Copper Mine Shaft Sinking Is Underway

MONTREAL (CP) — British Newfoundland Corporation Limited has reported it has started shaft - sinking at its Whalesback Pond copper prospect in Newfoundland.

The company's annual report said sinking has been under way for about two months. Total expenditures on the prospect in northwestern Newfoundland are $798,966.

The report said the company had a loss for the nine months ended Dec. 31 of $75,937. After deducting $15,237 attributable to minority shareholders, the loss for the period transferred to deficit was $60,036.

The Twin Falls Power Corporation Limited, an associated company, had a profit in the nine-month perod ended Dec. 31 of $158,172, but, as in prior years, its results were not incorporated with British Newfoundland's.

The report said federal government encouragement of long-term contracts for the export of power has "opened the way to serious consideration of markets in the United States" for power produced at the company's Hamilton Falls site in Labrador.

Russians Fail To Obtain Spy

LONDON (Reuters)—The foreign office said here Russian intelligence agents had tried but failed to force a member of the British embassy in Moscow to work for them.

The man had been sent back to London in his own and "in the general interest," the foreign office said.

The foreign office said the Soviet agents had threatened to "disclose an incident in the private life" of the man, Ivor Rowsell.

Rowsell, an administration official, and his wife arrived back in Britan last week.

The foregn office did not specify the "incident."

The foreign office said Rowsell went to Moscow in May last year.

Ottawa Enlarges Statement On Sugar Beet Assistance

OTTAWA (CP) — Returns to Canadian sugar beet producers in 1963 may be determined solely by the value of imported raw sugar if world prices remain as buoyant as at present, the federal agriculture department said here. No support payments may be made.

It issued a statement elaborating on the announcement made Wednesday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the 1963 beet support price on a national basis will remain unchanged from 1962.

The support will be based on the relation over the last 10 years of the average declared value -free on board--of imported raw sugar and the prices received by Canadian beet growers from processors.

The support level for beet growers will continue to be $13.72 per standard ton.

This means that if the average 12-month value of imported raw sugar falls below 4.29 cents a pound, payments will be made by the agricultural stabilization board.

These payments will consist of 1.28 cents on each pound of refined beet sugar for every cent of decline in the average import price below 4.29 cents.

The department said in the current high - price situation, the producers should attempt to get the best possible contracts from processors—at least comparable to the average over the lat 10 years.

This would ensure highest returns.

If world sugar prices stay high, the terms of these contracts may decide all the sugar beet income because no support payments would be made, it said.
