Gallant Gathering To Unveil Monument

The unveiling of a monument to Michel Gallant and his wife, Anne Cormier, from whom all of the Gallant families are descended, will be a feature of the Gallant family reunion here Saturday, August 14. It was learned yesterday that the monument has been erected at Port la Joie, now Fort Amherst.

There are more than 700 Gallant families in this province alone, and there are uncounted others in other countries. Gallants are coming for the reunion from as far away as Florida, Paul Gallant, Souris told this paper.

The day's observations will begin with a Concelebration Mass at St. Dunstan's Basilica celebrated by Most Reverend Malcolm A. MacEachern, bishop of Charlottetown. Rev. Theodore Gallant CSC, will preach the sermon.

Luncheon at 12 noon will be in the Basilica Recreation Centre. Edgar Gallant, director of finance, Ottawa, will be the guest speaker.

At 3.15, the large number of people expected will leave by motorcade for Port la Joie for the unveiling ceremony.

The unveiling will be by Lieutenant-Governor W. J. MacDonald, Michel Gallant and his wife are believed to have been the first known white settlers on this island which was then Isle Saint Jean.

The guest speaker at the ceremony will be Rev. Emmanuel Gallant.

LOBSTER SUPPER
Lobster supper will be served on the Fort Amherst park grounds at 5 p.m.

The celebration will conclude with a dance in the Saint Dunstan's University auditorium at 9 p.m.

The reunion has been organized under the presidency of Paul Gallant, Souris, assisted by Rev. Denis Gallant, Hope River, P.E.I., as executive secretary; J. A. Gallant, Charlottetown, secretary, and a general Charles Gallant, St. Charles; Wilmer and Francis Blanchard, Charlottetown, and Amos and Alyre Gallant, Busby.

The committee told this paper that the closing date for announcing the intention of attending the lobster supper is Wednesday of next week and the last date for purchasing tickets for the luncheon at the Recreation Centre is Monday of next week. "We have to know how many are coming so we can let the caterers know," it was explained.

Tickets for the dance will be available up to the time the event gets underway.

Tuna Survey Is Hailed

Bruce Wonnacott, Charlottetown, yesterday hailed the Tuna survey, conducted by the Island Development Company, and the strike made a few days ago one and one-half miles off Campbell's Cove by Wendall MacKay, company assistant general manager.

Mr. MacKay hooked a big Tuna that pulled the 10½ ton survey boat "I'm Alone" for 20 minutes. The fish finally broke clear after a 35-minute fight.

Mr. Wonnacott recalled that the P.E.I. Fish and Game Association—he was secretary at the time—had waited on then Premier Thane A. Campbell in the latter 1930s asking the government to institute a Tuna survey on the North shore of this province.

Premier Campbell—he is now Chief Justice Campbell—promised to do something about the request, but the Second World War intervened and the project was shelved.

Art Gaudet, Arthur Mould, Harry Tommarsh and Spurgeon Jenkins were others in the delegation, Mr. Wonnacott recalled.

No Official Word Yet On Power Cables Plan

No official word on power cables for the P.E.I.-N.B. causeway has been received by the P.E.I. government.

Ian MacKenzon of Halifax, chairman of the Atlantic Development Board, said in Kentville Monday the board has recommended that the causeway carry power cables.

A provincial cabinet minister said yesterday that while the board had been talking in terms of submarine cables to provide increased electrical power for the province, it is assumed that the board decided on causeway cables once the announcement came that the causeway will definitely be built. "The government here," the cabinet minister said, "has not been advised officially, however, of the board's decision."

The cabinet minister said a Halifax electrical expert who has been retained by the government to study the province's power needs is expected to deliver his report next week.

It has been said that this province will need more power after 1967 and this could be supplied by expansion at the Maritime Electric Plant in Charlottetown. "An extra turbine," the minister said, "could supply the extra power until about 1975. By that time the causeway cables would be in operation."

Baptist Families Begin Camp-Out

More than 15 families totalling upwards of 80 men, women and children of the First Baptist Church of Charlottetown will pitch tents this evening for a weekend of camping at the church's camp site at Rice Point on the south shore.

The camp site which is a project of the Men's Association of the church was acquired two years ago and although present facilities are limited it is planned to develop the site gradually until it is more than adequate for the use of the various age groups of the church as well as individual family and group outings.

More than 1,000 trees have been planted on the 11 acre site and in a very few years these should add to the attractiveness and worth of the camp.

So far this season there have been a number of brief camping sessions including one for teenagers and young people and a day camp for children 6-12. Several more are planned for the remainder of the camping season.

The family camp this weekend will begin tonight and break up Sunday afternoon following a family worship service.

Directors of the weekend camp are Dr. and Mrs. Alhol Roberts, Rev. and Mrs. Malcolm Harlow and Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis.

Rev. Robert Mathews, pastor of the Summerside Baptist Church, will be the theme speaker and will conduct two bible study sessions and the closing family service.

Forest Fire Rumor Causes Some Concern

SUMMERSIDE — A rumor of a forest fire in Port Hill caused reasonable concern here late yesterday afternoon due to the extreme dryness of the season.

Upon investigation by the RCMP it was discovered to be a grass fire only.

The provincial pumper was dispatched from Alberton and the fire was quickly brought under control.

MONTREALERS

The judge's first recommendations were in an interim report. He is to follow up with other recommendations concerning the base level for wages of postal workers and other civil servants in the group D category.

When informed of the Montreal vote, Mr. Pearson said he wanted to express "great disappointment" at the decision which he thinks is a mistake.

"I also regret there was no secret ballot."

He said the government would have to decide what action should be taken to get the mail moving in Montreal.

William Houle, president of the Canadian Postal workers Association of Montreal, said his followers consider the strike a question of principle rather than one of simply money or pride. He did not elaborate.

The 2,500 at the Montreal meeting voted to continue the strike on the recommendation of the strike executive, Roger Decarie, head of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers in Montreal, said strikers have enough money to last a week.

But after that things would become "crucial."

Mr. Pearson said the government will do its best to move mail along the lines worked out Wednesday when more than 200 part-time employees crossed picket lines in Montreal.

Besides the increases, a special consultant is being hired to study working conditions and work rules in the post office department.

And Mr. Pearson said legislation to set up a collective bargaining system for civil servants will be placed before Parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker issued his demand for a recall of Parliament from Prince Albert, Sask., through his office in Ottawa.

"The prime minister and the cabinet have refused to act while all the time the national economy is suffering dislocation and disruption," he said.

"As leader of the Opposition, I urge the government again to call Parliament into special session to deal with these and other pressing matters."

"Only Parliament can put an end to the procrastination of the Pearson government."

Parliament is scheduled to reconvene Sept. 27.

So far the government has fired no strikers and has threatened no reprisals. It has said workers will lose pay for time away from work.

Medallion Swimmer Rescues Young Boy

GEORGETOWN — Michael O'Neill, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Bernadette O'Neill of Georgetown was saved from drowning Thursday morning at Queens Wharf here by Don Llewellyn, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. (Bill) Llewellyn.

Donna, accompanied by her mother, was on the wharf about 10.30 a.m. when she noticed a child hanging over the curb on the southern side of the L section that formed the fishermen's boat harbor. She immediately jumped into the water and caught hold of the boy who had already gone under one or more times.

Freda Allen, also of this town, threw a rope to Donna and she pulled the boy up and he was pulled to safety and taken aboard the trawler Gulf Guard.

It appeared the boy had been driving his bicycle down the wharf and was watching a boat in the harbor when he hit the curb and was thrown into the water. It is understood he cannot swim.

Miss Llewellyn, who is the holder of a Red Cross bronze medallion for swimming and water safety proficiency, and also a Royal life saving certificate, is well known as being the only female entry in both the 1964 and the 1965 long-distance swim from Georgetown to Lower Montague. In each swim she received praise for her stamina and courage in competition with a field of male swimmers.

PM Claims Construction Unaffected By Gov't Move

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the level of activity in the construction industry will remain unaffected by the government's action to stretch out building projects.

He read a statement at a press conference expressing surprise at interpretations placed on the government's action and adding that there is no crisis in the building industry, nor any hidden problems.

"The one problem is, in some areas, the demands of the construction industry have been increasing even faster than had been previously indicated."

"I am sure these demands can be met. But it takes time for the industry to make the necessary plans and assemble the men and machinery."

He said the government is merely moving some of the deadlines on certain projects.

"This is in no way restrictive. No work that has been started will be abandoned. There will be no cutback in the possible level of activity."

He described as a "silly statement" the remarks of Opposition leader Diefenbaker who suggested the construction stretchout was related to Finance Minister Gordon's recent meeting in Washington with United States Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler.

He also denied Mr. Diefenbaker's contention that the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials was responsible for the problems in the building trades.

Mr. Pearson said the unprecedented volume of construction planned and under way proves the sales tax did not bring about a reduction in building or present planning for construction work.

He declined to discuss whether the government would consider raising the bank interest rate if industry doesn't follow the government's lead to ease pressure of the construction industry.

He said he considers normal expansion in the industry to be "all that the industry can meet in the circumstances."

The stretchout applied only where problems of skilled workers and production capacity exist.

INDIANS OPPOSE Transfer Of Jurisdiction

MONTREAL (CP) — Grand Chief Andrew T. Delisle, head of the Mohawk council at Caughnawaga Indian reservation near Montreal, said here "we strenuously oppose any transfer" of jurisdiction over Indians from the federal government to Quebec provincial authorities.

He was commenting on a statement made by Quebec Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie Monday night in Winnipeg at the provincial premiers' conference. Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said Quebec is determined to press for provincial jurisdiction over Indians.

Grand Chief Delisle said in his Wednesday statement: "As far as integration is concerned, it is the white man who has not integrated with the Indian. We will deal with all the peoples of North America and not just a part."

"As far as Caughnawaga is concerned there would be no benefit for us under provincial jurisdiction."

He said that at a meeting in Quebec City last June attended by 11 Indian leaders from across the province, Quebec was advised that the Indian people did not want any transfer of responsibilities.
