Resolution

U. S. potatoes, both table and seed, entered Canada 'free' throughout the year while the U.S. duty on Canadian potatoes remained at 75c per cwt. throughout the year, and

"Whereas the 1938 agreement provided for a token tariff of 37 ½c per cwt. on United States potatoes entering Canada for a six week period (June 15th to July 31st) with free entry for the remaining 46 weeks, and

"Whereas the same agreement provided for the entry of 1,000,000 bus. of table potatoes and 1,500,000 bus. of certified seed potatoes at a special rate of 37½c per cwt. with all additional shipments subject to 75c per cwt., and

"Whereas no correction of this inequitable position was secured by Canada under the Geneva Annecy or Torquay negotiations, except that the quota of Seed Potatoes eligible for the 37½c rate was increased from 1,500,000 bus. to 2,500,000 bus., and

"Whereas the present Canadian Potato tariff provides little or no protection whatever to the producers of late varieties of potatoes or main crop potatoes and constitutes only a pitifully small measure of protection to the producers of early varieties,

"Resolved that the Canadian Horticultural Council advise the Canadian Government that the Canadian potato growers can no longer tolerate this unfair and inequitable treatment, and further request the Government to take steps immediately to correct the unfortunate concessions made in the 1935 and 1938 Trade Agreements by providing for a reasonable rate of protection for all Canadian potato producers for both seed and table potatoes."

PRESENTATIONS MADE

A special committee from the Trade and Tariff Committee of the Council presented this resolution as well as a recommendation dealing with fruit cocktails, to the Hon. W. E. Harris, Minister of Finance. Mr. Shaw made the presentation on this occasion along with supporting evidence covering the conditions affecting the potato industry, and urged prompt attention in the implementation of measures for the protection of a national industry of vital importance to the country's economy.

During the course of the Council meetings, non-council New Brunswick potato interests arranged a meeting with Maritime members of Parliament, largely attended and including top level civil servants, under the chairmanship of the Hon. Milton Gregg, Minister of Labour. The four P. E. Island Federal members were in attendance.

The case for the Maritimes as well as the Canadian grower was exhaustively examined at this conference, and a clear-cut picture of the difficulties facing the industry was placed before the members. Mr. Shaw had an opportunity of again presenting trade and market conditions, and of outlining clearly the recommendations of producers, through Council channels. Mr. Donald McDonald, chairman of the P. E. I. Potato Marketing Board also attended this meeting and gave supplementary information.

It was indicated that there is not only through the medium of the Council but also through the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and potato interests across Canada an existent serious concern regarding present and future trade and marketing conditions, but also a common conviction regarding the measures that are necessary in the improvement of the situation. "The situation in the light of new trade patterns," Mr. Shaw stated, "demands consistent, continuous and determined efforts to achieve that measure of support that will provide a reasonable hope and protection for our potato producers."

Death Saturday of Retired Local Business Man

Major J. M. Jones, retired business executive and nationally famous marksman, died at his home 132 Upper Prince St. early Saturday morning. He was in his 84th year.

Major Jones, more readily recognized as "Bisley" Jones was rated as one of the most outstanding riflemen Eastern Canada ever developed. He made the Bisley team eight times in ten years and rated as first on the alternate list on another occasion.

The veteran rifleman made a splendid contribution to shooting in this province during his active career on the ranges from which he retired many years ago.

Following the death of his only son, Pilot Officer Arthur M. Jones, who was killed in action while on a bombing mission over Vauneka, Germany and buried near Dusseldorf, Major Jones transferred the necessary funds to the P. R. A. to maintain the Jones Match in perpetuity as a memorial. The P. R. A. presents two medals as the Jones Memorial Medals.

The late Major Jones

Major Jones started his Bisley career in 1902 and discontinued active participation in D. C. R. A. shoots in 1911.

Following his attendance at Prince of Wales College, Major Jones taught school at Pownal and in other districts before being appointed to a position in the Department of the Provincial Treasurer which he held for a number of years.

He resigned from that position to become a member of the firm of Carter and Company in 1913, an association which he retained until his retirement 13 years ago.

Surviving relatives are his wife, the former Margaret May Smith of Pownal and their only daughter, Mrs. Walter A. MacMillan (Eileen), Brackley Road. Their only son P. O. Arthur M. Jones was killed in action in the Second Great War.

One sister, Miss Sarah Jones is living at the old homestead.

age for senators is not new. The idea was proposed several years ago during a debate on Senate reform. No action resulted but suggestions for Senate changes still crop up from time to time.

One is that members of political parties other than the traditional Liberal and Conservative groups also should be appointed to the Senate. Another is that churches, labor groups and various professions should have representation. Still another would have provincial governments name some senators.

QUESTIONS RAISED

Informants say fixing a retirement age for senators raised questions like these:

1. Would retirement affect present senators or only those likely to be appointed in the future?

2. Would pensions for present senators equal their full $8,000 annual indemnity, which they would receive if not retired along with a $2,000 expense allowance, or only a percentage of it?

Justices of the Supreme Court and provincial Supreme Courts now retire on two-thirds pensions.

3. Would senators be required to serve a minimum number of years before retirement, thus resulting in a possible age limit beyond which senators could not be appointed?

There is likely to be some opposition from within Senate ranks to a retirement plan.

Senator John W. De B. Farris (L-British Columbia), 76, who still practices law, said retirement is "damn foolishness."

Dedication Of Trinity Memorial Organ Yesterday

An impressive ceremony marked the dedication of the new Memorial organ at the morning service of Trinity Church yesterday. Rev. A. Frank MacLean, assisted by Rev. Howard Christie performed the act of dedication. A plaque bearing the names of those who gave their lives during World War II and in the Korean War, will be unveiled at a later date.

Overflow congregations were in attendance at both morning and evening services. Rev. Frank MacLean taking his text from I Samuel 16:14-23 revealed an interesting parallel between the organ and the congregation. He pointed out that the organ had been set apart from all common and unhallowed uses to the praise and worship of Almighty God.

The list of names (subject to additions), which appear on the plaque are as follows: Prentis Blair Andrew, Lowell Milton Brehaut, Elwin Clare Champion, William Frederick Collings, Robert Leith Cox, Robert James Dickie, Edgar J. Dockendorff, Gerald Garfield Ferguson, Alfred Ford, William Arnold Johnston, Arthur Malcolm Jones, Harry Larter, Elliot Gordon MacKay, Allison Boyce MacKie, Robert Bruce MacNeill, Daniel J. Nicholson, Rupert Frederick Seaman, Jr., Lloyd Wesley Smith, Frank Campbell Smith, Frank Campbell Stewart and Ernest Ashton Tredenick.

Following the evening service an inspiring organ recital by Mr. George A. Thompson F.R.C.O., (CHM), A.R.C.M., assisted by the choir with Pauline Fear as soloist was heard. In his selection of numbers for the recital, Mr. Thompson offered a wide variety of music which demonstrated his artistry and displayed the fine quality of the instrument. The anthems by the choir were rendered beautifully and Mrs. Fear's three solo numbers were presented with outstanding feeling.

The following is the program of the organ recital:

'Ripon' Prelude — William Rains

Fantasia et Fuga in G minor— J. S. Bach.

Solo and Chorus from "Samson" — G. F. Handel (a) Let the bright Seraphim (Pauline Fear (b) Let their celestial concerts all unite.

Ten Compositions for Organ — Harvey Grace, No. 7 Meditation, No. 8 Reverie (on the tune University).

Anthem: O Thou, the Central Orb — Charles Wood.

Toccata from Symphonie V in F major — Charles M. Widor.

Solo: Like as the hart desireth the water brooks — Frances Allitsen — Pauline Fear.

Tuba Tune — Norman Cocker.

Solo: O for the wings of a dove — F. Mendelssohn — Pauline Fear

Two movements — (a) Andantino, (b) Finale in B flat — W. Wolstenholme.

Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Work

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—Out on the marshes bordering the Bay of Fundy the federal government, working with the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick governments, is waging a never-ending multi-million dollar battle with the sea.

Already the 10-year program, started in 1948, has cost $6,000,000 of a proposed $9,000,000 to save rich soil that has a potential $5,000,000 yearly output.

Here where the tides are the highest in the world and the winds whip across the marshes at fantastic speeds the Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration has already built more than 102 miles of dikes. These dikes protect more than 55,500 acres of farmland.

YEAR-ROUND JOB

Maintenance of the dikes is a year-round job as the force with which waves smash into the six-inch-thick planks easily splinters them. Power and communications companies have come to respect the strong winds and along the marshes poles are spaced 68 feet apart while the average distance is 120 feet.

The struggle has been going on for centuries and traces of dikes, aboiteaux and breakwaters built by early French settlers 300 years ago are still visible.

One half of the problem faced by the administration is draining water off the land. For this purpose aboiteaux are built into the dikes. The aboiteau, varying in length from 20 to more than 100 feet, resembles a four - sided wooden box with one end open and a four-inch-thick iron gate at the other. This gate swings open to allow the water to drain off the land at ebb tide but closes again with the rising tide.

In 1943 the federal government, the Nova Scotia government and marsh farmers agreed to share the cost of emergency repairs to dikes which had been allowed to distintegrate by discouraged farmers. New Brunswick joined with them in 1945.

ENDED IN 1950

The program ceased to function in 1950, two years before the Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration was established and entered into agreement with the two provinces.

At present the administration has five big projects either under construction or being planned.

The biggest is the $2,000,000 Shepody river project in Albert county, N.B. The construction of the Shepody dam is expected to be completed in the fall. The dam will present the tide from entering the river valley and eliminate the necessity of reconstructing miles of dike, bank protection structure and aboiteaux that badly need repairs.

The dam will be 1,645 feet in length and 55 feet high and will be joined by a clay dike 14,500 feet in length and eight feet high.

The combined dam and breatwork will protect 5,600 acres of fertile marshland, the elevation of which is lower than peak tides.

OTHER PROJECTS

Four other projects still are in the preliminary stage or are awaiting final approval of plans. The Tantramar river project, which when completed will cost an estimated $1,500,000 is still in the planning stage.

In Nova Scotia the Tignish river project, which includes a proposed aboiteaux-bridge, will cost close to $260,000.

The Ingonish river bridge collapsed in 1953 and a temporary one was constructed while plans cost of the duel structure were studied. The marsh contains 400 acres of land that is protected by structures needing costly repair.

The Annapolis river project in Nova Scotia and the Palmer's creek project in New Brunswick both call for the construction of dikes and aboiteaux.

In addition to aiding the farmers by saving valuable land the rehabilitation administration also provides part-time employment for almost 800 farmers who assist in the maintenance and repair of the dikes.

CBC Settlement Is Approved

MONTREAL (CP)—A majority of the 784 members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CIO-CCL) have voted in favor of settlement terms negotiated between the union and the CBC, union headquarters here announced Sunday.

A union official said a six-man NABET negotiating committee will go Monday to Ottawa to negotiate the final contract terms with CBC officials. He said the meetings, which probably will last three or four days, are to "redraft" the contract around terms already agreed upon.

Union headquarters said the number of employees who voted was not immediately known.

The contract terms provide for a five-per-cent wage increase across the board, retroactive to Aug. 1, and adjustment of other points such as wage ceilings, promotions and holiday work.

NEW CIVIC SQUARE

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Nathan Phillips Saturday predicted shovels will start clearing land for Toronto's new civic square within three months. The program would include clearing buildings from the downtown Queen-Bay streets area, where the civic square will be built, as soon as the city gets possession of them in March.
