Educational Notes.

Our public school curriculum proceeds too much on the assumption that all the boys are preparing for a professional life. This is especially true of the High school programme, which is merely the preliminary work of the University. Since, as a matter of fact, few pupils ever go beyond the High school, the curriculum calls for revision to adapt it to the wants of the majority.—Grip.

Notwithstanding what we have elsewhere said, and are continually saying, about the right of every boy and girl to the broadest possible mental development, irrespective of the probable future work and sphere; or, rather, because of our views on that point, we heartily endorse the above from our sprightly contemporary. We have often maintained that the High school course should be first of all complete in itself, with the best possible adaptation to the needs of those whose school-life necessarily ends with it. These needs, however, to our thinking, have relation to the future of the boy, not simply as a prospective mechanic, or farmer, or "plain business man," or to the future of the girl as a prospective housekeeper, but to that of each as what he or she should be, an independent, intelligent, large-minded man or woman, an influential unit in the social order, a responsible citizen of the State.—Educational Journal.

The following from Miss Frances E. Willard's address on "The White Cross in Education," given before the National Educational Association, at St. Paul, Minn., in July last, contains a truth that should be carefully pondered by all teachers of the young:

"Build the child's education up from a physical foundation. Bodily habits that are healthful and pure mean more to the Republic's future than intellectual acumen or requirements. The man wonderful lives in a house beautiful, but science teaches even as the Bible does, that 'Whoso defileth this temple him shall God destroy, for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.' The child should learn that this destruction is not wrought in vengeance, but as the inevitable sequel of violating natural laws so beneficent that obedience to them would insure a happy life."

All Canadian educationists are aware that the Temperance Instruction law, introduced some years ago by the Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, is being attended with an encouraging measure of success. Though it is at present only an optional subject, the part that 141,000 children took in the last Temperance Examination shows that the study has supplied a want in the educational system, and we may look forward to the time when the Temperance examination will be made compulsory in all public schools.

West India Trade.

Ottawa Citizen: This is Canada's opportunity, and our merchants should not be slow in availing themselves of it. As a fair indication of the temper of the people on the McKinley bill we may quote the following from the Jamaica Standard:

"The trade between the United States and Jamaica has of late years been greatly on the increase. The principal benefit of this trade has accrued to the United States. If the American Government, therefore, persists in imposing a heavy duty on our sugar, we have it in our power to retaliate, and to increase our import duties on American products. The corn, flour and other foodstuffs that we now get from the United States, we can obtain as cheaply and conveniently from the Dominion of Canada. All, then, that would have to be done is to conclude preferential fiscal arrangements with the Dominion of Canada."

Montreal Gazette: Canadians have now an opportunity of impressing on our fellow-subjects, as well as the inhabitants of the foreign West Indies, what they would gain by closer intercourse with Canada. Our trade may easily be quintupled if only our merchants and manufacturers avail themselves of the invitation to make known what Canada can supply in return for tropical commodities. Already we have the good will of the Islanders, who have again and again signified their desire for closer relations, and if Canada's participation in the exhibition is not worthy of our resources and industries, we shall only have ourselves to blame if hereafter our West India trade remains stagnant or falls short of its normal volume.

Monetary Times: Proposals of retaliation against the American tariff now being enacted at Washington continue to be heard. A Jamaica journal proposes to make an arrangement with Canada that will transfer to this country much of the import trade now obtained from the States, in the event of a sugar clause being inserted adverse to the British West Indies. Jamaica we have no doubt, will follow her own interests, within the limits of her powers, as she understands it. Whether this proposal will bear fruit we need not stop to conjecture.

A Very Narrow Escape.

As the morning express train on Wednesday last was speeding on its way northward, and when between Stouffville and Goodwood, the engineer of the train saw just a few feet in front of the engine a small child about 3 or 4 years old standing on a crossing and in the middle of the track. There was no opportunity to stop the train in time to prevent what seemed to be an inevitable calamity. However, when the engine came within five or six feet of the child it suddenly fell down between the ties, and the whole train passed over its prostrate form without even harming a hair of its little head. The train was at once stopped and the train hands went back to the child and found it uninjured. What made the escape more marvellous is the fact that where the child fell a great deal of the ballast was gone from between the ties, and the further fact that the cow-catcher was four or five inches higher than any other locomotive on the road.

A Moderate Irish Party.

ITS ORGANIZATION IN AMERICA THE SUBJECT OF WM. O'BRIEN'S PROJECTED VISIT.

Mr. William O'Brien and his party are announced to sail for America on the 1st Oct. next. Their tour will constitute the most important American undertaking in the cause of Irish patriotism since the visit of Mr. Parnell. The present trip will have a new, definite object in view, which cannot but have a tendency in the direction of putting the Irish cause in America on a better footing than it has ever heretofore enjoyed in the estimation of the American people, and in carrying out more completely than has been possible on former occasions the ideas of Mr. Parnell and his associate leaders of the Irish party. The chief aim of Mr. O'Brien and his companions will be to accomplish the formation of a moderate Irish party in the United States, quite distinct from the blatant and socialistic set which has generally got the upper hand in Irish matters. They have received strict instructions to have no dealings whatever with the physical force party, and to ignore or repudiate at all times and on all occasions the violent and aggressive spirits who have disgraced Irish patriotism by their preaching of dynamite and murder. The delegates will appoint agents of the Land League in all the important cities and industrial and commercial centres of America, and will collect donations to the patriotic fund and send them direct to Dublin, instead of permitting them to go through Chicago as a centre, as has been done hitherto. Mr. Parnell and his friends have finally succeeded in acquiring sufficient strength and influence to insist upon their purposes and views being accepted as the controlling influence in the Land League, and after years of politic bearing and diplomatic effort have brought, apparently, the great mass of the Irish people, and all men of thought and sense, into a frame of mind compatible with proper political agitation in behalf of Ireland, as distinguished from the wrong-headed and criminal methods, which it was impossible to overcome and change to good by any other behavior than that which has marked Mr. Parnell's course and that of his most able compatriots.

Parson Arney on Trial.

HE THINKS HE DID NOTHING WRONG IN HOLDING A TROTTING MEETING.

The session of the State Conference of Methodist Ministers, held a few days ago, attracted more general interest throughout the State than any similar meeting in the history of the church in this state. Rev. Joseph W. Arney, the "sporting parson," was on trial. The parson has a fondness for fast horses, and his trotting meeting at Saranac some two months ago, the details of which were telegraphed all over the country, was the subject of discussion.

Prosiding Elder Barnes, of Kalamazoo, presented the charges against Parson Arney to the conference. He related how Rev. Mr. Arney had conducted a horse-race at Saranac, had sat in his sulky behind his trotters, and had, in fact, acted as driver, judge and general superintendent of the affair.

"Mr. Arney does not regret his course. 'I went into the race,' he said, 'with my eyes open, with a purpose in view, and have yet to entertain my first regret at the course I pursued. The race was as quiet and orderly as any camp meeting, and as pleasant as any church social. There was no gambling or pool-selling, the horses were not abused, and the best of good order prevailed throughout. There was not a single objectionable feature, and nothing happened to make me ashamed of the part I had in it. I am not prepared to say I will never do such a thing again.'"

A Modern Need for Sleep.

There is not one man or woman in ten thousand who can afford to do without seven or eight hours' sleep. All these stories written about great men and women who slept only three or four hours a night make very interesting reading; but no man or woman ever yet kept healthy in body and mind for a number of years with less than seven hours' sleep. Americans need more sleep than they are getting, says a Boston writer. This lack makes them so nervous, and the insane asylums so populous. If you can get to bed early, then rise early. If you cannot get to bed till late, then rise late. It may be as Christian for one man to rise at eight as it is for another to rise at five. I counsel my readers to get up when they are rested.
