SEMI-FINALISTS IN PENGUIN CONTEST

Pictured above are Boyd Horne of Alberton and Carol Fox, R.C.A.F. Station, Summerside, formerly of Truro, the eighth semi-finalist winners in the Perfection Penguin Contest. Next week one more boy and girl will be selected as semi-finalists. The following week the best name submitted by the eighteen boys and girls will be judged, and the winner, along with one parent or guardian will be sent on an all-expense-paid trip to the Canadian National Exhibition in Tronto.

ce, and the backing of breeders and trainers whose knowledge of horsemanship is unsurpassed anywhere. Out on the track, are drivers known to the audience, and the owners of the animals, have just as wide an acquaintanceship. There are no strangers in the grand stand or along the midway or inspecting the agricultural exhibits. They are members of the clan with hundreds of friends attending the Fair, and everybody feels perfectly at home. It is the Islanders show; they are part of it and they make the most of it.

IMPROVED PROGRAM

This year, as in each succeeding year, the Exhibition Executive under the presidency of Dr. J.T. Lantz and the active management of Mr. H. J. Kennedy, has improved and broadened its program, and at the same time, retained all the popular features of other years.

The live-stock exhibits will be more varied and larger than ever; the Women's Institute building will have a more diversified display of flowers and handicraft than ever before in its history, and the Jones Pavilion will be the scene of bustling activity throughout the week. The livestock exhibits will be judged in the Pavilion, but it will also be the setting for some of the finest vaudeville acts on the North American continent. Details of the various acts have already appeared in this paper.

RACING ENTHUSIASTS

Because Islanders are natural born judges of horse flesh and lovers of speed, the greatest interest will centre in the horse-racing. Throughout the week the cream of trotters and pacers, from all the Atlantic Provinces will compete for the generous purses which are being offered for the numerous classes to be raced. This sharpens the enjoyment of the spectators in as much as it brings into play the rivalry between the Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick stables. There is the further intense rivalry between individual drivers heightened by the partisanship of each driver, friends and well-wishers.

It will be a busy week, and given good weather, a great week of entertainment for all the folks from East Point to Tignish.
