IN WYNBERG HOSPITAL.

James A. Macdonald, of "F" Co. Writes.—His Severe Wound.

The following is from a letter Mr. Angus Macdonald has received from his son, James, who was wounded at the battle of Paardeberg. It is dated Wynberg, March 27th:

I was wounded before we retired and while on the ground. The bullet entered the back of my leg between knee and thigh. I felt as if I were struck with a stick. There was no pain. It bled but little. When we retired to our trench I made use of my field dressing case and bandaged the wound. Afterwards the doctor fixed it up better and told me to go to hospital.

As soon as I could I walked to hospital, about a mile and a half. When I arrived I heard cheering and soon after learned that Cronjé had surrendered. There were only the R. C. R. and two companies of Gordons actually engaged and the former bore the brunt of the fighting as the Gordons were only supporting us. Companies "F" and "G" suffered the heaviest.

My wound proved more serious than I had expected. The doctors thought it was a shell; but no shell had been fired that morning as it was too close quarters. The next evening we were started for Kimberley on bullock wagons, a distance of thirty miles, and were nearly twenty-four hours on the way. The journey was very rough.

We remained in the diamond city for a week and were excellently attended. We enjoyed the luxury of clean clothes and something good to eat. I felt all right.

The trip from Kimberley to Wynberg, 647 miles, was performed in a hospital train. It occupied two nights and a day. The train was well fitted up with beds—no seats—kitchen, pharmacy, and everything complete. The attendance here was fine. The measurement of my wound by the doctor showed it to be 5½ inches long and 3 inches wide, not deep. Last Saturday I was under chloroform about an hour and for hours after did not know I had taken it. The doctor took some skin from the inside of my leg and grafted it on to the wound; and I am getting along first class. In fact, where the skin came from is worse than where I was hit. I have not been sick a day, and I am on full diet and really getting fat. I am not able to sit up, or rather the doctor will not let me do so. I expect to move about in two weeks.

The ladies around here are very good. They bring us nice delicacies, including grapes and all kinds of fruit. Feather pillows is another blessing we get from them.

I have not heard from home since we left Belmont.

MARRIAGE AT FALL RIVER.

The marriage of Mr. John B. Trainor, a well-known physician at Fall River, Mass., and Miss Margaret E. Brady, was solemnized at Fall River at 9 o'clock on the morning of April 25. Father John E. Brady, a brother of the bride, was the officiating clergyman. The church in which the ceremony was performed was thronged with people.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Katherine C. Moran, was given away by her brother. The groom was supported by Dr. O'Reilly, of Boston.

The bride looked charming in a handsome gown of white satin with train with pearl trimmings, and wore a veil and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful basket of bridal roses.

During the ceremony and at the nuptial mass which followed, special music was rendered by the choir.

After the mass the bridal party held a reception at the home of the bride's mother. At the reception and during the breakfast delightful music was furnished by an orchestra.

At latest accounts the happy couple were on their wedding tour.

Dr. Trainor is a native of Prince Edward Island and his hosts of friends here who will wish himself and bride every happiness in life.

WAR PICTURES.—Everyone who attended the Opera House last night was delighted with the display of war pictures. The numerous scenes of battle fields, and departure from Halifax of the Canadian contingents were very finely shown. The most attractive was the moving pictures, a most interesting one being the stand of a body of British soldiers against the Zulus. A number of personages were shown, including the Queen, Kruger, Roberts, Joubert and White. The applause which greeted Buller and Baden-Powell was immense. Charlottetown is much indebted to Messrs Johnson and Cogswell for the very fascinating entertainment they have given, one that would be difficult to rival.
