Restriction Re Margarine In New Dairy Act Explained

Possession of margarine in this Province becomes illegal only when it is offered for sale, the Legislature was told yesterday by Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture, in his capacity of promoter of the P. E. I. Dairy Products Act.

He said the Act was necessary on a provincial level and was practically the same as the Federal Act under which "we have been operating". He told the House that the Act had the approval and study of Government officials as well as of dairymen.

The question of margarine arose when Mr. Frank Myers, First Queens, asked if the new Act applied to it. Mr. Baker said margarine was only illegal when offered for sale as under present regulations regarding it. Major John A. MacDonald stated he felt certain that he got margarine recently in a restaurant here and asked if it were permissible for such places to serve it. Hon. Mr. Baker was not sure that the Courts would uphold his interpretation, but he felt that since the restaurants were selling meals the inclusion of margarine in the meal was unlawful.

The new Act does state that no person shall manufacture or sell a dairy product contrary to regulations and clauses among such substitutes "produced wholly or substantially as substitutes for the

Mothers' Allowance Act

Considerable time was spent by members in discussion of proposed changes in the Mothers' Allowance Act to permit granting payments under the Act in cases of illegitimate children. The bill is still in committee as Hon. A. W. Matheson, Minister of Health and Welfare, who is promoting it, particularly asked members to give serious consideration to all aspects of it.

The Minister said that in broadening the Act to make the proposed provision for illegitimate children there was a possibility of it having the result of providing also a way to take such a child or children from a mother who might not be a capable person.

He said the Department he administered had a record of 1,828 such children in the past 13 years.

Mr. George Saville, Fifth King's, said it was the general feeling of the public that the illegitimate child has as much claim on the public as the legitimate one, "perhaps more" and many such in the past became famous people. He said he would be perfectly willing to cut a couple of thousand dollars from his district's public works appropriation to help the cause.

Special Cases

While not disagreeing with the proposal as he favored aid to unfortunate children, Mr. R. R. Bell was not sure about section 6 of the amendment which states that in special cases an allowance might be granted in respect of a child dependent on a mother who is not strictly eligible. He thought the section should include the words "as put forth in a special report made and signed by the Director". He also wished such reports to be made public but Hon. Mr. Matheson took exception to this as he did not believe such reports should be made public. However, he agreed that the Leader of the Opposition or other members of the House might have private access to them.

On the same section, Mr. Frank Myers, First Queens, expressed doubt regarding the special circumstances clause as he was afraid it might be abused at future dates. Mr. Harvey Douglas, Second King's, was not sure that in all cases the mother should get the allowance. He wanted assurance that it would benefit the child for whom it was intended.

Dental Act

While the Prince Edward Island Dental Act was going through committee Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, who was piloting it, explained that dentists now generally administered anaesthetic only in a "local" form and usually had a medical man to give a general anaesthetic in a hospital.

There was some discussion of the clause calling for a newcomer to pay a fee of $400 with Mr. William Acorn, First King's, suggesting that this tended to discourage young dentists from entering practice in small centres. The promoter said the fee was designed to protect Island students now in colleges who signified their intention of coming back here after graduation. If such protection were not afforded then they might find their planned positions filled by residents of other Provinces.

Hon. Keir Clark said there was
