The Fishery Award.

Having settled among ourselves that it is right that this Province should receive a share of the Fishery Award, let us now unite in enforcing that right upon the minds of the Dominion Government. Our claim is based upon these facts: (1) that we agreed to abide by the Award before we entered the Union, and had the Award been made as soon as it should have been made, we certainly should have received the money. (2) That we have not surrendered to the Dominion Government our territorial right to the Fisheries any more than we have surrendered our territorial right to the lands of this Province. (3) That the Dominion Government has engaged to protect our fisheries; and it is certainly liable for damages to the Province if it fails to do so.

We hope that the Local Legislature will not fail unanimously to memorialize the Dominion Government for a prompt recognition of our just claim.

We hope that the claim will be brought to the notice of the Minister of Justice for his formal opinion respecting it.

We hope that if the opinion be adverse to us, that the whole matter will be carried to England for an opinion from the Crown Law Officers of the British Government.

We hope to see no more such articles as appeared in the Patriot of Saturday. Let us be united. It is a notorious fact that we have, at least, nothing more to hope from a Grit Government than from a Tory Government. Mr. McKenzie is, at least, as much opposed to giving us a share of the Award as Sir John McDonald; and he is as little likely to give favorable consideration to the representations of the "ignorant Islanders," who received such unduly favorable terms from Mr. Tilley, as is Sir John McDonald.

The Business of Souris.

SOURIS, May 26.

All classes here are actively engaged in their different occupations, and hopes are entertained of a brisk summer, although shipbuilding, to a great extent, is down; yet there are other industries taking their place in the shape of public works and manufactories, &c. The Breakwater at this place is rapidly approaching completion. Mr. P. Doyle, the contractor, has employed from twenty to thirty men. He has the cribs or blocks ready to float out to their place, and has divers employed for the last two weeks cleaning the bottom of the new work, as there are a large quantity of lumber sunk at the bottom, besides a quantity of stones to be cleared away before the new cribs can be placed; and, when done, it will be a strong work, as the plan is on much better principle.

Messrs. Chiveri and Lyons are also pushing their contract ahead. They employ some thirty men on the Railway Wharf, besides quite a number on the Railway Cut. The wharf is about one thousand feet long and seventy-five feet wide; and, when done, will be a great benefit to the shippers of this place.

Mr. C. A. Haley employs a large number of men and women in his lobster factory. He intends to double the quantity put up by him last year, which will be about 300,000 cans. His daily catch is from eight to ten thousand lobsters.

Messrs. C. C. Carlton & Sons are also doing a lively business at Red Bay putting up lobsters. Their daily catch is from five to eight thousand. They intend to put up about 150,000 cans.

Mr. E. D. Anderson (formerly Anderson and Finlay) has moved into his large new cabinet factory on Main Street, where he employs quite a number of hands, and turns out some very excellent furniture. The steam mill which is managed by Mr. John White, is running on full time, and doing a lively business making lobster boxes. Mr. W. has orders to make some eight thousand boxes, and the quality of them is very good, as he has them all sand-papered on a machine and the edges nicely moulded; he also attends to sawing, planing, boat building, etc.

Messrs. Valey & Bell, house contractors, are employing a large number of men; also Mr. P. E. Elgard, who is constantly busy.

The village also runs seven blacksmith shops, two saddlers shops, two merchant tailors, and last, but not least, five shoemakers. And all appear to be very busy. Money is beginning to move around a little more, and the people are in better spirits, and have better hopes for the summer trade than last year.

MONTREAL'S CELEBRATION

Grand Military Display.

Review by the Princess and Marquis.

The Sham Fight—Major Rivard's Welcome—The Banquet at the Windsor.

(From the St. John Telegraph.)

MONTREAL, May 24.

The appearance of the gallant 13th Regt., with their veteran association, their splendid band, (leader, Mr. H. B. Dodsworth), their excellent drum corps and the fine mainly bearing of their officers, excites general admiration. Brooklyn has excelled herself and the State of New York could not send better representatives of her martial powers. During the night no accident beyond a small fire, has disturbed the harmony of the gathering.

THE SCENE

around the Windsor Hotel is novel and exciting, and the palatial building resembles a small town of cosmopolitans, wherein the grey, the scarlet and the blue predominate. The rooms occupied by His Excellency the Governor General and suite are the object of much curiosity and especially among the American lady visitors, of whom there is a large number anxious to get a peep at H. R. H. the Princess Louise, who has already expressed her admiration and surprise at the splendor of the surroundings. The accommodation provided by various corps for the comfort of the visiting military men is admirably carried out and could not be exceeded by any organization.

The skating rink also presents a novel sight filled, as it is, by squares of beds arranged in blocks; a block or street to each company. The north end of the rink is fitted up as a regimental kitchen. These arrangements are under the personal supervision of the manager of the Windsor, who has carried out his plans to the satisfaction of all.

At this hour

are proceeding to Fletcher's field, the surroundings of which are already packed. The nearest comparison which can be made to give an adequate idea of the scene is the spectacle presented by the English Derby. The crowd is good-natured, and gives and takes as cheerfully as possible.

The grand stand, however, has caused general indignation by citizens at large, who think that the Corporation should not have permitted its erection, as it is in public property and shuts out the view of the large body of sight-seers. The press, which was to have been at the extreme north of the grand stand, has also expressed its dissatisfaction.

The presence of Mr. Beecher, the Chaplain of the 13th Regt., creates almost as much curiosity as the regiment to which he belongs. The burly, active form of the stalwart chaplain in his uniform of black and gold is marked wherever he goes. His interest in the progress of the celebration is very great, and he seems never to tire talking about it. He makes himself quite at home with everybody, and enters freely into the life of the scene, in that spirit of unanimity which should prevail among all classes. The citizens of Montreal of both nationalities seem to vie with each other in trying to do honor to their guests, whose respects for the 60th noted day of our beloved Sovereign is warm and deep. It is a subject of friendly rivalry as to which nation the American troops should belong, and as one of them naively observed, "there is just room on our flag for two more stars, Upper and Lower Canada." And we can also find space on our flag to take in the Union, if you are anxious in that direction. At this moment the veteran association has been mustered in the Windsor, where it will proceed to the Skating Rink and take up its position with the regiment.

TAKING UP POSITIONS.

The 13th was the first regiment to take up its position at 10.45, and occupied the central point at the base of the letter V. The appearance of the men was the signal for a long continued ovation, as they marched with with firm step; following them were the Governor General's Foot Guards, taking their place on the right of the centre taken up by the 13th Brooklyn. The third in order was the 65th Mount Royals, a French Canadian corps, closely followed by other regiments in quick time. The undulation of the ground was not favorable to the effect produced, which lacked the uniformity that was looked for. The ground, in the meantime, was temporarily kept clear by men of the Royal Naval Reserve, under Capt. Smith, R. N., of the S. S. Peruvia.

The scene on and adjoining the grand stand surpassed description. The Royal dais reserved for the Vice-Regal suite was criticised with much interest. At its summit floated the marine flag of the Dominion. About 20 paces in front stood the saluting point, the flag staff topped by the Union Jack. At 11.40 the Lt.-General commanding, Sir Selby Smyth and a brilliant staff came on the field. An unavoidable delay, occasioned by the non-appearance of the Sheffield Field Battery, compelled the troops to wait for their coming. The Governor General's staff consisted of Lt.-Col. Fletcher, D. A. G., Lt.-Col. Bacon, Capt. Smith, A. D. C., Maj. Henry Smith, Acting A. D. C., Lt. Col. Harwood, Hon. M. Aylmer, Lt.-Col. Dorsonness. At 11.45 His Excellency

THE GOV. GENERAL AND PRINCESS LOUISE on horseback entered the ground. Their staff comprised Major DeWinton, A. D. C. Hon. Chas. Harbord (Coldstream Guards) and Col. Dyde of the Canada Militia. The Colonel has been gazetted five times Colonel of the British Army, with the pay thereof and the honor of A. D. C. to Her Majesty.

Appropos of the Governor General's arrival it should be noted that he appeared in the garb of a private gentleman and wore the star of his order. H. R. Highness wore a plain riding dress. The cheering was most enthusiastic. The escort was the Princess Louise Dragoons, accompanied by their state trumpeter in gorgeous uniform. The scene was brilliant in the extreme and any attempt to a description just now is almost impossible. Their Excellencies at once passed down the line. The Sheffield field battery having arrived and stopped in front of the 13th, who gave three rousing cheers, which were graciously acknowledged.

WELCOME TO THE 13TH REGT.

His Excellency said:—

Officers and Soldiers of the gallant 13th:— I welcome you in the Queen's name to Canada and thank you for coming to-day to do honor to her Majesty's birthday. We are brothers, to-day, in blood and great relations and I rejoice to see you here as brothers in arms.

A salute was the signal for proceedings to commence, and a few moments after a feu de joie was fired. This was repeated twice, and to say that it was simply perfect is no exaggeration. Three cheers were given with a will by the whole line, among which the peculiar Brooklyn Tiger was a feature. An officer, overcome with heat, suddenly fell in the ranks and was promptly conveyed to the hospital in an ambulance.

THE MARCH PAST

occurred in the following order:

Montreal Cavalry,
B Field Battery,
Sheffield Field Battery,
Ottawa Field Battery,
Montreal Field Battery,
B Battery, Quebec,
Montreal Garrison Artillery,
Kingston Cadets,
St. Jean Baptist Infantry Company,
Engineers,
Governor General's Foot Guards,
6th Fusiliers,
5th Fusiliers,
Preceded by their Pipers with Kilts and Tailors
The 13th New York National Guards,
Preceded by their Veteran Association of forty men.
Prince of Wales Rifles,
(The oldest Volunteer Corps in Montreal.)
The 8th Quebec Rifles,
The 65th Montreal Royals,
A French Canadian Battalion,
The Victoria Rifles,
The Queen's Own, Toronto.

The 13th Regiment received a perfect ovation along the line.

In commenting upon the quality of the marching of the various regiments, there is scarcely any choice to make in favor of any particular corps. The 13th, the Queen's Own, the 5th Fusiliers, appeared to be the favorites. The physique and size of the men were admired, and each man appeared to have the reputation of his particular regiment resting on his shoulders. A second march past aroused the cheering of the multitude, and if anything, it was superior to the first; but, as to making any marked comparison other than casually referred to above, it would be superfluous and unjust to the corps at large. Their Excellencies watched this part of the programme with most intense interest and entered freely into the spirit of a scene the like of which has never before been witnessed in the commercial metropolis. The preparation for the sham fight at 1.15 was next in order.

THE FORMATION FOR A SHAM FIGHT.

The enemy were supposed to be towards Mount Royal Avenue, to the left of the grand stand, represented by the Montreal Artillery and Engineers. The Dominion force to the right of the grand stand near the Hotel Dieu, were represented by Cavalry, 13th Brooklyn, 65th Mount Royals Rifles, Queen's Own, Prince of Wales Rifles, Victoria Rifles, 8th Royals, Governor-General's Foot Guards, 5th and 6th Fusiliers.

The shamfight cannot be regarded as a successful affair of military scientific skill, owing to the inability of the police to keep the immense masses of people off the grounds. But the utmost good humor prevailed and few casualties are reported, those principally being from excessive heat, to which Col. Montzambert and three or four privates fell victims. Fifteen hundred gallons of lime juice were gratuitously distributed among the troops by Messrs. Suggden, Evans & Co., wholesale druggists.

The manoeuvres occupied about an hour. The Governor-General, during this time, entered quite freely into conversation with such members of the veteran association of the 13th Regiment, who happened to be near the saluting post. It should be added that this portion of the 13th were without arms, and did not participate in the field exercises. His Excellency entered quite freely into details concerning their association, its organization, its record, and other questions regarding its past services. At the conclusion of the sham fight, the troops again took up their respective positions and marched to the situated at the north-east part of Fletcher's field. This building is under the control of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, and has recently been removed from its original site on St. Catharine street to its present position. Owing to it being unfinished, its completion was not previously contemplated, until ten days ago, before the middle of June. The contractors were therefore requested to put on an extra spurt. This, at so late a period, required extraordinary effort, when the comfort of four thousand men is considered. It was not, therefore, a matter of very great surprise that this hurry and bustle should delay the contractor catering for provisions in the completion of his arrangement. The contract is mentioned because the dinner to the troops was not so complete as could have been desired. The army of waiters, attendants and servants of all descriptions and for all purposes, who had been enlisted into the service, did not come up to time. The result was inefficient attendance and a general impatience on the part of the troops, but they were, on the whole, extremely good-natured, and grace being said the troops fell upon the catables and drinkables with a will.

The officers were supplied with sandwiches and ginger ale in a separate marquee. After dinner Mayor Rivard, accompanied by Col. Austin, J. G. Smith, U. S. Consul at Montreal, the Mayor of Toronto, the various Aldermen of the Corporation, Lt.-Col. A. A. Stevenson, Rev. Canon Eilegood and a brilliant staff mounted the platform. The scene was one long to be remembered. It was grand, impressive and phenomenal. His Worship the Mayor, who has made himself exceedingly popular since his election to office, opened the verbal part of the programme by a speech of welcome and, and proposed the health of the Queen, which met with a maelstrom of applause.

THE TOASTS.

The following toasts were proposed in the order mentioned:—

The President of the United States; response by Consul Smith.

The Governor General and H. R. H. the Princess Louise, proposed by Ald. Greene; responded to by Col. Panet.

The Thirteenth Regiment of the National Guard of the State of New York; responded to by Col. Austin, who was almost overcome with the splendid generosity which had characterized the welcome throughout.

The Canadian visiting corps was the last toast on the list.

The whole concluded by singing "God Save the Queen," and three times three for our beloved Sovereign. This probably ended the citizens' reception, the like of which was never before known in this city.

THE BANQUET

at the Windsor Hotel, in the evening, given by the officers of the Montreal corps to their visiting brethren in arms, was a magnificent success. Sir Selby Smyth presided, having on his right the Governor General, and on his left Col. Austin. The speeches of the evening were made by His Excellency, Chaplain Henry Ward Beecher, Sir Selby Smyth, and Col. Austin. The festivities ceased at midnight.

On Sunday St. James Street Methodist Church was crowded with a vast surging throng, long before the hour for divine service when Mr. Beecher was to preach to his regiment. His text was 1st Corinthians, 13th chap. and 13th verse. It was pronounced generally to have been the most eloquent exposition of the divine truth ever delivered by that celebrated preacher. There were over 3,000 persons present.
