ADVERTISING RATES.

For small advertisements which are ordered for only one or two weeks the charge is 5c cents per inch for the first insertion, and 2c cents for each continuation. Rate cards are furnished on application at the office. Special contract prices at a reduced rate are quoted for advertisements four inches in size or larger, which are to run for three months or longer.

No special notices inserted unless paid for at the rate of 15 cents per line, and under no circumstances will such paid notices appear in the local column.

Special discounts made on all advertisements connected with Church Fairs, Bazaars, Picnics, etc. No notices will be inserted with the same unless the regular rate of 10 cents per line is paid.

That THE EXAMINER is considered by our Merchants and Manufacturers to be the leading newspaper in P. E. Island, and consequently the most valuable advertising medium through which to make their announcements public, is abundantly proved by the fact that in order to accommodate our advertisers we have been compelled to enlarge the paper to its present size.

THE DAILY EXAMINER is for sale by the following agents:—

PROF. SHAW'S THIRD LETTER

Some Criticisms and Some Suggestions.

Points to be Noted and Remembered.

III.

To the People of Prince Edward Island:

As it was my privilege to examine the live stock three years ago at the Provincial Exhibition held in Charlottetown, and also this year again in virtually the same classes, I had a good opportunity of comparing the progress made. Generally speaking it was very gratifying. But this does not apply to the beef classes to the same extent as to the dairy classes among cattle, nor does it apply equally to the Leicesters and Shropshires, the two principal classes of sheep shown. The Jerseys were out in much larger numbers than in the show of 1890, and this applies to animals of both sexes. Guernseys do not seem to have made much progress. I was interested in noting that some females possessed of the Alderney strain were present, as it has been claimed that there is no Alderney blood in America. The show of Ayreshire cattle was also a decided improvement on that of 1890, both in numbers and in the all-round quality of the animals.

In sheep the exhibit of Leicesters was really good, and this applies to the breeding and form of the animals and also to the fine condition in which they were brought into the ring. The wool as a rule was possessed of fine fibre and was unctious and the skin was bright, pink colored and glistening. One of two things is probably true in reference to the sheep of the Island, viz., that Leicesters are better adapted to the conditions of your food products and climate than the dark-faced breeds, or they have been brought out in better show shape. This question should be sifted to the bottom, for adaptability in breeds is one of the most important elements of success.

The Shopshires were not so uniform as could be desired, and this applies to markings, shapes and quality. There were some good animals among them notwithstanding. It is well that the breeders of any class of pure bred stock have a high ideal set before them, and when they are not satisfied with any previous divergence from the same; for then they can reach eminent success by simply passing along one side of a triangle rather than waiting to travel around three sides of the same.

The grade cattle in the dairy classes were a marked improvement on those of 1890, although in numbers they were fewer. This was owing probably to the fact that they must be the progeny of a pure sire. The directors are wise thus to encourage higher breeding. These remarks apply also to the exhibit of grade sheep. I was glad indeed to notice that this year no prizes were offered for grade rams as in 1890. Such offerings are a perversion of the design of an agricultural exhibition. It is well they have been obliterated from the prize list, and no doubt for all time.

The exhibit of Berkshire swine and also Chesters was fair, but that of Yorkshires was superlatively good in quality. The breeders of improved Yorkshires, generally speaking, are starting right and that is a great matter. Let them look well to the development of the ham, and with such foundation stocks they cannot easily go wrong. The grades were also excellent. It was noticeable here as elsewhere that the Yorkshire cross upon Berkshire grades gave excellent results, and conversely Berkshire upon Yorkshire grades. The crossing must, however, of necessity, be, generally speaking, Yorkshire upon Berkshire grades, owing to the relative superiority numerically of the Berkshire grades in the country.

With the forebearance of the directors, I would like to make one or two suggestions in the line of changes in the prize list. I simply make them in the hope that they may be considered. Grouping Shorthorns and Holsteins makes very difficult judging. I would suggest instead having a class of grade cattle for beef, and also one for dairy uses; deserving animals then of whatever breed would win. The judge would be prevented from weighing high dairy qualities in one female, against high beef making qualities in another. I would also suggest that when the call is extended for entries of live stock purely bred, that the owners be simply required to furnish the name of the animal and his pedigree number to the secretary, and the name also of the record, or register at the time the entry is made. This would not be absolute guarantee against fraud for the time being, but if fraud were attempted it would enable its detection to be easily traced. Much time would be saved in judging, and the certificates of registry would not be so liable to be defaced and lost. It is awkward for a man to produce a pedigree when he is holding a restless animal.

I would also suggest that where several pigs are shown in one class, they should be brought out of the pens. Any judge however expert, is liable to make a mistake when he goes from pen to pen, and is required to carry in his mind the strong and weak points of several animals at the same time. I was surprised to find that some of the exhibitors objected on the ground that the animals were wild, and could not be got back again. When breeders are sufficiently well acquainted with their pigs they are not wild.

There are many things about the Exhibition at Charlottetown with which I am greatly pleased. In several respects it is a model. Among these I may mention the tasteful arrangement of the exhibits in the building and the good accommodation for the live stock. And I may add also the management generally. The increase of the exhibit in dairy products, especially cheese, was gratifying. The arrangement of the exhibit of roots, fruit and flowers, was certainly all that could be desired.

The display, as a whole, is, I think, wonderful for so small an Island. Where in the Dominion, I ask, could any three adjoining counties furnish a better display? I don't think they could be found.

The management of this Exhibition deserves to be well sustained. I hope they are being so sustained. The Exhibition is certainly proving a valuable educator. Without saying anything against any other exhibitions in the Island, I desire to say that one large exhibition should be sustained. It will do more good than these small ones.

I trust the progress made in the next three years will be even greater than in the past three. I know there is much to discourage in some lines of agriculture, but fellow farmers of Prince Edward Island, do not be discouraged. Agriculture will yet have beginnings and until it has may not be very long.

THOS. SHAW.

YACHTING NOT UNMIXED PLEASURE

Some Experiences Possess None of the Charms So Often Painted.

One commonly thinks of yachting as the most delightful of summer pastimes, says The Boston Transcript, and the very word calls up visions of a "white sheet, and a flowing sea, a wind that follows fast," smells of salt things, and whistlings through the rigging, blue sky, white caps, driving clouds and all that sort of thing to say nothing of the possibilities of delightful companionship and the delicious unconventionality of meeting one's fellowmen and women with all the formality and restraints of on shore life thrown off; so making talk of anything of that kind, but knocking about carelessly and easily in flannel suits and having "a real good time." Or, again, racing, with its excitements, and cruising, with all its possibilities of adventure, to Bar Harbor. Such is the popular and accepted view of yachting, but there is another and gloomy side to the picture which the writer, who is sometimes inclined to growl, can set forth clearly in three distinct statements, with an open challenge to contradiction—first, that to "go and take a sail" in a small boat belonging to some one else and to sail aimlessly about on the open sea is "an awful bore"; secondly, that to go as "amateur crew" on a rowing yacht under sixty feet long is not only a bore, but a hardship, and on yachts under sixty feet in length it is not customary to have an "amateur crew," unless an occasional and almost always useless passenger can be considered such; and lastly that cruising is a lottery absolutely depending on the weather. Fogs, calms, storms and head winds are quite as usual as free winds and sunshine.

Observe that nothing has been said about seasickness, which makes yachting impossible to so many.

There is no place on earth where the sun can strike down out of the sky and bleach and blister and sizzle as it can upon a yacht's deck. There is no place that can be hotter or more stuffy or more uncomfortable than a yacht's cabin on a hot day, when there is no wind or when the wind is dead aft, and when it is rough, and the water is driving across the yacht's deck in a sheet of white foam, and the crew are all huddled behind the shrouds, into which oilskins have been stuffed to make a screen and the man at the wheel has life-lines running from the main sheet to the main shrouds on either side of him to keep him from being washed overboard, and the oil bags are hung to windward to keep the water from breaking, and the fire is out in the galley, and the cook has been scalded by the soup stock jumping out of the boiler, and the barometer is dropping like mad, and the skylight leaks so that every wave which comes aboard sends bucketfuls of swash down into the cabin, and when every now and then a wave comes aboard and pounds down on her deck like a load of pig iron, and those below are shaken about like corn in a popper, and those on deck simply hold on and duck their heads—when such is the condition of affairs yachting would not be considered a pastime.

The delights of being "amateur crew" can be briefly summed up. They consist in lying flat on your face either in a hot sun or a pouring rain, and if you turn over having the owner shout at you: "Keep still! Do you think that you're a wild elephant? You jarred her all over that time." Furthermore, all yachts are not rigged alike, and if the amateur crew is told at a critical point in the race—say just before rounding the leeward mark—to let go the spinnaker halyards and let the balloon jib halyards go instead, so that the whole sail goes over to the leeward, the remarks which will be made to him will be "unfit for publication."

Don't be Vulgar.

Vulgar women like to attract attention; they are loud in their dress and talk; they can be seen and heard at a distance; they are numerous, generally annoying and often offensive.

Vulgar women walk like grenadiers; they come down on their heels with force enough to shake anything from an "L" road station to a summer hotel piazza.

Vulgar women discuss private affairs in public; their conversation is audible to passers-by; they invite the observation of strangers, and they are flattered by the familiar comments of flunkies, flirts, fakirs and Broadway loafers.

Vulgar women appear in public wearing brilliant colors, brilliant cheeks, audible perfumes, jewelry and sensational styles.

Vulgar women may win admiration, but they never win respect; before an individual is respected by others she must respect herself.

Women who bear tales, who betray confidence and make mischief with their tongues are vulgarians of the most despicable type.

Vulgar women are dangerous; they not only corrupt good manners, but they are a bad example for the ignorant and innocent, and a disturbing element among refined people.—New York World.

French Women on Business.

The Frenchwoman, unlike her English sister, has, as a rule, a very good business education. In the common schools she is taught household bookkeeping, and is given lessons in purchasing and useful expenditure. As a wife she is expected generally to help her husband in his business, and sometimes she manages it entirely for him. In the small stores she acts as clerk for him, and in the larger ones she is an equal partner. The Bon Marche was made famous by Mme. Boucicault, who helped her husband to found and maintain the establishment, and after his death she took entire charge of it. Her system was one of so much kindness and consideration towards her employes that they called her "the Lady of the Bon Marche," and looked upon her as almost a saint. There are many other large establishments in Paris managed by women. Mme. Coquelin, it is said, invests all her husband's money for him, and many of the wives of artists manage the selling and exhibition of their husband's works, attend to the collecting and paying of debts, obtain orders, and call upon newspaper men, doing all the necessary work to make their husband's artistic efforts profitable.—Woman.

Submitted to Investigation.

In Berlin no animal may be killed for food under a heavy penalty except at the municipal slaughter-house. Every animal is not only submitted to a close scientific investigation, but specimens of its blood and tissues are examined under powerful microscopes, forty-five female microscopists with eyes trained to the work being constantly employed.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS WILL CURE YOU

"Backache means the kidneys are in trouble. Dodd's Kidney Pills give prompt relief."

"75 per cent. of disease is first caused by disordered kidneys.

"Might as well try to have a healthy city without sewerage, as good health when the kidneys are clogged they are the sewerages of the system.

"Delay is dangerous. Neglected kidney troubles result in Bad Blood, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and the most dangerous of all, Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy."

"The above diseases cannot exist where Dodd's Kidney Pills are used."
