

Mayor Stewart Reports Of Federation Conference

The following is Mayor Stewart's report to the City Council of the Conference of the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities of which body he had the honour of being elected President.

"To my mind, the 18th Conference of the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities of which I have the honour of being elected President, was one of the most useful that I have attended.

"It was most significant, in view of the fact it was held just on the eve of the Federal-Provincial Conference, and Municipalities were for the first time allowed the privilege of sitting in at the Ottawa Conference. The fiscal difficulties of Canadian Municipalities received a most thorough discussion, more especially on the existing Municipal tax base. The gist of these discussions was carried to the Federal-Provincial Conference by a great many Mayors across Canada.

"The problem of Municipal finance, however, was not the only subject at the Edmonton Conference. Many panel discussions were held when such matters as Civil Defence, Municipal Personal Services, Urban Governments by uncontrolled fringe area developments, costs of Education, Municipal Public Relations, etc., were discussed.

"Many resolutions were passed at Edmonton, in the hope that measures will be taken to assist the Municipal Government and Municipal taxpayers. The present of the Canadian tax dollar they receive, but the nature of their responsibilities and the system which requires them to pay for all services out of the property tax. Should education and welfare be paid by this tax? Is the Property tax levy equitable and a sufficient method of financing the present day Municipal services? However, Municipal independence must not be sacrificed. The adherence to this principle should determine Municipal choice among alternatives with due regard to the financial position of the particular Provincial Government concerned.

"In other words - should we accept grants from Governments which must be spent according to dictation, and be in the hands of Municipal administration, or should we find other means of financing our City, and have the independence of allocating such money to what we feel in our opinion is best.

Released After 10 Years In Labor Camp

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany (Reuters) - A German woman who arrived here today after 10 years in a Siberian forced labor camp told reporters she had watched the end of a "death ride" in which only 63 of 2,000 German women prisoners survived.

She said the arrival at the women's labor camp at Inta, Siberia, of the transport of women from an East German prison at Torgau in 1945 was "the most horrible thing I have ever seen."

"Two thousand German women left Torgau. Only 63 arrived alive at Inta. The rest died of hunger and exposure on the way."

"I will never forget seeing these women, looking like skeletons, dragging the bodies of their dead friends from the cattle cars in which they arrived at Inta."

Kennel License By-law Is Ruled Ultra Vires

A City bylaw providing that a person may not keep more than two dogs within the City without a kennel license was ruled ultra vires in the Supreme Court yesterday by Mr. Justice M.R. McGuigan. The ruling was made in connection with an appeal by Mr. J.O.C. Campbell, Q.C., counsel for Mrs. Dorothy Fowler, Charlottetown, who had been convicted in the City Magistrate's Court of having in her residence eight dogs. The appeal from the conviction was allowed by Mr. Justice McGuigan without costs when it was argued by Mr. Campbell that the City has no right to pass a bylaw which is not covered by its Act of Incorporation.

Under section 38 of the Act, he pointed out, there was legislation governing the taxing, impounding and running at large of dogs, but nothing about the keeping of dogs in a kennel. Mr. Campbell said that the case in question did not have to do with taxing or with running at large of dogs. He said that evidence pointed to the fact that she kept them within her residence and she was within the law to keep two or ten dogs if she so chose to do.

He argued that the magistrate was not entitled to convict when legislation restricts. "The legislation says that the City may tax dogs. It also states that you must keep your dogs at home and if they are found running at large, they may be killed." He continued, "The pith and substance of this by-law has been directed against my client. It was passed by resolution of a City Council meeting which had no power to pass such a law."

In Memoriam

In loving and tender memory of Mrs. Barton E. Macdonald, who died October 12th., 1954.

Dearest Ethel how I miss you
You were all the world to me.
But from this worlds cares and sorrows
Your dear heart shall now be free.

But I still must struggle onward
With a sad and lonely heart.
And without the help of you dear
Who so nobly done your part.

That gentle loving tender smile
Still lingered on your face,
When in the Casket you did lie
Clasped tight in death's embrace.

Though we did not have the nice things
That many others had,
You never did complain of it,
To make my poor heart sad.

But you always seemed contented
With what we could afford.
About those things you would like
To have
You never said a word.

You were a lady and a Christian,
In every thing in life,
And you lived in peace and quietness
For you hated any strife.

How many a poor man's heart
Is bored
By women that complain
Though they tried their best to make the grade
But often all in vain.

In the joyous Christmas season
Of nineteen fifty-three,
You were with us then my darling
And seemed happy as could be.

But as we ate our Christmas dinner
In nineteen fifty-four,
Your dear face was absent from
