND WELL TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. FOR SALE.

RARE CHANCE
The property occupied by J. J. Gay and son situate in the village of Pownal, 7 miles from Charlottetown, is offered for sale. The proprietors have carried on a large market garden nursery, and seed business for thirty years, and the purchaser will no doubt retain a large share of the local trade. The premises comprise a large dwelling house, store, warehouse, barn, shed, orchard, and about 15 acres of the most fertile land on the island. This land has been manured year after year, for so long that an old man said the other day: "It is all a bed of manure and could be hauled for top dressing." This would be an ideal spot for a country merchant or it would be admirable for a summer resort. The situation is one of the most beautiful on the island. Good bathing, fishing, boating, shooting and within easy distance, churches, post office school telephone and shops aliat the door.

CATAPHORESIS

Is the name given to the latest and greatest success known in modern dental science, in other words

Painless Dentistry By Electricity.

This great invention has been perfected, and at the Dental Conventions of 1897, formed the chief topic of discussion. It is now used by all the leading dentists of the United States and Canada, and as we believe in being "up to date" in our profession Among other improvements we have at considerable expense adopted this wonderful invention, for the benefit of our patients in Charlottetown and P. E. I. By it's use all operations are rendered absolutely painless. The most sensitive tooth can be filled without the least particle of pain, teeth that have become discolored, can be restored so their natural color; in fact it's benefits are numbered by the score.

We invite inspection. Painless Dentistry, warranted work, moderate charges.
