

A Tale of the Sea.

Captain Clark, of the American ship Frank N. Thayer, arrived at Plymouth, Eng., on the Cape steamer, by which he was picked up at sea. He relates that the Thayer, was bound from New York with a mixed crew, including two Mauilla seamen. These two men stole upon deck one night, and armed with knives lashed to poles, attacked two officers, killing them instantly. Three sailors, the only ones on deck, were then quickly despatched. Capt. Clark, hearing the shrieks of the crew rushed on deck in his night shirt. The Mauillans slashed him terribly, and he barely escaped with his life. After a desperate struggle, he broke away from his assailants, and rushing to his cabin, he locked himself in. The Mauillans battered down the hatches and kept the captain and crew below deck one day and night. The captain finally fired through a skylight at one of the mutineers and wounded him in the thigh. The man rushed to the side of the vessel and leaped overboard. The other mutineer then went below and fired the cargo, and returning to the deck, jumped into the sea. Terrified with madness, the crew forced their way on deck, lowered a boat and rowed away. The ship was consumed. The crew wandered at sea for a week before they were picked up.

The Modern Babylon.

Rev. Abbott C. Ketrudge, pastor of the third Presbyterian Church, Chicago, recently delivered a sermon in which he made an extraordinary attack on the administration of justice and the supposed immoralities of Chicago. Our wives, he said, are not safe from the hands of the thief, on the principal streets in broad daylight; garroting is an event of every night; burglars ply their nefarious business with little fear of arrest; our police courts, with a few exceptions are a burning disgrace to any civilized community; many of our justices are in open league with the criminals, their decisions are bought and sold, and men who have been entrusted with the high duty of enforcing the law are hand in hand with the criminal classes; their ermine robes are covered with the filth of corruption, and it is well nigh an impossibility for one to gain an honest judgment. The majority of our aldermen, he said, are in the market to the highest bidder, and legislation on any matter is controlled by the price which you can pay to the caricatures of rulers. Of the taxes with which the community is burdened, one-third at least goes into the pockets of corrupt men. The speaker predicted for Chicago the fate of ancient Babylon.
