A Double Murder.
Grand Falls, N. B., has been buried in snow for the last fortnight, and under it a very spicy and valuable piece of news. Various accounts of the melee which occurred there the day before election have come forth, but none of them are correct. It appears that two traders, named Blake and Kelly, have been in the habit of visiting that vicinity and selling goods. When they departed from there, some time ago, there was some trouble about a note, and a man named Seaway, a bully of the place, swore that if ever Blake came back he would beat the life out of him. On the 21st ult., Blake and Kelly returned and went into a house which was a kind of country public house. Seated in a room were two Frenchmen and, shortly after the peddlers entered, Seaway went in also. Then the Frenchman who had heard him make the threat against Blake, called on him to carry it out. Seaway, afraid to attack Blake, who was an able man, went behind his back, picked up a poker and struck him on the head, knocking him senseless. Then he picked up the body, threw it in a wood box and jumped on it until Kelly interfered to save his partner from being murdered. Then it was that the murder was done. The Frenchman jumped upon Kelly. Seaway turned on him too, and picking up the stick, sickly fellow, threw him over the table and jumped upon his chest until it was pulp. Help came and Seaway and the Frenchman fled. The beaten and disfigured men were taken to the Grand Falls hotel, where two days later Kelly died of his injuries, and Blake lies at the point of death. Seaway has been arrested, and Mr. Stratton, of St. John, N. B., is looking into the case for the crown.

Mr. ALBERT DENNIS, of the Pietou Standard, met with a very painful accident on the afternoon of the 7th. While engaged for a few moments taking a turn at the wheel of the press, the iron handle slipped out, striking him on the thigh, inflicting an ugly gash. Had he been struck two inches higher up death would have been instantaneous.

At Gloucester, Mass., on Sunday morning last, an effigy of Capt. Quigley, of the Terror, was found suspended, with a British flag attached thereto, union down. The effigy was cut down.

SHIP WRECK.

A Steamer Goes Down.

THE CREW RESCUED.

NEW YORK, March 9.

The barque Hannah Blanchard, which arrived to-day from Amsterdam, brought the captain and crew of the British steamer Egypt, which was abandoned in a sinking condition March 3. The Egypt was a vessel of 1001 tons. She left New York for Lisbon Feb. 22 with a cargo of grain. The captain reports that the vessel encountered a heavy gale Feb. 25, which continued some days. Matters grew worse on the 27th, and the crew began throwing coal and grain overboard to lighten the vessel. On March 1st the weather moderated but the water increased in the ship. At 10 a. m., March 2, there were 14 feet of water in the hold, and the boats were made ready and provisioned. All hands got into the boats, but laid by the steamer all night. At day-break the Hannah Blanchard was sighted and signalled with rockets. The Captain and his twenty-nine men were taken on board the bark, and shortly after noon the Egypt foundered in lat. 38, long. 4 N., long. 54 10. The Captain and crew lost all their effects. The Egypt had a cargo of 63,000 bushels of wheat, valued at about $58,000, and fully insured. She hailed from Newcastle, England, where she was built in 1878, and was owned by H. Buckrall & Son.

The Pope's Blessing.

IMPARTED TO DR. McGLYNN AND THE PARISHIONERS OF ST. STEPHENS.

The following cable was received at New York, on the 4th inst., in reply to one of congratulation to the Pope:

ROME, March 3.
To Messrs. Henry Carey, chairman St. Stephen's Parishioners, and John R. Peoney, vice-chairman, New York:

Your telegram was most acceptable to the Sovereign Pontiff, who, returning thanks, imparts most lovingly his Apostolic Benediction to you, Rev. Father McGlynn, to you and to the faithful of the parish.

The parishioners are in great glee, and interpret the despatches foreshadowing the reinstatement of Dr. McGlynn. Dr. McGlynn was much moved by the news. He interprets the message as a vindication of his course. The congratulatory message referred to as having been sent to the Pope on the anniversary of his 76th birthday and the fiftieth of his priestly career, was sent by a committee of the parishioners. Dr. McGlynn had no part in it. The following is a copy of the petition of the parishioners of St. Stephens to the Pope, asking for the restoration of Dr. McGlynn:

"Most Holy Father,--We, the parishioners of St. Stephens, in the city of New York--a parish numbering twenty thousand--beg you to give the case of our pastor, the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, the most careful consideration. We speak, too, for the Catholics of the United States. We ask for his immediate restoration to his home and to his parish, where he has so well served the Holy Catholic Church for twenty-two years. His priestly zeal, his charities and his patriotism are the theme of this country. Like many another good man, he has enemies. They have calumniated him. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons thoroughly understood the situation here. Dr. McGlynn's suspension, brought about by politicians, has scandalized all true Catholics. The cruel manner of his suspension from his rectory has been noted by the press as an outrage. His resignation to the functions of the priesthood will alone satisfy American Catholics."
