MEN'S INTRAMURALS

By Phillip Brown

I know it is a bit late to say this, but I wish you a Happy New Decade and hope that your Christmas was a merry one. Due to the short space I cannot fill you in on all the exciting news that happened before and during Christmas. The editor has assured me that there will be more than enough room in the next issue to fill you in on the IHL Christmas news.

Monday night was the beginning of the spring semester IHL season. Mean Machine battled against Marion Hall in the first game. The 9-2 score gave a great boost to three-goal scorer Larry LeBlanc and the M&M ego. After the game Commissioner Mulligan approached me to say that a new team was entering the league. Since space is scarce I can allow only a few names to leak out.

The name of the new team is Brand X, something you would hear on Warner Brother's cartoons. Goaltender Ian Sobey, formerly of the Metros, will guard the twines. Sandy MacDonald, who was kicked off the M&M, will be the Main Event for the defense. Taking charge of the forwards, is Rick Kiraly, a man that should be hired by the U.S. government to overthrow the Khomenie. The last name on this leak of info is Jim Richards. Jim in his last year at U.P.E.I. is proving his creditability as a reasonable hockey player. Further leaks on this team may be heard during the semester.
