well figured this was 'Hurbert said in an interview Monday.

And now, the Connaught laboratory has flown in from Toronto what I'm told are the only bottles of anti-haemophilic globulin that have been able to develop in two years, using hundreds of pints of blood.

Hurbert first suffered from a major bleeding attack when he was 16 and his forehead was sliced open with a hockey stick.

He said it is difficult to get people interested in haemophilia because they think it can't ever happen to them. But his family showed that it could.

He said he supports the Ontario division of the haemophilia society's campaign for legalized sterilization of sufferers.

Hurbert said the federal government pays all medical expenses of sufferers.

You get to having a feeling of conscience, at how expensive you are, especially when you think that the going rate is $50 for a pint of blood in the United States.

And when you consider it takes hundreds of pints of blood to make just 10 cubic centimetres of the Connaught laboratory's anti-haemophilic globulin.

The day after the Grey Cup (Nov. 29), when my kidneys really started to hemorrhage.

He is optimistic. But he is a spokesman for sufferers of a disease which prevents blood from coagulating. He says there is a need for sterilization of all haemophiliacs.

Hurbert is from Chetwynd, B.C., in the Peace River country.

KEY WITNESS AT OTTAWA PROBE

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne leaves the courtroom in Ottawa Tuesday after several hours of testifying before a judicial inquiry into charges of bribery and corruption by government figures.
