"AFTER MIDNIGHT" AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

Alan Ladd's latest Paramount picture, the thundering action drama "After Midnight", is the thrilling screen fare due today at the Capitol Theatre. Wanda Hendrix is co-starred, while Francis Lederer and Joseph Calleia head a brilliant featured cast. Set against their intriguing background of today's Italy, the picture spins the exciting, suspenseful story of an ex-OSS officer who refuses to lay down his gun until he avenges the war-time betrayal of his partisan friends and the beautiful Italian girl he loved. There's no further evidence needed that Ladd is Hollywood's top man in the action department but, according to advance reports he outdoes himself in "Captain Carey, U. S. A." There's one tremendous fight sequence that took three days to film, and is said to be the most spectacular gun and knife duel ever seen on the screen. A relative newcomer to the ranks of Hollywood stars, Miss Hendrix, nevertheless, has proved herself an actress of rare ability in such pictures as "Prince of Foxes," "Miss Tatlock's Millions" and "Ride the Pink Horse." And reviewers agree that her performance opposite Ladd is one of her best.

Let's Talk It Over

A Prince County Viewpoint

This week is National Air Cadet Week. In Summerside we have a very active air cadet squadron under capable leaders. The boys in their charge meet every Friday evening for organized games, entertainment and, most important of all, instruction which forms a valuable background for a career in many walks of life. The boys are encouraged to take pride in their appearance and to treat their leaders with respect, qualities which invariably prove helpful to them in later life. The cadets get a basic training in aerobics but their joining the cadet squadron does not commit them in any way as regards later enlistment in the R. C. A. F. Naturally a good percentage of cadets do take advantage of their early training and enlist with the parent service if they decide to enter the services at all.

Even if they never enter the airforce, the instruction they receive cannot help being invaluable to them. All subjects are carefully planned to complement the regular high-school curriculum. "Airplane" is a magic word to many boys from their earliest days, and this opportunity to come in closer contact with them, and learn more about them is very often the answer to boyhood's most cherished dream.

Like the Boy Scouts and similar youth organizations, the cadets attend camp during their summer vacation. Special camps of two-weeks duration are arranged at R. C. A. F. stations across the country and up to 6000 cadets are accommodated in this way. At camp the cadets study under specially-trained instructors, flies as a passenger in a service aircraft, indulges in body building games and competitions, and enjoys himself in the out-of-doors.

Senior air cadets with a minimum of two years' service can qualify for many exciting rewards. There is an R. C. A. F. Flying Scholarship Course giving four weeks' instruction in flying. The Air Cadet League, which sponsors the movement, offers similar courses. Under these plans, more than 1,400 cadets have learned to fly in the last five years. The majority of these now hold private pilots' licenses and a large number are filling aircrew positions either in the R. C. A. F. or in commercial aviation.

One of the important purposes of Air Cadet Week is to provide an opportunity for Air Cadet League committees to appeal to the public for funds to carry on their work. It would be difficult to find a cause more deserving of support.

and saw that no one else was there he felt better. Now if only the fish were there all would once more be well. He would catch and eat his breakfast and then come on a big rock which was a favorite perch of his. Well, perhaps he wouldn't doze, but he would rest a while and perhaps dress his feathers. He had started for the fishing grounds so hurriedly that he hadn't put his coat in order as he usually did the first thing in the morning.

Ah, there were some fish just breaking the surface of the water. There were small but there was a whole school of them. Small fish were easier to swallow than big ones, and didn't have to be swallowed all at once as a bigger fish did. And he had that handy pouch or bag beneath the lower half of his bill in which to carry them. How glad he was that he had such a big bill with that bag fastened to the under side.

A few minutes later he had that bag full of breakfast and was ready to swallow these small fish-ones at a time. Even as he prepared to swallow the first one he heard a voice calling to him from overhead.

"Share!! Share!! Share!!" screamed the voice.
 Grandpa Pelican didn't need to look up to know who was flying above him. He knew that voice. It was the voice of Gullie the Gull.
 "Share!! Share!! Share!!" screamed Gullie.
 Grandpa Pelican didn't want to share it.

Actual curvature of the earth's surface is approximately nine inches per mile.

This is a plan for a new recreation area for Summerside which was approved by the Town Council on Monday evening. The area takes in the old baseball diamond and the recently acquired Brennan property which extends north to Beatty Avenue, in all about 11 acres. Provision is made for baseball, track and field, football, softball, tennis, a playground for the kiddies and a park for the enjoyment of people of all ages.—S.

"THE REFORMER AND THE REDHEAD" AT CAPITOL

"The Reformer and the Redhead" M-G-M's sparkling new romantic comedy coming to the Capitol Theatre this week, marks the first appearance together on the screen of June Allyson and Dick Powell (Mr. and Mrs. Powell) since their marriage.

The screen play was written by Norman Panama and Melvin Frank with this noted team also producing and directing. Panama and Frank have such past hits to their credit as "My Favorite Blonde," "The Road to Utopia" and "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House."

"The Reformer and the Redhead," laugh-loaded story of a zoogeographer's daughter and a crusading lawyer who vanquish both growing animals and bellowing politicians, offers June Allyson an interesting change of pace from her recent dramatic roles in "The Station Story" and "Little Women," the pictures which zoomed her to the position of Hollywood's Number One actress in box-office drawing power in the annual poll of Boxoffice Magazine.

Dick Powell also returns to the comedy field in the new offering following his recent hit in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" as "Mr. Favorite Blonde," "The Road to Utopia" and "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House."
