Johnson, Top Aides Confer On War Needs

By KARL R. BAUMAN
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson and his top diplomatic and military advisers conferred Tuesday to figure out a U.S. price tag for the war in Viet Nam, but any decisions reached may not be made known until January.

State Secretary Dean Rusk and Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara flew in from Washington to talk about, as Johnson himself phrased it, "national defence needs for next year." Accompanying them were McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs, and Bundy's deputy, Robert Komer.

Mounting costs of the war already are reflected in U.S. government spending, but the heaviest impact is yet to come. The first money request will be in the form of a supplemental appropriation for the present fiscal year which began July 1.

It will go to congress early in the next session and will be on top of $1,700,000,000 already added to the budget for the present year. The spending estimate last January of $99,700,000,000 has been pushed to a record $105,000,000,000 to $107,000,000,000.

How much to ask in the supplemental, as well as the Viet Nam price tag in the regular budget for the bookkeeping year beginning next July 1, presumably figured importantly in the discussions.

QUESTION ASKED
Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked if there was any connection between the discussions and the Soviet Union's announcement Tuesday of a five-per-cent increase in its defence budget because of what the Soviet finance minister called "conditions of international danger."

"I don't know of any relationship," Moyers replied. McNamara, who recently returned from a 28-hour inspection trip in South Viet Nam, already has talked over his findings with Johnson by telephone but this was his first opportunity to fill in the details.

McNamara said both in Saigon and in Washington "we've stopped losing the war," but "it will be a long road ahead." How much U.S. forces in South Viet Nam will be increased neither Johnson nor McNamara will say. The present total is about 165,700. Speculation has centred on 300,000.

WOULD NOT PREDICT
Johnson said at an informal press conference Monday "I wouldn't want to make any predictions or prognostications" on the increase in U.S. forces, but added until there is peace "we are going to continue to help the people of South Viet Nam resist aggression and we are going to supply whatever men will be needed in that effort."

The White House announced Tuesday Johnson will go back to Washington for his Dec. 14-15 meetings with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan.

Officials said privately he also is expected to hold his Dec. 17 meeting with British Prime Minister Wilson in the capital. The Dec. 19-20 visit of West German Chancellor Erhard still is scheduled for the LBJ Ranch in Texas, but developments could transfer it to Washington, Moyers said.

Pilot Killed In Unusual Air Accident
NARVIK, Norway (Reuters)—A West German pilot was believed killed Monday night after apparently flying unconsciously for hundreds of miles over Scandinavia in his F-104 jet fighter.

Witnesses reported an explosion and fire ball from a mountain near Ankenes, west of Narvik, and air and ground rescue teams were sent to search the area.

The Norwegian Air Force Command said the fighter was observed coming over Norwegian territory near Fredrikstad, South Norway. Danish military pilots spotted the West German plane but could not establish what was wrong.

Norwegian radar stations tracked the F-104 all the way to northern Norway. Two Norwegian fighters, sent up to investigate, reported the banks of the West German pilot was sitting unconscious in the cockpit.

Efforts to rouse him failed and the Norwegian pilots saw his jet flame out, indicating the engine was stopped, the Norwegian Air Force said. Shortly afterward they lost all contact with the fighter.

Caouette Hits At Government
OTTAWA (CP)—Creditist Leader Real Caouette has charged the "government of Mr. Pearson continues to be the docile servant of American financial interests."

The government is incapable of assuming its responsibilities in the monetary field, he said. "Each time it has to take its orders from the United States."

Mr. Caouette, in a statement, said as soon as the American federal reserve board raised the discount rate, the Canadian finance minister decided the "this will bring about new restrictive measures on consumer credit, since the banks will tell us again that they can no longer borrow new credit as long as they haven't the authority to raise the interest rate themselves to six or seven per cent," he said.

control and mixed marriage between Catholics and non-Catholics.

The modern world problems decree upholds traditional church teachings against contraceptive devices, but opens the way for possible change by the Pope after a special commission of experts reports.

The religious freedom decree provides every person has a God-given right to follow his conscience in religious belief and to worship openly.

However, it maintains Roman Catholicism's own doctrine that the Catholic Church is the one true church Christ founded and must be embraced by anyone who recognizes this.

The modern world problems decree, ranges over the social, cultural and economic aspects of today's world.

The decree's key sections speak of nuclear warfare, birth control and atheism. It says countries cannot be denied the right to legitimate self-defence, while calling nuclear stockpiling a danger for the world. It sees need for progressive, controlled and guaranteed disarmament.

On atheism, the decree calls for prudent dialogue between Roman Catholicism and Atheism. The decree avoids condemning Communism which a conservative bloc of council bishops had wanted.

On birth control, the decree reminds Catholics they cannot use methods their church forbids. But it stresses conjugal love along with child-bearing in the aims of marriage and says "further diligent study is still needed" in the field of contraception, leaving the way open for possible future change in the church's stand.

The document rejects racial, social and religious discrimination and encourages many of the common activities of modern man—labor unions, efforts to overcome poverty and hunger, projects for helping underdeveloped countries toward prosperity.

Vatican sources said the Pope is expected today to lift the ban on Catholics eating meat on Fridays. They said the papal announcement would encourage abstinence as a form of penance for other sins.

SCOUTS WILL MEET
At least 400 Canadian troops, numbering 1,440 boy scouts, are expected to attend the world scout jamboree in 1967 at Faragut State Park, Idaho.

Rotary members near the end of the auction, expressed appreciation for the public's support of the annual sale.

Ayrshire Breeders Commended For High Standards Of Quality

Prince Edward Island's Ayrshire breeders were warmly commended for the high standard of quality they maintained in their sale of breeding animals this year. The sale held last August on the night of the Ayrshire show at the Provincial Exhibition.

Livestock Director David Peacock offered his commendation and expressed the hope the Ayrshire club can maintain the high standard in future sales. The sale will be held this year at the same time and place.

The Ayrshire breeders are happy about the quality of the sires that are available in the artificial breeding unit at Fredericton, N.B., which serves Island breeders as well.

The Meredith Forrester bull has come to the unit after completing the show circuit in the United States. The animal was only beaten once, and he was reserve grand champion in that occasion it was explained by Dr. D.G. Moore who is in charge of the Fredericton unit. The bull comes from the Meredith farm at Topsfield, Massachusetts.

Another outstanding sire in the unit is Ayrward Warrior that comes from an Essex, England herd.

His dam started as a two-year old on 305-day division with more than 13,000 pounds of milk with a 4-2 test and gave more than 17,000 pounds as a three-year old with a test of more than four per cent.

HIGH PRODUCTION
Warrior's paternal granddam has five records of more than 20,000 pounds milk, and his maternal granddam has three records over 20,000 pounds milk. This is pretty terrific production, Dr. Moore observed to The Guardian during a chat at the noon-hour luncheon break.

"This is the world champion Ayrshire production herd," he observed.

Arthur MacRae, Sherwood was re-elected to the sire selection committee yesterday.

Reporting as a national director, Mr. MacRae told the meeting it may be necessary to cut back expenses at Ayrshire headquarters and limiting the publication of the magazine, "The Review" may become necessary. Other breed associations have had similar problems, Mr. MacRae explained.

A new member of the club—he is now a director—James Palmer, Roseville suggested more activity in Western Prince County might well result in extension of the breed. Right now he's the only Ayrshire breeder in the area. Artificial breeding unit inseminators tell him that there's no Ayrshire semen being used.

Changing trends in agriculture were discussed by R.C. Parent, director of the Experimental Farm, at the noon luncheon in Birch Court.

Quoting from suggestions made by a New Brunswick agricultural research group—Mr. Parent said in order to get satisfactory financial returns from a straight dairy farm operation the farmer should deliver 4,000 pounds weekly to the creamery which would be the production of 26 cows; or total production of 9,250 pounds of 3.8 per cent milk per cow for the year.

FOR PROPER RETURNS
A man running a combination farm, with milk and poultry, would require 15 cows and 2,000 hens. To give proper returns from a fluid milk operation, if the farmer was selling to manufacturing plants, he would require 25 cows and 2,000 hens. If the farmer was producing milk and potatoes, he would need 15 good cows and 40 acres of potatoes.

If it was a butterfat and hog marketing operation, the need would be for 25 cows and 400 pigs.

If it was a combination of dairy, beef and sheep the farmer would need 20 dairy cows, 40 beef cattle and 80 sheep.

Other production goals set in the New Brunswick suggestion, were the weaning of 16 pigs per sow, production of 500 bushels potatoes per acre, 70 bushels per acre for oats, 55 bushels for barley, three and one-half tons of hay, one cow per acre on pasture and 15 tons of corn per acre.

Mr. Parent noted that he was talking of a family farm, not the so-called large operation. Herds of cattle on P.E.I. are too small, he said. But there should also be high production per animal.

NEW DIRECTORS
New directors named in addition to Mr. Palmer, are John Haslam, Springfield, for Queens, and Donald Anderson, St. Peters, for Kings.

Sterling MacRae, Brookfield, is the new president; Percy Lund, Bethel, is vice-president. The secretary-treasurer is James Williams who is also the club fieldman.

Mr. Williams received warm praise at the meeting from several spokesmen for the work he is doing for the club. This includes promotional work as well as advice and his efforts as club secretary.

A proposal that club members donate calves which would be sold to benefit the club's finances, was discussed and finally passed on to the directors for a decision.

Clinic Short Of Objective
SUMMERSIDE—The first day of a two-day Red Cross blood donor clinic being held at the George R. Pearkes, VC Legion Home here, saw 207 donors turning out.

The objective for the two-day clinic is 540 pints of blood, or 370 per day and although the number of donors fell 63 short of the objective yesterday, members of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce who are sponsoring the clinic, are optimistic that the objective may be reached today.

On Thursday, clinics will be held at both the local RCAF Station and Ellerslie.
