Senior Citizens Receive Awards

For the second consecutive year the Marshfield Women's Institute has been declared the first-place winner of the P.E.I. Women's Safety Awards. The announcement was made yesterday by Senator Eide, chairman of the panel of judges.

The winning entries of this annual contest in each of the provinces, is submitted to the National Carol Lane Safety Awards judging. The award entry took place in this national contest last year. The deciding factor in the judges' decision this year, was the institute's identification of markers for slow-moving vehicles on the highway. These consisted of fluorescent triangles to be attached to the vehicles.

A cleanup for roadways and ditches in the Marshfield district was organized by the Institute. It also had installed caution lights in a dangerous portion of highway in front of its hall.

The hockey Saints are off to Halifax tomorrow to play Nova Scotia. The team is being coached by Coach Miller. The game is a must win for the Saints since UNB defeated them last year. The first eight-point gain in the standings, putting them in first place in the Eastern Division. The big win by UNB brings up another point. Supposing that the Saints beat the X-men here the Saints would not be able to win the league merely by coming first in the standings. St. Thomas and UNB have both beaten them, hence either can ask for a sudden death game should one finish in second place.

Two St. Dunstan's freshmen, Philip MacDonald and Bill Pine, attended the Progressive Conservative Student Federation convention held this week in Ottawa. Bill is the president of the Conservative Club at StDU. While in Ottawa, they met Don MacDonough, president of the Conservative Club of the campus in 1961, and Bernie MacQuaid, member of the same club.

X-MEN TONIGHT The powerful St. Francis X-men invade St. Dunstan's gym tonight hoping to avenge that 72-72 loss to Dalhousie last Tuesday night. For a case of trying to win their second game of the season in seven starts. They lost three heartbreakers this year. Tonight's game starts at 8 o'clock.

There has been quite a shake-up in the staff of Red and White, which was almost nonexistent until this week. Paul D. Foster has been appointed as the new editor. Paul's three years of experience should generate a new spirit in the paper which has reached an all time low. The staff hopes to publish the first edition in less than three weeks time, and then put out a paper every two weeks at least until the summer.

An art exhibition, featuring the paintings of God's Window by John A. Macdonald, flaked out in the Cradle of Confederation. The seniors won the award for the best art work. The Junior's 'Holiday in the Snow' judge best first in the parade. Congratulations to Her Majesty Helen Kelly, Carnival Queen of 1964. The Variety Show was disappointing - John Mullally, MP, gave a very forward speech on bicentennialism at the St. Dunstan's Day Banquet. The assembly of members of parliament should be bilingual and that provincial legislatures should be conducted in French and English rarely.

THE 1964-65 season was terrific, thanks to the MC, Jim MacAe - Father MacIntyre's return from the States, Judge Seniors' tour of Honolulu just about killed off any chances the Seniors had of winning the Student-Faculty game. He was chosen as the first, second, and third star and scored the winning basket and gave an inspirational speech and played a terrific game and everyone, including the faculty team should be broken up - the Alumni defeated the Seniors in the hockey - the Juniors are the best milkdrinkers - Mr. Wea's thermos collection for the night parade but everyone had a "cookin' in the gymnasium - the Seniors' "When the Saints go Marchin' In" nearly brought the roof down -

An Iowa-born doctor, Robert Norton, who is part of the United States Operation Phoenix in South Vietnam, is the grandson of Mrs. E.S. Norton, M.P. In an 18-page article entitled "What Johnson Faced in South Vietnam" the issue of Look magazine devoted three pages to the work of Dr. Norton. The article points out that eight out of every 10 battle casualties in South Vietnam are civilians who flow into the hospital beds at Dr. Norton practices, 30 miles west of Saigon.

Dr. Norton feels that something vital, not just medically, is needed in Vietnam. He said "when a Vietnamese, coming out of shock, sees an American medic, it gives him the 'Ugly American' myth crumbles a bit more."

Dr. Norton has been in Canada since 1962 on a two-year assignment and is expected to return to his residence in Gratiot, Iowa, in September. He is the son of Homer Norton, formerly Georgetown.

THIS WEEK AT SDU Honour Society Created For Top College Students

This week at SDU by Charles McMillan. The creation of an Honor Society at St. Dunstan's is the biggest headline this week as far as activities are concerned. Students will become eligible for membership in the Honor Society after they have attained an average of at least 75 per cent in any full year's work at StDU.

It is hoped the organization will promote higher academic achievement, and will serve as a goal for all students. It will work something like this: the society will be a prestige club for the better students academic viewpoint. These students will be able to attend special lectures which are not really a part of the regular course, and will do a great deal of outside work that would not ordinarily be possible. In return, the students would not be required to attend all classes or write the mid-semester exams.

Naturally the society would be very exclusive for the most part since only about 10 per cent of the student body would be eligible. Freshmen students are not allowed in the club because the 75 per cent must be attained one year before membership in this club is granted. Of course, if a student were to belong to the club in the year, membership would be forfeited.

This year's debating teams got their first taste of action Feb. 11. Colin McMillan and Ed Foster were the opponents. The resolution that "Resolved that education at the university level is federalized." John R. Macdonald and Dave Campbell defended the motion. "Canada's acquisition of nuclear energy will diminish her peacekeeping role."
