

In Memoriam.

LINES written on the death of John H. Garrett, jr., of Stanley, who was drowned by the upsetting of a boat in New London harbor.

Yet is the memory of our friend most dear, Yet fresh the smile upon his manly face; Still they call forth our warm affection's tear, Still in our heart retain their wonted place.

What startling news is this we hear? What sight that meets the eye? 'Tis Stanley's yacht now coming in With colors half-mast high.

What mournful story doth she bring Across the water dim? 'Tis that young John we loved so dear Will ne'er return again.

In spirits high he left his home, The morning calm and fair, With little thought e're noon for him Cold death was lurking there.

The rose of health bloomed on his cheek, His form bid fair for life,— But raging winds and angry waves Cut short the mortal strife.

Amid the wild and troubled sea, A boat in which he sailed, Refused to be life's only guard, And foundered in the gale.

God heal the young wife's broken heart, And wipe away her tears,— And give the mother grace to help In her declining years.

And while we think of those who mourn For one they loved so dear, Our heart is filled, our eyelids drop The sympathizing tear.

But hope that in a better land, Far, far from grief and pain, The group which death has broken now May be re-formed again.

We trust although his earthly life Was quenched beneath the sea, His spirit roves celestial fields With God eternally.

And when our mortal life is o'er, Our friend we hope to see, Where farewell tears are known no more Through all eternity.

Brilliant! Durable! Economical!

Diamond Dyes excel all others in Strength, Purity and Fastness. None other are just as good. Beware of imitations, because they are made of cheap and inferior materials, and give poor, weak, crocky colors. To be sure of success, use only the DIAMOND DYES for coloring Dresses, Stockings, Yarns, Carpets, Feathers, Ribbons, &c., &c. We warrant them to color more goods, package for package, than any other dyes ever made, and to give more brilliant and durable colors. Ask for the Diamond and take no other.
